NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 671, entitled:

An Act regulating the custody of records of criminals during trial of cases

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I would like to call your attention to the provisions of this bill, and unless they are satisfactorily explained, I shall vote against this bill and ask the members of the House to do likewise. It is a very short bill and I will read it to you in order to point out what in my mind are the unsatisfactory features of the bill.

That hereafter the custodian of criminal records who has a record pertaining to any defendant on trial in any criminal court of this Commonwealth shall keep the same in his possession and shall not be allowed to surrender hand over or disclose the same to any Judge District Attorney or Counsel during the trial of the said defendant until such record becomes relevant according to the laws of evidence

Section 2 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

I would like to have the sponsor of the bill, or any one who is acquainted with it explain just what this bill intends to do. Under its provisions, no prosecuting attorney or judge would have the right to any of the records to any defendant so far as the preparation of that case is concerned, and any attorney knows that such records cannot go into the record in any case until it becomes relevant, and under this bill, in the preparation of his case, the prosecuting attorney could not get a hold of the record of the man who is on trial.

Mr. McALEER. I am not a lawyer. If I were I could probably give you some good reason why you should pass this bill or some good reason why you should defeat it. I was asked to introduce this bill by a Philadelphia lawyer, and the explanation he gave me was that he did not think it proper when a man is placed on trial for a particular offense that he should at the same time be placed on trial for his entire past life. I would suggest that you men who are lawyers and who ought to have some experience and know something about this particular kind of legislation, would take it up and discuss it among yourselves. I simply allowed the bill to get this far to bring it to the attention and the consideration of the House, and I trust that you will give it intelligent consideration and vote for it.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that this bill goes a little too far in the protection of people who are under indictment charged with some sort of crime. All of you who are attorneys know that there is a pretty heavy burden cast upon the district attorney at the present time in the ferreting out of crime and in securing the conviction of the people charged with crime, who are under indictment and who are being tried. You all know very well that the Commonwealth has the burden of proving the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, and it seems to me that legislation of this kind ought not to be thrown upon the Commonwealth to prevent them from securing convictions where convictions of crime ought to be secured, and I, gentlemen, am opposed to this sort of legislation.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 553, (Senate No. 12), entitled:

An Act supplementary to an act entitled "An Act for the protection of the public health by prohibiting the sale, offering for sale, exposing for sale or having in possession with intent to sell of eggs unfit for food as therein defined, and prohibiting the use of such eggs in the preparation of food products; providing penalties for the violation thereof, and providing for the enforcement thereof," approved the eleventh day of March, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and nine, providing for the denaturing by kerosine of all eggs unfit for food within the meaning of said act, and providing penalties for the violation thereof.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. STEIN: Mr. Speaker, I intended when this bill was on second reading to offer certain amendments to it. Unfortunately I was unable to get in touch with Senator Jones to agree on what sort of amendment was needed. I would, therefore ,ask that you kindly postpone further consideration of this bill until such time as the Senator and myself can get together and determine upon what is really necessary.

Mr. GANS: Mr. Speaker; I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 678, entitled:

An Act to provide for the assessment of poll taxes in cities of the first class by officers of registration of electors for the preparation and distribution of lists of taxables by the county commissioners and for the abolition of the office of assessor of electors for purposes of taxation in such cities.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, at the request of the sponsor of this bill, I move that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. COX: Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.
The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 680, entitled:

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. W. H. WILSON: Mr. Speaker, for the same reason as given on Bill No. 678, I request that the further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.
Mr. MOORE: Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.
It was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGES.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate which were laid on the desk.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 589, entitled:

An Act to abolish for the purposes of municipal assessment and taxation of real estate the distinction between built-up rural and farm property.

Mr. COX: Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.
It was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House had passed the same without amendment.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the consideration on Third Reading of H. R. Bill No. 280, entitled:

An Act regulating the reading of the Holy Bible in the public schools of this Commonwealth.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I regret that I am compelled to occupy your attention for a few moments in opposition to this bill, and I fully realize that I am doing something extremely unpopular and perhaps undesireable to most of the gentlemen of this House, but I ask you men to hear me patiently for but a few moments, and hear me for my cause, and be silent that you may hear. The bill under consideration as offered by my very good friend Mr. Lowers from Braddock, proposes that ten verses of the Holy Bible shall be read every morning in every public school by the teacher, without comment; that upon the failure of that teacher to so read the bible, it shall be cause for dismissal without further complaint. Now, gentlemen, I ask you first, and I ask you in a spirit of honesty and fairness, and because I want to say it before my friend from Braddock has a chance to reply, that I am second to no man in the House in my reverence for the Bible and its teachings and in my support and respect for the public institutions of our Commonwealth, but I sincerely believe, and I believe with a firm and honest and conscientious conviction that this bill is unAmerican and will create no good, but on the contrary may open the door to a great deal of religious controversy. In the first place, the bill calls for the reading of the Holy Bible, and at the very first inception of the Act, I say to you, whose Bible shall be read? You gentlemen know that the Holy Bible ordinarily means the King James version, or the Reformed version, and that is the only one that is acceptable to the Protestants. The Catholic says that the only true version is the Douay version, and that that is the only version acceptable to him. The Jews says that he will not subscribe to either of these versions, and the atheist, who has just as much political right to his opinion as the religious man, says, "Away with all the versions. I will have my own opinions as to what is contained in the Bible." When you say the Holy Bible, you are not limiting it to any particular one, but you are taking only one version, and that version is according to the religious belief of the teacher who reads the Bible. The Catholic teacher will necessarily read the Bible that is acceptable to her because she believes that it is the only one that reflects her shade of thought and faith. The Protestant teacher will read the reformed version, the Jew will read her version, and the atheist will do the same. Now, my friends, can't you see that this is opening the door to a very dangerous and undesireable and un-American discussion. We believe that church and state should be separate, and the very foundations of our government are erected upon that theory. But my friend from Braddock will reply to that, and I also expect that my friend from Beaver will have some remarks to make on the floor of the House. But I want to say to you that your convictions are no stronger than mine, or the people of my district, and if we want to be true liberty-loving Americans, we have no right to open up a religious discussion in the public schools. My friend will say that this bill merely calls for a reading of the Bible without comment. This you very well know, that the Bible in the hands of a scoffer can be held up to ridicule and contempt, but if read with reverence and respect can be made a great moral teacher. How shall it be read? With insinuation and innuendo and disbelief, as will be the case if it is in the hands of an atheist? Can you expect the Protestant to read the Catholic version with that true reverence and respect that is demanded, or can you expect the Jew and Catholic to read other versions than his own in the proper manner, such as only can be done in the privacy of the home? The father and the mother are the proper persons to properly give the children religious instruction, and this should not be done in the public schools.

You men seem to forget that the public school is supported by the equal taxation of all classes of people. Every citizen of the country is called upon to share in this taxation, and gladly responds to the taxation for school purposes. I ask you men if you should occupy public time with sectarian matters. You must remember that the reading of the Bible is sectarian, according to the views of the teacher reading it. I would like to advance another argument. This question was thoroughly discussed by the framers of the School Code, and very intelligently and honestly and fairly debated. After careful consideration, the framers of the Code decided not to put this question in the bill. And I think that the school code is one of the best pieces of legislation ever enacted by a Legislature of this State, with the exception of a few slight changes which we hope to make at this session, If these men, after carefully considering the matter, left it out of the code, should we not respect their opinions on a matter so sacred to all men, and avoid the religious discussin that would of necessity follow. Last session I was in a hopeless minority, and may be in this session, but I want to ask you to give this matter reverent and careful consideration, and if you men think my arguments are right, notwithstanding the eloquent appeals that may come from the other side, I would ask you gentlemen to agree with me in either having the action on this bill postponed for the present, or vote it down.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I had risen in my seat at the time the gentleman from Allegheny began to speak, and he has entirely voiced my sentiments in this matter, and has stolen my thunder. I have had some practical experience in public schools, having started in the lowest grade at school and taught my way into a college preparatory high school before I took up the study of law. It has been an actual matter of experience among teachers that the reading of the Bible in public schools would start a turnoil among the members of the school board and the teachers and the families in a very short time, and I think that if this bill were passed, that it would be one of the most unwise pieces of legislation that was ever written on the statutes of Pennsylvania. I had this experience at the first school to which I was appointed. I went there with a feeling that I was going to fail. I found after a careful investigation that the whole trouble had been brought about by a teacher of a different faith than that of the majority of the children, and the families who had been reading the Holy Bible in the morning exercises. I corrected that mistake, if it may be so-called, and if I may be permitted to say it myself, when the time came for my re-appointment every one of the people signed my petition for re-appointment for no other reason than that that distasteful evil had been corrected. I have talked to the teachers at institute, and normal schools, and they have expressed themselves that if they were compelled to get up before a school in which there is a diversified opinion as to religion and were compelled to read the Holy Bible, they would resign their positions. I do not mean to say for a momenut that I am not in favor of bringing the religious teachings and the teachings of God as prominently before the people as possible, but I do not believe that this matter should be brought into the public schools. As I said before, this is a dangerous piece of legislation and should be voted down.

Mr. LOWERS. I think I can accept the apology of my friend from Allegheny for assailing this measure. His speech as a whole will answer its purpose. I cannot find it in my heart to find fault with him for taking the stand that he does on this measure. I believe many of us, if we were in his district and represented his people, would do likewise. As I said, I believe he has fulfilled his obligations to his people. I have been pleased to note that during the course of discussion upon various propositions before this body that my good friend from Allegheny saw fit to quote this Grand Book of law to sustain his arguments. I congratulate him upon having done so. This act was introduced in the 1911 session, and at that time my friend from Allegheny also registered his objection. This measure passed this body with but fifteen dissenting votes at that time. The bill was then sent to the Senate, and died there in Committee. The Bible itself needs no defense and I have prepared some comments upon the provisions of this act.

The reading of the Bible in the public schools is a prerequisite to the moral educational training of school boys and girls. Education is admitted to be of the very greatest importance under all forms of government, especially when the people govern themselves. It certainly follows that, in order to have the wisest and most advantageous administration of public affairs in the interest of the people, moral instruction must accompany educational teaching.

In teaching morals in the public schools we want the highest standard of morality. Where can it be found? There is no standard so high, so pure and so elevating as that contained in the Holy Bible.

From Mount Sinai to the Sermon on the Mount, from the Ten Commandments to the beatitudes and the golden rule, runs a rich stream of pure, crystal morality. The Holy Bible is replete with the heights of conscientious discharge of spiritual and earthly duty.

There is but one universally accepted Bible, open to all who wish to read it. It is unsectarian. It is the Bible of our early colonial fathers and to which, in their sublime belief and discharge of moral obligation, is ascribed all of their splendid achievements in the cause of civil and religious liberty and good government.

One of the first things the colonial fathers did was to provide schools for teaching the children, with the open Bible therein. The publication of the version of the Holy Scriptures in the year 1611 (King James version) associated it with the early colonies of the English people upon this continent. It became at once the Bible of our American forefathers. Its classic English has given shape to American literature. Its spirit has influenced American ideals in life and laws and government.

The Bible itself is not sectarian. It only becomes so by interpretation. All sectarian religious belief and creeds are gleaned from it, yet it, itself, is free from sectarian bias. Its pages are open to all people and it is known all over the civilized world as "The Christian Bible."

In keeping with that thought and the appreciation of the fact that this great country of ours is compelled to assimulate the people of all other nations; schools should be created for the boy and girl of today, who are the man and woman of tomorrow, to instruct them educationally and morally. The children who come from other shores lack the moral and educational training necessary to become a part of this great country of ours. Those of us who live in a populous district know that in our schools there are at least fifty per cent. of the pupils coming from these homes. What do we find there? We find nothing but filth and squalor and an absolute absence of any moral training. You can appreciate the necessity of giving them not only the educational but also the moral training to enable them to take up their duties of citizenship and those of the home. Therefore I say this is not a sectarian, but a moral measure, and should become a law of this great Commonwealth of ours.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I desire to take exception to the statements made by the gentleman from Erie, the school teacher. I have been engaged in the school business in all lines for possibly twenty-seven years. And, during that time, in a county which now has two hundred and thirty-one thousand people, and at the time I was county superintendent, there were nine hundred teachers and about thirty-five thousand pupils, I never heard, to the best of my knowledge, any criticsm of the reading of the Bible in the public schools. I want to say further to the gentlemen who take exceptions to the matter of the reading of the Bible by saying there is a certain faith known as the Roman Catholic Church which is opposed to the reading of the Bible in the public schools, that it has been my observation and my experience that the Roman Catholics are not at all as narrow in their views as some people would have us believe. I have had at least thirty-five or forty Roman Catholic teachers in the public schools, and I have never had the experience of one of those teachers objecting to the reading of the Bible in the public schools, and, therefore, as a teacher, I take exception to the gentleman from Erie when he states that trouble occurs by reason of the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Joseph Gray.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, contrary to what the gentleman from Westmoreland has said with regard to this vote, I will say that there is trouble that arises from this practice. It may not been in his experience but some of us have had this experience. The gentleman from Allegheny who introduced this bill, after stating that it is not a sectarian bill, immediately says that there is only one actually, generally accepted Bible and he proceeds to tell us what the version of that Bible is. I must say to the gentleman that I don't think he is entirely correct. At least, there is a very large population in this country and in other parts of the world who won't accept that version but as this applies to us, I want to say to the gentleman that I don't agree with his statement. For instance, I might mention some things that is in the version that he refers to that I don't agree with, because they are not in the version that I use. I cannot go any further than to the Lord's Prayer and the "Our Father" as we call it. His version as I understand it is different from ours which is "For Thine is the power and the kingdom and the glory" if I am wrong, the gentleman will correct me, and whoever uses one or the other says that it is correct. This is the belief and parents do not send their children to a school where it is taught because they don't want their children taught in that school because they say , "It is wrong". From our point of view, there are a very large number of errors in the version he mentions. Perhaps, there are some other things in regard to the Bible that I could mention, but if this is the only book or Bible to be used as the moral feature you might as well pass an act that would probably give us as good teaching and demanding that it should be read. For instance, the Korean of the Mohammedans or of the tents of Marcus Aurelius; you might take any of those works and say they shall be read in the public schools if it is only on the ground of morality. But there is something back of this besides that. There is not sufficient reason for this bill to be enacted. We naturally stand on the ground that this is a Christian Nation but do you gentlemen realize that there is only about twenty-three per cent. of the people of Pennsylvania and of the United States who belong to a Christian denomination of any kind? That is including all Christian denominations; all religions of all kinds; only about one-third of the people in Pennsylvania, I don't know exactly about Pennsylvania particularly but I will make it one-half, then I will be sure of being in the right, who believes in the Bible and among those people there may be those whom the gentleman says are non-sectarians. The gentleman says that this is non-sectarian and that the Bible can produce nothing but good and it teaches only good morals by the reading of it. I want to say in answer to the gentleman, that the taking of the Bible and the reading of it has caused an infinite amount of trouble and the man who follows that through will often find himself in chaos. We have that to-day and you gentlemen all know it. I don't see why you who have certain things in your Bible should insist that I should read that Bible when I don't agree with all that is in your Bible or I do not see why my children should be asked to read that Bible, as I have no right to ask you to read the Bible in which I believe. You have no right to cram that down in my throat any more than I have any right to make you swallow something that you don't want and I think that it is only fair that this should be recognized. I think that it is un-American that we impose upon each other in that way. I don't want you gentlemen to think that I am opposed to the Bible but I want you to know and I want you to think that I am opposed to anything in which I have not the same faith and that I want to stand by that and I want to see you do the same thing. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, the gentleman who represents the Jewish views in this matter has given you perfectly sound and logical reasons why this bill should not be enacted, as I view it. I think the gentleman's views are entirely correct. I don't want to force something on him and he don't want to force something on me. He is a tax payer as I am a tax payer, and he has the right to demand something and has a right to demand something for the raising of his children, the same as we have and if we insist on this kind of measure, we are not standing in the line of so-called wide kindness, and breadth, and liberality of American citizenship. That will not be our position if we are going to force each other into something which is not desirable. Finally and ultimately, we cannot get the children into any school who will not ask the teacher questions and some questions will come up and immediately the child will ask questions. What is the teacher going to do? Will she say I don't dare make any comments and the child will say, "That is strange." I think that is one great reason why this bill should be defeated.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker, I don't see why the book which stood the criticism of ages should be prevented from being read in a public school. I don't see why the book that has stood the test of ages should be eliminated from the public schools. I don't believe sectarianism should be injected into this question. If you are going along on that line you would eliminate it entirely by and by. I don't believe that the members of this House will agree that the Bible shall not be read in the public schools or that we shall legislate against it. There is not one of these men who discussed this question that has told us that it has done any injury and I want to say to you; there are plenty of homes in this broad land of ours, and I dare say in the State of Pennsylvania where the Bible is never read. Why should not the boys and girls who go to our schools be allowed to hear certain portions of the Bible read? I have been teaching in the public schools of this State for the past twenty-six years, or within a very small portion of twenty-six years, and I have yet to find the first case where any trouble has arisen from the reading of the Bible in the school. If there is any trouble on this score it is where you invite trouble. I have been in schools where there were Jews and Catholics and Protestants and all kinds of foreigners; there was a large foreign element there and there is not one that has ever objected to the reading of the Bible in the schools in the twenty-six years that I have been in the teaching profession. I have not had one pupil who has objected to the reading of the Bible in the public schools. I believe it is right and I believe it is the right thing to do, to read from any book which has language like this: "Train up a child the way it shall go and when he is old, he will not depart from it then; show our sons to be as grown-up plants in their youths and our daughters as the corner stones polished after the similitude of a palace." I take this from the Bible and could you object to a book that has such literature as that in it? Is there one man on the floor of this House that would object to that? I don't think there is one on the floor of this House who would take exceptions to sentiment like that. I intend to support this because I belive that I am right. I want further to say that there was not one opponent in attendance when the Committee passed upon it—there was not one there to object to it. There were others there who agreed to stand up for their rights and I wish you gentlemen of this House to stand by it and pass this bill.

Mr. WILDMAN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. The gentleman from Allegheny has quoted from the great moral teachers and I wish to say that I received my inspiration from the great Teacher himself. He said. "Render unto Ceasar the things that are Ceaser's. To God, those that are God's." The public schools are the Institutions that belong to Ceasar. The Bible tells us to go to the Church. I belive that the proper place for the teaching and reading of the Bible is the church and the Sunday-school but not in public school which is maintained by the popular expense of the people.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I expect to vote against the bill and I want to give you my reasons. In fact, I want to be put on record and my reasons are these: —From what has been said by those who are in favor of the bill, it appears in those communities where it is acceptable and causes no dissension the Bible is now freely read or can be. I know very well and I want just to read you what the framers of the Constitution had in mind. The first line that they put when they framed the constitution of this government, they had in mind the idea to avoid dissension that arose from Church and State being mixed together. The very first line says this, "Congress shall make no law respecting the establishment of religion." I recollect well, when I was a boy that we had a teacher of a different faith from my own and from that I have my opinions of the effect. My faith is Protestant and it was the talk of the neighborhood, when a teacher of the Roman Catholic faith was appointed, as to whether she was going to read the Catholic Bible or the Bible to which we had been accustomed. The passing of this statute raises in my mind and will raise in the minds of some people in sections of our State religious propositions that will creep into the public schools. It is practically a part of the State. It is just as essentially a proper thing to keep out of the public schools as it is to keep these proposition out of any legislative body. I look upon this kind of legislation as mingling church affairs with affairs of State and I agree exactly with the gentleman to my right upon this point. We are simply going to have consequences that don't need to arise unless we pass a statute of this character which affects our public schools. I can say that there are many sections in which there can be no harm in reading the Bible in the public schools but there are other places where it will not serve the purpose for which it is intended and in some sections there may be quarrels arising that are otherwise absolutely unnecessary.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Ramsey.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I had expected at the beginning of this session that my colleague, the Representative from Delaware County, (Mr. R. J. Baldwin) would get upon the opposite side. I didn't expect however that he would go there upon this question of reading the Bible in the public schools. I too, like my colleague, Mr. Baldwin, prefer to be put upon the record as favoring this legislation. I don't agree with the gentleman when he says that we are not to legislate on religious questions. I don't agree with some of the other gentlemen who have spoken upon this question. The gentleman from Allegheny who has referred to the great amount of time that is taken up in legislating on the School Code of 1911 in which he stated, the framers of that great code worried with this question for a number of days and decided to eliminate it from that code. I don't care when he says that that code is almost perfect. I don't think that that is any more un-American, than it was for the framers of that Code, if you please, to place in that act the power to appoint school directors in one section and elect them in another. That was not un-American and I don't believe that the gentlemen of this House would think so either. This is not a religious question, gentlemen, and I believe that there will be great good come from it. I believe that it is a matter worthy of trial if nothing else. The Legislatures come and go from time to time and enact laws and then come back and repeal them and there have been demands for such legislation as this many times before this session and I hope that the gentlemen, no matter whether he be a Protestant or whether he be a Catholic or whether he be a Jew, will see fit to vote for this bill, that it may become a law and see then if the predicted troubles of the opposition will materialize that have been set before us to-day. I don't believe they will. I trust that we shall all vote and I appeal to you to vote for this measure that we may have the Holy Bible read each day in our public schools.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Centre, Mr. Gramley.

Mr. GRAMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I wish to preface my remarks by saying that if this bill now before us in its present shape is brought to a vote, I shall vote Aye. But I believe that we can pour oil on the troubled waters in districts perhaps, of Pennsylvania, where the majority of the children are of a different faith. There might be some amendment introduced which would adjust the possible differences that might occur. When I was a boy, I was taught to read the Bible. My father and my mother required me to read the Bible but they would have punished me if I had read anything but the King James Version. I was not taught that any of the other versions were wrong and I do not thing that they are wrong. But I believed it in my childhood; I believed in the King James Version, but by that I do not believe now that every other version is wrong. I am frank to say that before I changed my mind, upon that question, I was a pretty big boy. I am to-day reading the King James Version. I wish to give you a little experience of mine. I had the pleasure of being superintendent of the Center County Schools for almost thirteen years. I had two hundred and eighty-seven teachers under my care and possibly of that number, there were two hundred and eighty-five teachers who were advocates of the King James Version. Possibly I had ten teachers of different faiths; teachers who didn't like the King James Version because they were accustomed to some other version and because they were required to teach our version, they did it but did it under protest. I have now in hand one particular school taught by a Methodist girl and that school was made up of sixty-one pupils. Out of that number, possibly from forty-six to forty-seven were of a different faith. They had no faith in the King James Version. This teacher was determined to use the King James Version. The parents of the forty-six pupils simply said to these boys and these girls, to the students who went to that school "Stay outside of the school room in the morning until after the devotional exercises. Don't enter the house until that is over." This teacher in her enthusiasm was determined to compel attendance and she failed ignominusly. Perhaps she was not prudent. Disturbance rose in the community and I was compelled to take action in my official capacity. I scarcely knew how to get out of it. I went into it, however, and fortunately for me I became cognizant of the fact that a publishing house in Chicago published a book costing about thirty-five cents, containing bible extracts, that had nothing that was offensive to a Jew or a Catholic or a Protestant and had the sanction of the Catholic Father, a Jewish Rabbi and a Methodist Preacher. I recommended the book and the teacher accepted that Book, so the difficulty was settled, and everything went along harmoniously. I would suggest that this bill be amended so that the teachers in any community or in any section of any denomination would be all right. I believe that we can settle this difficulty with satisfaction, if we go about it in the right way. If the House should determine to pass this bill as it now stands, I shall vote Aye, but I would prefer to postpone the bill for the present. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that we postpone action for the present on this bill.

Mr. DONAHOE. I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. SWIFT: Mr. Speaker, I have not very much to say. My friend from Allegheny has called me out and I might be misinterpreted if I did not walk out. I am in favor of this bill simply because of what it contains. I cannot agree with many of the speakers who interpret this bill or this reading as merely an expression of faith or a teaching of a particular faith. It does not imply anything of the sort.

May I read:

"It is in the interest of good moral training of a life of honorable thought and of good citizenship that the public school children should have lessons of morality brought to their attention during their school days. Therefore be it resolved," etc.

Is there a man on this floor Mr. Speaker who will affirm for a moment that the reading of this Book of all books would be against the morals of any boy or girl? This book, and I wish now at this point to refer to that thought that was expressed by my friend from Allegheny, that it is un-American. Why, my friends, the birth of this American nation of ours, its very principles and its very teachings are recognized in the founding of this nation which we call American and which we love. This book lies at the foundation of all moral teaching and nations and peoples and tongues have recognized this, and the people that have recognized this as being the foundation of all morals, have risen to the greatest height, standing without their peers in history. And shall we, at this day and age, conclude that this book is a menace; that it is wrong in principle; that it offends certain individuals with certain ideas? Gentlemen, I wish to call your attention to this one fact and I am done.

Let us remember that we are to teach and to legislate for morals as well as money; that we are here to stand by the principals that this great book of morals teaches, and I wish to say further that we cannot be mistaken if we shall follow the teachings of this great Teacher who was quoted a moment ago, "Render unto Ceasar the things that are Ceasar's and unto God the things that are Gods."

This is God's book, and, if we would fulfill that teaching, we are in duty bound, as believers in God to read this Book wherever and whenever it is our privilege. We shall not be rendering unto God the things that belong to him if we shall dare to say to-day in this House that that book shall not be read in our public schools.

I am in favor of the bill.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question on this bill, and when I call for it I stand on this floor and acknowledge that I am a Roman Catholic and want to state that we have given our first born to preach the gospel; but I think this thing is getting too deep and we want it voted on. We do not want any animosity in this House, religious or otherwise.

The SPEAKER. Perhaps the House is ready to vote without taking up the time to move the previous question.

(Calls of Question, Question).

The SPEAKER. The roll call will be verified.

This was done as follows:

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. ALWORTH. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to legislation making it compulsory to read the Bible in our public schools as I do not consider it a proper subject for legislative enactment. The provisions of the bill I consider un-American, puritanical, and impractical as applied to schools composed of children of various religious beliefs. I would oppose legislation forbidding the reading of the Bible in our public schools. I am equally opposed to making it compulsory by legislative enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BROWNLEE. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, this act amends the act of 1909 by changing the limitations of the amount of money that may be expended by the various townships of the first class, from a gross amount of three thousand dollars to one and one-half mills of the valuation. The Boroughs of this Commonwealth vary in population from 100 to 27,000. They vary in value from less than $100,000 to $15,000.000. The limitation under the old act is ample for the smaller townships, but insufficient for the large boroughs, and we submit that change in limitations to one and one-half mills on the valuation is fair and equitable and in many cases will be a great relief.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affrmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 619, as follows:

An Act to amend the fourth paragraph of Section seven of an act entitled "An Act to provide for the classification of the townships of the Commonwealth with respect to their population into two classes and to prescribe the form of government for townships of each class" approved the twenty-eighth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the fourth paragraph of Section seven of an Act of Assembly of this Commonwealth entitled "An Act to provide for the classification of the townships of the Commonwealth with respect to their population into two classes and to prescribe the form of government for townships of each class," approved the twenty-eighth day of April Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine which reads as follows:

"Fourth. To make regulations respecting pig pens slaughter houses manure pits drains cesspools and manufactories that are offensive to abate nuisances prejudicial to public health and public safety and to collect the cost of such abatement from any person who may be responsible for having created the nuisance Also to prohibit or regulate the running at large of animals" shall be amended to read as follow.:

Fourth. To make regulations respecting pig pens slaughter houses manure pits drains cesspools cemeteries or places of burial and manufactories that are offensive to prohibit within the township the burial or interment of deceased persons or within such partial limits within the same as they may from time to time prescribe and to regulate the depth of graves to abate nuisances prejudicial to public health and public safety and to collect the cost of such abatement from any person who may be responsible for having created the nuisance Also to prohibit or regulate the running at large of animals To prevent the spread of fires and to secure structural and sanitary safety of the buildings within its limits every township of the first class of this Commonwealth shall have power by ordinance to establish general regulations for the construction of new buildings and the repair of old ones and to require that before work begins the plans and specifications therefor shall be approved by the township commissioners and to provide for inspection of such construction and repair including the appointment of one or more building inspectors to prescribe limits wherein none but buildings of incombustible materials and fireproof roofs shall be erected or substantially reconstructed or removed thereinto and to provide penalties for violation of such ordinance and building regulations Any building erected reconstructed or removed contrary to the provision of any such ordinance is declared to be a public nuisance and abatable as such.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. JOHN ROBERT JONES. I would like the sponsor of this bill to explain fully the extent of the regulations. In glancing at this bill I find that it is to amend the regulations of townships of the first class, or rather the classification of townships. The fourth section, which is desired to be amended, refers to public nuisances such as sewers and cesspools. And in line twenty of the same section it has reference to the burial or interment of deceased persons within the limits of the townships.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. In the County of Delaware, and very likely in a number of other counties in our State, under the first class regulations of townships, there has grown to be very thickly populated communities. In the County of Delaware I had in mind a settlement known now as Wayne Township which practically is a part of Radnor Township, a first-class township, and a portion of that township has grown up and is so thickly populated that the streets are exactly similar to boroughs, and these streets run parrallel with each other, and they contain more inhabitants than two-thirds of the boroughs of our County. This is an actual necessity, legislation that gives to your townships commissioners powers practically the same as those of the borough council. This bill simply provides that powers already conferred by the statutes be extended and include the regulation of cemeteries or graveyards in these thickly populated districts. It also provides regulations to prevent the spread of fire and to secure the safety of the buildings within its limits, and to establish general regulations for the construction of new buildings and the care of old ones. Almost every borough in this State has supplied or instituted regulations looking to the prevention of the building of frame structures in a well built up section where a single fire may wipe out a whole borough. The necessity of that, of course, is apparent to all of you, to look after the construction of the buildings in a good and substantial manner similar to the laws that now regulate boroughs. In substance this bill simply gives a township of the first class the powers to a larger extent than heretofore, and powers which are essential in these communities. Now, my friend from Schuylkill suggests that the power to regulate the burials in the burial places and the depth of the graves is to his mind one that may perhaps be a question to extent to the commissioners of a first class township. I do not know of any instance in the State of Pennsylvania where the powers exactly similar to these that have existed for years and years could be taken off the statute books to-day, because health is one of the first provisions in any community, and it seems to me somebody ought to have the power. Unless you give this power, as provided for in this bill, you will have today in first class townships no power to regulate this matter. I do not think it is a dangerous power and I cannot conceive of the township commissioners of five or seven men who will deliberately do a wrong to the community by requiring that a cemetery shall be closed or that a grave shall be unnecessarily deep. If you can agree with me on that proposition, I cannot see that there should be any opposition to the bill.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I think this bill as presented to the House at this time in order that a bill in equity that was filed in Delaware County against an institution and a cemetery there by the Court may be at this time may be settled. It so happens in Delaware County that the Archdiocese of Philadelphia purchased a large tract of ground. The township commissioners then filed a bill in equity.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. My impression is that—although I may be mistaken—is that the gentleman has reference to Yeadon Borough.

Mr. RONEY. I am not talking about that borough.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. What township are you talking about?

Mr. RONEY. I do not remember the name of the township, but I read a report of it in the newspaper.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. When did you see this in the paper?

Mr. RONEY. About a month ago. Furthermore this bill would prevent the burial of persons, necessarily deceased persons, in a cemetery within the township limits. Now, outside of the county line in Philadelphia in Yeadon Borough there is a very large cemetery. If the township should pass prohibitive legislation against the further interment of deceased persons here, then that valuable tract of land would become of no use or value to those who paid considerable money for it. I, therefore, say that giving legislation option to township commissioners as proposed in this bill would result in a case of confiscatory legislation.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that the gentleman comes from a municipality that has a law exactly similar to this. It exists in the City of Philadelphia. He would not rise in his seat to ask for its repeal. I cannot see why a member who lives in a municipality where he has this power to have these regulations shall deny that regulation to some other municipality for the power does exist in the City of Philadelphia and all our other cities and all the boroughs of the Commonwealth and exists in the first class townships, such as I have spoken of. I don't see why the power should not be extended to boroughs like ours, and why it should not be extended for the bentfit of the citizens of that community. It is a power that is emphasized in the City of Philadelphia and it is proper legislation and nobody is to blame about it. It is a question extending that power to people in that community that they may exercise the same power that the gentleman and his friends have in Philadelphia and have already exercised.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Delaware seems to forget that we have burial grounds in Philadelphia that are being used for burial purposes now. Only yesterday, my colleague Mr. Wilson from Philadelphia, reported out a bill which enabled a tract of land of two squares which are to be eliminated by petition through the court of Quarter Sessions, because the holders of the property nearby that cemetery are selling their land to be used as a city park. The principal purpose for this legislation at this time is that this valuable cemetery tract was unsuited for cemetery purposes and unsanitary and on that account they were prevented from using that particular cemetery as a proper burying place. I ask the House to vote this down.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. RONEY. Yes, sir.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact, as I stated before, that the municipality of the City of Philadelphia has power to close any cemetery now within the city limits.

Mr. RONEY. In the City of Philadelphia, under this right of Eminent Domain it has the right to close certain cemeteries. As in the case of Twenty-first and Lightner Streets, Philadelphia they were powerless to get at it and a bill was prepared and offered to secure what was desired and by petitions to the Court of Quarter Sessions that property was vacated and through the exercise of Eminent Domain only. You cannot do this excepting in this particular case, where the object was to secure a city park.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to say to the House that any person who has traveled the City of Philadelphia knowns that there are a number of burying grounds that have been closed. I am satisfied of that and anybody that knows anything about it, knows that. I would also like to ask the gentleman the question, whether they were closed by legislative action or by action through the courts?

Mr. RONEY. There is a cemetery on Passayunk Road and Washington Avenue, established about 1800. They disposed of the Passayunk Road and Washington Avenue place and secured a place in an outlying district, outside of the city. It added to the valuation of that property and it was too valuable for that purpose and they bought a property in Delaware County, where they are now and will be in the future. There is a cemetery in Philadelphia, in which my family are buried and when my time comes, I expect to be buried there and there is absolutely no power to legislate that that cemetery shall be put out of existence.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. There are members representing Philadelphia districts that do know that there are burying grounds in the City of Philadelphia that are closed to burying. I know there are there and I know they were closed and I would like to know from the gentleman, as a lawyer whether the city can close those cemeteries.

Mr. RONEY. When a cemetery has become so populated with dead persons, that it is a menace to the public health and where conditions in a particular cemetery are so changed that the bodies are not buried to a certain depth, the further burying of bodies in that cemetery is prohibited and the cemetery is closed.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Has the gentleman any objection to the passage of this bill, if the clause to which he objects is stricken out?

Mr. RONEY. This bill absolutely prohibits the interment of persons in cemeteries about which that sanitary objection cannot be raised.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Would there be any objection if that clause was stricken out?

Mr. RONEY. I would not have any objection.

BILL POSTPONED.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. RONEY. I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have a little explanation of this bill from the sponsor of it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Bergey.

Mr. BERGEY. This bill only extends the present law on boroughs and applies to plumbing.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGEY. Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, if this bill becomes a law will it not make every plumber in every borough and first class township in this Commonwealth pass a certain examination before he can work as a plumber?

Mr. BERGEY. Everybody in our borough desires such a regulation. It extends the Act of June 7th, 1901.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Is it not a fact that if this act becomes a law that it will make a positive duty of this Commonwealth to require in every borough and first class township of a certain class, if a man wishes to become a plumber to pass a specific examination before he can do any plumbing work.

Mr. BERGEY. Yes, sir.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, then it seems to me that the people from the rural districts with a population equal to hundreds of boroughs and first class townships are up against a pretty serious proposition, and I for one cannot support this bill.

Mr. BERGEY. This bill only extends the Act on this subject and prohibits a man from becoming a plumber until he has passed his examination. In fact, a tinner from becoming a plumber. It has also been the practice in a number of municipalities when a plumber gets his work or material condemned they sell these supplies to the boroughs and townships of the first class, thereby bringing about a menace to the health and sanitation of the boroughs, through impractical plumbers and poor plumbing. I feel that the health laws of the State of Pennsylvania are entitled to be extended as we have the right to protection in these matters which we never have under present conditions. We wish this extended the same as in cities of the first and second class, to the boroughs, that they may have the same sanitary advantages which are enjoyed in the larger municipalities.

Mr. SEMMENS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that I am opposed to this bill. I come from a borough where we have from five to six plumbers and I don't suppose that any one of them could pass an examination. I take it that we don't need the same kind of plumbers in boroughs as are necessary in larger cities. We have a good many people who do their own plumbing and under the provision of this bill they can not do it.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I heard this bill discussed in Committee and it seems to me that it is a proper bill. It only applies to such boroughs and townships as have a sewerage system. In boroughs or townships, where work could be done in a proper manner. If anybody will be permitted to do such work indefintely, there is no telling what the sanitary effect will be.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I come from a county where we have eight first class townships. They are just as much rural as a township is that is called a second class township. I don't think that it is absolutely necessary. I know that the people don't want it that way. They do not want that a man must have a license to be a plumber or to do the plumbing in a country house two or three miles away from some other house. It is not necessary at all. I don't think our people want it; they are rural townships although they have a population sufficient to make them first class townships.

Mr. O'NEILL. Mr. Speaker, I think that it is just as necessary that you require an examination for a plumber for plumbing work done in a township, in a city or on a farm and that you have a plumber who knows his business. The gentleman from Montgomery says that there are men who cannot pass an examination who are doing plumbing and if there are they ought to be put out of business. I have been taken up to Berkshire Hills, Massachusetts, to correct plumbing that was done by a tinker, and I say that if a man cannot pass such an examination, he should not be a plumber and that it is just as necessary in a township as it is in a city to have good plumbing. If you pass this bill, you are not hurting anybody, excepting the man that cannot pass it.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

A division was taken, seventy-two voting in the affirmative and seventy-seven in the negative.

And the question was determined in the negative.

And the bill was not agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 540, as follows;

An Act authorizing townships of the first class to lay sewers in and under county and State Highways and providing for the ascertainment levy and collection of the costs and expenses thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That from and after the passage of this act townships of the first class of this Commonwealth shall have power to construct sewers and drains in and under any county or State Highway within the bounds thereof provided that in case of the construction of said sewers upon county highways the consent of the county commissioners of the county wherein said township of the first class is located shall first be obtained and provided that in the case of the construction of sewers upon any State Highway the consent of the State Highway Commissioner first be obtained.

Section 2. Whenever sewers have been or shall be laid or constructed by any first class township in and under such highways such township of the first class is hereby authorized to ascertain levy and collect the costs and expenses of the construction thereof from the abutting property holders in the manner provided by law for the ascertainment levy and collection thereof where sewers are laid in the highways of said township.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. John Elliott Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou art the God of power from whom we receive all energy and strength; Thou art the God of wisdom from whom we receive all enlightement and guidance; Thou art the God of compassion and tenderness from whom we receive the gracious pardon of our manifold sins. We recognize Thee as the fountain and source of all blessing and good, and rejoice that though Thou art in Heaven and we upon earth, yet Thou art ever communicating of Thy fulness to us through that blessed and only Mediator between God and man, the Lord Jesus Christ. We humbly pray that for his sake we may receive every blessing that we need this day. And now we pray for the great capitol of our nation so soon to be the center of attraction for the tens of thousands of people throughout this great nation. Wilt Thou preside in the august and impressive ceremonies so soon to be enacted there, and may nothing occur to disturb or mar in any way the satisfaction and pleasure of this occasion. Bless Thy servant who has so honorably filled his responsible position, and who is now retiring; and Thy servant to be inducted into office. Give unto him the wisdom, and grace and strength which he needs. And we pray for all men in high places throughout the land, for all governors of commonwealths, and speakers of assemblies, and magistrates and judges and law-makers, may they all be good and true men. We commend ourselves now to Thee and to the keeping of Thy providence and grace through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

REPORT OF CONFERENCE COMMITTEE ON CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 14.

Whereas, Certain acts and resolutions passed by the several General Assemblies and approved by their Excellencies Governors Stuart and Tener creating a commission and clothing it with administrative powers said commission being known as The Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg Commission.

Whereas, Limitations have been placed upon the former soldiers of the Civil War who should be invited as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania during July first, second, third and fourth by including only those who participated in the Battle of Gettysburg and who enlisted and served therein prior to July fourth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three.

Whereas, The National Government will provide sanitary tenting quarters and rations for the old soldiers of the Civil War who will be present during the aforesaid period.

Whereas, The exercises upon July first, second, third and fourth upon the Battlefield of Gettysburg will probably be the most impressive ceremony the world has ever known; therefore be it

Resolved (if the House concur), That the Commission of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg be respectfully and earnestly requested to broaden the scope of the provisions made for the attendance as guests of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania upon that historical occasion so as to include all Union soldiers, sailors and marines of the Civil War who enlisted as from the State of Pennsylvania or who are now living in Pennsylvania also such men who served in Pennsylvania commands known as Emergency Troops, also all soldiers who served in the Confederate Army now living in Pennsylvania as citizens of this Commonwealth. JOSEPH ALEXANDER.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the report of the Committee on Conference?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, in order that all of the members of the House, especially the new ones, to whom this proceeding is new and in order that you may understand, I will say that this matter now comes upon the acceptance or rejection of the Conference Committee report. No amendment can be made. The original resolution, as you will recall, provided for the transportation, maintenance and entertainment of those now living in Pennsylvania. That was the way the original resolution was messaged to us from the Senate. We amended that by making it "those who enlisted from Pennsylvania" and striking out "all now living in" and sent it back to the Senate and then the Conference Committee embodied both those enlisted from the State of Pennsylvania or those now living in the State of Pennsylvania. The only narrowing of that broad provision as intended by this House being that the transportation is from the State line to Gettysburg and then the entertainment and maintenance, while in Gettysburg and the transportation back from Gettysburg to the State line, being borne by the State.

I trust the resolution will receive the unanimous support of the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to adopt the report of the Committee on Conference?

It was unanimously agreed to.

Section 2. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act be and the same are hereby repealed.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GEORGE A. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, just a work in explanation of this bill. Under the laws of the State at the present time, companies incorporated under the laws of other States are not permitted to hold real estate unles sthey are specifically allowed by specific Act of Assembly. The class of such companies permitted to hold real estate by statute, from time to time, are iron and steel companies and companies for the sale of mineral water; and many other classes of corporation are permitted to hold real estate in this State. Now, all classes of foreign corporations are permitted to do business in the State, simply by registering in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth. They are permitted to lease real estate necessary and proper for their purposes. This bill simply authorizes all general manufacturing companies organized or incorporated under the laws of other states and doing business in Pennsylvania, to purchase and to hold real estate necessary for their corporate purposes. It seems to me that there is no reason in the world why companies organized under the laws of other states and permitted to do business in this State, permitted to lease real estate, should not be permitted to hold it in fee simple. The same restrictions are cast around the holdings of real estate by these corporations as is cast around the holdings of real estate by companies organized under the laws of our own State. Manufacturing communities like my own, like the Pittsburgh district, are interested in legislation of this kind, and there is no reason in the world why it should not be passed. It is simply common sense, and I ask you to support the bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that further consideration of this bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. KEEGAN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 336 entitled

An Act making it unlawful to use any type of mining machine in the removal of ribs stumps or pillars in any bituminous coal mine in the State of Pennsylvania

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McDERMOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to state why I want this bill passed and who wants it passed and whom it effects. I will read from the statistics compiled by the Hon. Joseph A. Holmes, of the United States Department of Mines; We have accidents occurring from falls of slate, roof and coal, 1,321, or a ratio of 48.58 per cent.; from mine cars and locomotives, 438, or 16.11 per cent.; from gas and dust explosions, 362, or 13.31 per cent.; from powder and other explosions, excepting gas and dust, 134, or 4.93 per cent.; electric accidents, 94, or 3.46 per cent.; mine fire accidents, 80, or 2.94 per cent.; all other accidents, 290. Total accidents, 272,-719, or almost one-half of the total number from falls of roof, slate and coal; almost half of which accidents occured in the mines of the United States in 1910.

Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I come from a mining district, one of the largest coal producing districts in Pennsylvania,—Clearfield County . We have 14,000 miners in that county where the population of the whole county is practically 55,000. We have in the State of Pennsylvania, in the bituminous fields, 175,000 men who are asking for the passage of this bill. Now, then, I will give you the amount of money each man earned in 1911, according to the statistics of the Bureau of Mines of this State. ... the year 1911, the average earning for each miner in the bituminous field was $438, which is a fraction below $1.54 per day, so that you see why we ask for the passage of this Act at this time. When our miners go out in the morning with their dinner pails and bid their families good-bye, we know that a great many of them will never return to their homes or to their families. We all know that we cannot, by passing this law, do away with all the accidents; that would be unreasonable; but we know that we can reduce the number of accidents by making this change, and it will not drive any one operator out of business. Why? Because one-half of the coal produced in the bituminous districts is produced by hand and pick work. Now, then, who would sacrifice our miners' lives for a few dollars. You can readily see how much our miners earned per man in 1911. Is there any fair-minded man in this House who would say that $438 is a good wage? No, there are men in this House who would not go down in the mines for one day for $438, and I do not blame them; I give them credit for not going there. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I ask you to pass this bill for this reason. We think that we are entitled to it. From the number of workmen we have in this State and the few laws that have been passed in our favor, we think we are entitled to the passage of this law at this time. These miners, as I said before, go to work to those dangerous places in the mines. They are doing work where the machinery that is in operation makes such a commotion that the working of the roof could not be heard over the working of those machines. That is the principal reason why we ask you to pass this law at this time, because those miners want to earn a respectable living. They go there and are killed and do not have time to say "O Lord, have mercy," and in the eyes of God I think they are martyrs.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Consitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Moved by Mr. George A. Baldwin that House Bill No. 502, file folio 1009, entitled:

An Act to amend section two of an act of Assembly approved June tenth one thousand nine hundred and eleven entitled "An act to confer power on the several orphans' courts having jurisdiction thereof when the balance for distribution in an estate after the debts are paid includes stocks bonds and other securities to make distribution of the same in kind to parties entitled thereto to authorize subsequent sales thereof and to validate such distributions heretofore made by striking out the provisions thereof requiring the sale and conversion of such securities be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the consideration of the motion at this time? The Chair hears no objection.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, just a word in explanation of this motion. This bill was reported out of the Judiciary Special Committee with the understanding that it would be recommitted to the Judiciary General Committee, on account of another bill of similar import having already gone to the Committee on Judiciary General. Mr. Heidinger, who was to make the motion to recommit, was not in his seat when we reached the regular order for making motions to recommit, and that accounts for the oversight.

The motion was then agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will state to the members of the House that the Clerk has been directed to have cards printed for the use of the members in having persons admitted to the Hall. It is not necessary, however, to use any formal cards.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 5, 1913,

The House met at 8:00 o'clock P. M.

The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. John Elliott Wright, offered the following prayer:

Our God, we are solemnized as we come before Thee. We remember that there is a vacancy in this Assembly, that one of our number has heard God's call coming out of the skies, and has answered to it. In view of this event, we humbly and reverently bow before Thee, the Controller of human life and destiny. Thou dost mark its beginning and Thou dost determine its ending, and we earnestly pray that grace may be given to us to accept God's will and to be brought into harmony with it. We thank Thee for the life of Thy servant, for the work which he wrought, for the record which he made, for the good which he accomplished, and we pray that all this may linger and keep fragrant his memory in the hearts of his fellows and perpetuate his influence. We commend especially unto Thee the circle from which he has been taken. Wilt Thou be the stay in the hearts of those who stood most near to thy servant whilst living, and who are most deeply afflicted in his taking away. "Beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for their mourning, and the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness." May we all remember the brevity and uncertainty of human life that we may work whilst it is day, because the night soon cometh when no man can work, and so we give ourselves again to Thee that we may have that courage and resolution and energy and fidelity, so that when God's call comes to us we may hear from the lips of the Master the blessed words, well done, good and faithful servant enter Thou into the joy of Thy Lord, and Thy name shall have the praise of it for ever more. Amen.

And wilt Thou so direct by Thy counsel and so control by Thy spirit that every measure which is devised and every law which is enacted may be for the honor and welfare of this our Commonwealth, and for the prosperity and peace of the whole nation. We ask this in the name of Him Who taught us to say "Our Father, Who art in Heaven, Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy Kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Give us this day our daily bread and forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. Lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil, for Thine is the Kingdom and the power and the glory forever. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, last Wednesday, February 26th, on Bill No. 9, I filed my reasons for voting aye. I find that all the rest are on the record but mine are not. My reasons were filed in the proper time and therefore, I offer a resolution.

RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE THE PRINTING AND KEEPING OF THE LEGISLATIVE JOURNAL.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution, presented by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Wiltbank.

Mr. WILTBANK. Mr. Speaker, I want to explain myself. We are going to the expense of publishing this Journal. If it is not kept correctly what is the use in us having it at all? I find in several cases that the record is not correct; let us abolish and save this State that expense. We had better do that if it is not going to be correct. My reasons upon this vote were filed; the reasons were passed to the Chief Clerk and passed to the Journal Clerk. Why it is not on the record, I don't know.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will lie over under the rules for printing.

An Act prescribing what elective or appointive offices positions or employments of profit shall be incompatible with the office of a member of either branch of councils in cities of the first class in this Commonwealth and providing a method for its enforcement be placed upon the Calendar notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Committee.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I am not able to find the bill on the file.

The SPEAKER. Under the present rules the bills are not placed on the file until it has been placed on the Calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to placing this bill (just read) on the Calendar of the House, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Committee?

The gentleman from Philadelphia makes a motion.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House. This bill provides that in cities of the first-class Councilmen shall not be permitted to hold positions under the State or County Government. The question is apparently a simple one; it is simply a question of policy in a city of the first class as to what offices a member of a legislative body is entitled to hold. The situation as it exists in Philadelphia is as I will point out to you, Members of Select and of Common Council, holding positions under the county, for which they draw amounts running from twelve hundred dollars a year to six thousand dollars a year. There are also councilmen holding positions under the State as mercantile appraisers and examiners in the State Insurance Department. The list is as follows:

Common Council.

John G. Voight, Jr., second ward, clerk to recorder of deeds, $1,200.

James Ward, seventh ward, clerk, register of wills, $1,200.

George McCudy, tenth ward, real estate deputy sheriff, $6,000.

Dr. Thomas J. Morton, twentieth ward, coroner's physician, $2,500.

George J. Van Houten, twenty-second ward, orphans court tipstaff, $1,500.

Robert S. McElroy, thirtieth ward, executive clerk, sheriff's office, $2,000.

T. Crawford Cook, thirtieth ward, quarter sessions court tipstaff, $2,000.

Select Council.

Charles J. Pommer, first ward, district attorney's detective, $1,700.

William J. Harrington, fourth ward, clerk to register of wills, $2,000.

Thomas J. McGinnis, sixth ward, real estate assessor, $3,000.

William Reuter, twelfth ward, fee clerk quarter sessions court $1,400.

John F. Flaherty, thirteenth ward, clerk of quarter sessions court No. 1, $3,000.

George D'Autrechy, seventeenth ward, clerk, recorder of deeds, $1,500.

Edward Buchholz, nineteenth ward, real estate assessor, $3,000.

William E. Finley, thirty-ninth ward, real estate assessor, $3,000.

Harry C. Ransler, second ward, mercantile appraiser, fees about $6,000.

James B. Sheehan, twelfth ward, mercantile appraiser, fees about $6,000.

Frank J. Gummiskey, twenty-fifth ward, examiner state insurance department salary not known.

You must remember that Philadelphia is peculiar in view of the fact that that city is co-termious with the county. There is no distinction in the mind of an ordinary man on the street between a county officer and a city officer. It is in fact frequently necessary to have the question decided by the courts before we can say whether an officer is under the jurisdiction of the county government or the city government. We have now and have had for a great many years a rule that no councilman shall hold an office of profit under the city at the same time that he holds his office as a member of Council. We have the same rule applying to our Legislators here in Harrisburg. Every man who comes here is compelled to give up any office of profit that he may hold under the State or under the Federal government. Why should not the same reason apply to the holding of State and county offices by Councilmen? You can imagine the position of the members here in voting on the appropriation of funds for the use of any department of this State and who is drawing a salary as an employe of that department. A member that is employed in an office of Philadelphia County and drawing salary for such office, if he is a member of city councils, will be called upon to pass on the appropriation of funds for the expenses just as we are called upon to appropriate annually for the departments of the State of Pennsylvania.

In Philadelphia, the principal duty of Councilmen is the passage of appropriation ordinances. They appropriate a sum equal to that which we here appropriate for the expenses of this Commonwealth. It seems highly improper that those men presumably independent legislators, elected to represent their constituents and to act independently of the administrative departments of the government, should hold positions of profit under the control of and by the grace of the heads of those departments. Without going any further, Gentlemen of the House, the problem should be perfectly clear to you. It merely comes down to the question, can any legislative body be free and entirely clear of the control of any administrative department, so long as they are employees of that administrative department and as long as they hold positions of profit under it. I, therefore, ask you, Gentlemen of the House, in the interests of good government to place this bill upon the Calendar, notwithstanding the negative recommendation of the Committee.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to call the attention of the members of the House to the remark made by a former member of Common Council who, in voting for or against a certain member—he happens to be an employee of the Sheriff's office—in voting he said he did not know whether that would be the end of his political career or not, showing clearly that he feared the influence in Council, and at the same time other influences as to whether or not he could retain his position in the particular office that he held.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I cannot remember a case previous to this where the chairman of a committee has been compelled to ask the House to put on the Calendar a bill negatived by his own committee. It is not pleasant for me to do it now. I do not like that it should appear publicly that there is any difference of opinion between the members of an otherwise harmonious committee, but when a bill of this great importance was rejected in his committee, it seemed to me right that it should be reported negatively by my committee. I cannot but rise and request that the majority of the House vote upon this bill as a whole.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I can hardly refrain from saying a word in reply to the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walnut. I have the honor of being a member of the Committee that passed negatively on this bill. This bill was given a thorough hearing before the committee and not only Mr. Walnut appeared there, but I believe that one of the officials of the county and city government appeared before it. I strongly object, members of the House, to blowing hot and cold upon any measure that is presented before us for consideration, and I dare say that you men will object in turn to any measure presented to us that is simply based on some false theory and for which there seems to be no immediate necessity, desire or want on behalf of anybody except those theoretical statesmen. The gentleman who introduced this bill said before the committee that he wanted it distinctly understood that Mayor Blankenburg, of Philadelphia, who was vitally interested in this measure—and we have proof of that fact by reason of the statement contained in the public press—did not want the committee to misunderstand the fact that he had any grievance or any complaint against any member of council, including those who held positions under the city or county. Now, if there is no complaint, why the measure? Our Councils are a large body. You men know that. There are only fourteen against whom complaints could be made, however, and it is a fact known to every man who comes to Philadelphia County, and I dare say to a great many outside the county, that not one of those men votes on any measure which concerns his personal department. Now, the councilman in Philadelphia is not a paid official, as are the members of the Legislature. We get our salaries and there is no reason in the world why we should get another salary from another source. That is not true in Philadelphia. A man who holds a councilmanic position holds it as a position of honor. Now, Philadelphia, as I stated, has but fourteen of these men. They don't hold positions directly under any city department that are or can be co-terminus with the city. And it makes no difference, because the duties of the county officials are quite different from those of the State officials. The receiver of taxes, the city treasurer or the county commissioners have nothing in common with the mayor and his administrative offices. Never before has this complaint been made in any specific instance and I call any member on the floor of this House to show me why the complaint is made. They do not show you that such and such a councilman has done such and such a thing by reason of holding office. Now, why should we act on the measures which have only existence in the theories or minds of those men who want to produce some particular legislation? Why don't they bring us specific facts and show us that it is a bad policy and that it works dishonestly? Is it wrong for a man to earn his livelihood and still represent his neighbors in the halls of council? You don't pay the man to hold office. He is a man that is elected to his position. His neighbors have confidence in him. He knows their needs and their wants. Why deprive him of his livelihood? The entire measure, gentlemen of the House, is based on false premises. There is no sound logic submitted to this House and no specific complaint under it to show damage done. There is no danger, therefore why do we need a remedy. I would strenously urge, gentlemen of the House, that this bill be defeated by an overwhelming vote, in support of this committee who gave this bill a great deal of attention, as the chairman of the committee has said.

Mr. JAMES A. DUNN. Mr. Speaker, I am heartily in favor with the remarks made by my good friend from Philadelphia. The councilmen of that county, we are aware, were elected by the people. They receive, as the gentleman said, no saalry whatever. Their service is for the good of that particular county, and it seems to me that the mayor of our county is interested in the act before us. It seems inconsistent that reference should be made to this particular county where the councilmen are elected by the people. I wish to read an editorial from one of the evening papers, only last evening, which shows the inconsistency of the mayor of Philadelphia in regard to the elective office, and then in regard to an appointment of an advisory committee for him in that particular city:

"The Evening Times is informed that its list of the mayor's advisory board was in error in that it contained the name of Effingham B. Morris, who has resigned from the mayor's advisory board, and did not contain the name of C. S. W. Packard, who is a member of that board.

"The Evening Times gladly makes the correction, substituting the name of Mr. Packard for the name of Mr. Morris.

"The net result of this charge, however, is not much in favor of the common people. The following are the interests officially represented by C. S. W. Packard, banker, a member of Mayor Blakenburg's advisory board, and the capacity in which Mr. Packard serves these interests:

Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank, Director.
The Pennsylvania Company, president and director.
Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, director.
Farmers' and Mechanics' National Bank, Director.
Fourth Street National Bank, director.
Franklin National Bank, director.
Philadelphia Saving Fund Society, manager.
Philadelphia Warehouse Company, director.
Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, trustee.
Insurance Company of North America, director.
Chesapeake and Delaware Canal Company, director.
Westmoreland Coal Companw, director.

"The average man will have to make liberal use of his imagination to bring himself to the belief that in whatever advice this member of the mayor's advisory board may have to offer the affairs of Big Business and Special Privilege will suffer.

"And there is the outrage of all of the mayor's kitchen cabinet. The men themselves are examples of personal rectitude, but they represent interests and corporations that have exploited the people of this city for years.

"It is silly, an insult to any man's intelligence, to contend that the directors of these expoliting corporations are going to advise Mayor Blakenburg to pursue any policy that will stop the infamous practices of these corporations.

"Wherever the interests of the P. R. T. and the interests of the public conflict, does any one suppose that E. T. Stotesbury, managing director of the P. R. T.; C. S. W. Packard, director of the P. R. T., and John G. Johnson, general counsel of the P. R. T., all profiting by the policies of the P. R. T., and all participants in framing those policies, are going to take the side of the people?"

"The very suggestion of such an attitude proves its impossibility. Why then are these officials of corporations that have conflicting interests with the citizens placed on the mayor's advisory board? As friends of the mayor? Well, then, why haven't they the sense of honor to resign their positions with these corporations, as members of the president's cabinet have the sense of honor and propriety to sever their connections with all such corporations when they accept an advisory position to the government?

"Not only is it a matter of ethics—it is a matter of integrity which is recognized by legal statutes in our national government and in most of our commonwealths, that a man cannot serve two masters.

"Therefore, it is written that when a man accepts a position advising the public he must divorce himself from all private entangling alliances whose interests might conflict with the public's interests.

"There could be no end to scandal if the legal adviser of the president were at the same time the general counsel for two or three great interstate corporations. It would be the immediate subject for a congressional investigation—if not impeachment proceedings-if it were a known fact that the president urged the passage of a series of bills affecting railroads that had been drafted by the general counsel of two or three railroads and then had been submitted to these railroads for their inspection and approval prior to their introduction into congress.

"Nobody can deny that. Then why is it not wrong in a city administration to do the same thing—a city administration that legislates for nearly 2,000,000 people.

"All The Evening Times asks of Mayor Blankenburg is that he be consistent."

And this point I want to bring out:

"He raises a vigorous protest about members of councils holding positions on the payrolls of the county and the state upon the ground that this dual responsibility renders them biased and unable to act for the best interests of the city.

"The mayor bases his argument upon the ground that the county administration, upon whose payroll city councilmen are placed, is controlled by the old organization, the gang, which is antagonistic to his administration, which is ostensibly a reform administration.

"He pushes his argument to a logical conclusion by claiming that the councilmen on the county payroll will be loyal to their source of income, their financial welfare, their own selfish interests, in preference to being loyal to the public's interests.

"Therefore, The Evening Times asks the mayor to apply the same rule to his advisory board all of whom are high and directing officials in corporations that daily come in conflict with the public's interests.

"If councilmen will subordinate the public weal for a salary of a few hundred dollars they get from the gang, as the mayor insists, what may we expect of men who profit millions from corporations that exploit the people?"

I offer you as a concluding argument, why should we not recall this act and put it on the Calendar?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, there have been things injected into this discussion about men that do not properly belong here, with reference to Mayor Blankenburg and with reference to other gentlemen in Philadelphia. There is only one question before the House and that is the proposition as to whether or not this is a proper rule of government. Is it proper in our theory of government for a legislator to hold an administrative position? They are doing it in Philadelphia. We cannot do it here in Harrisburg. Is this rule, as applied here, right, or is the rule right as applied there? That is the only question before this House. Is our Constitution wrong or is this bill right? I would ask you to decide that point, should a legislator hold an administrative position?

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALNUT. Yes sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman whether it is not a fact that not one member of council who holds any other office in the county has ever voted on any measure pertaining to his department.

Mr. WALNUT. I do not know; I do not consider that that is a relevant matter.

Mr. SPEISER. I would further like to ask the gentleman whether it is not a fact that he has seen in the public press that it is customary in council that a member never votes on any appropriation matter or any ordinance directly concerning his department. Has not that statement been made public and is it not made time and time again by the public press?

Mr. WALNUT. If we admit any such agreement between members of council holding city or county offices, I do not see that it makes their position any more secure. It is merely an admission upon their part that their positions are conflicting.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALNUT. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FORSTER. Can you point out any specific case where any member of council has been in any way improperly interested in the interests of any department with which he is connected?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. SPEAKER, I can point out inconsistency as I have already referred to it, between a member passing upon an appropriation who holds a position of profit under any department of the county of Philadelphia or the State of Pennsylvania, due to the fact that by reason of his holding that position—public offices unfortunately being political offices in this State—that he is subject to political dictation of the man that employs him.

Mr. FORSTER. Mr. Speaker, I insist upon an answer to my question. Has there been any one instance where there has been any accusation of any improper influence brought to bear on a councilman in the interest of the department in which he was employed?

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I do not consider that a specific answer is necessary in order to establish a principle. I am not aware of any particular instance as the gentleman has asked me, in which improper influence has been brought to bear upon a councilman to support an appropriation for his own department. I would assume that the influence, if such existed, would not be manifest or of a public nature that would bring that home to those on the outside. I believe that such influences —and every member in the House will agree with me—are not of that nature. They don't have to be public. They don't have to be manifest. They exist by reason of the position the man occupies in the department.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, some of the gentlemen of the House opposed to the putting this bill on the calendar seem to want specific instances. I will specify for their benefit that I was a member of common council for two years. During that time the present agreement between the city and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company was put into effect, and some of the members on the floor of the House told me personally during conversation, men who hold city or county offices, told me that they considered it to be a rotten measure, but what could they do?

Now go down to another specific instance: Your receiver of taxes forced a gentleman living in the forty-second ward, Major Brasier, to resign from council, or the alternative was given that he give up his position as Collector of Taxes in one of the sub-stations. Now, I don't care to prolong this agony, if you choose to call it such. There are plenty of specific instances and I think the principal reason for the opposition to this Act is to keep those specific instances at work, so as to hold all the influences they can in line for measures proposed by the powers that be.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

More than the number required by the rule having voted in the affirmative the motion is adopted and the bill will be placed on the calendar.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE.

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following motion:

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read by the Clerk as follows:

W. H. Wilson and Robert Frey who voted in the majority move to reconsider the vote by which House Bill 328, File Folio 535, was defeated on second reading.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, and gentleman of the House, this bill that was offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia, (Mr. Lorenzo Smith) is known as the traffic bill. It is a bill that has been offered to this House by the Director of Public Safety of Philadelphia. It gives him power greater than the powers given him by councils to regulate traffic in the congested sections of the City. You men know that many of the streets of Philadelphia are extremely congested at certain hours of the day, for instance, down at the wharves early in the morning and about noon other streets, such as Broad Street and at different hours of the day and evening in the center of the City. There are restrictions upon the police power because of lack of legislation. This legislation has been offered by Director Potter. When the bill came up for second reading it was defeated without a roll call. It was merely voted down because there is some considerable opposition to the bill. That opposition arises from some of the associations in Philadelphia, and men who have not fully investigated the legislation. Now the director, while he is opposed in his politics to many of us, is impressed with the importance of this legislation and he merely desires to have this bill fully argued before the House and have it passed upon on its merits. If the teamsters in the City of Philadelphia have a proper protest, why he does not desire to force the bill over their reasonable protest; but if they haven't a reasonable protest, then he does not want the provisions of this bill, which he considers proper for the welfare of the whole public, to be defeated. Now if you gentlemen will reconsider the vote by which this bill was defeated, immediately after that I will move, with the consent of the sponsor with whom I have consulted to recommit this bill back to the Committee on Municipal Corporations. The Chairman of that Committee is Mr. Samuel B. Scott, of Philadelphia, and the membership of the Committee is composed, to a very great extent, of gentlemen from Philadelphia, many of whom are opposed to this legislation. After the bill has been sent back to the committee, the Director of Public Safety can be notified and the teamsters Associations can be notified and they can come before the Committee and thresh this thing out. If the Director is right, we ought to support him; and if the Teamsters Associations are right, we ought to support them. For us to merely take this piece of legislation and howl it down in the House is not a fair proposition and while I am here asking for the reconsideration of this vote on second reading I want it understood that in taking this position I am not pledging myself to support this legislation; but I do feel myself called upon as gentlemen, even opponents of this legislation, should feel themselves called upon, to give this legislation proper consideration, and then after having given the matter proper consideration, give an intelligent vote on it. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, I do not feel that it speaks well for any member of the Philadelphia delegation to oppose this motion, which is offered here by the gentlemen from Philadelphia, (Mr. William H. Wilson), who is really an opponent to this bill. I take it that the rest of the delegation should not allow the stigma of unfair and dishonest consideration to obtain on this bill. If it has merits,—and a gentleman holding a high position in Philadelphia believes it has—it should be considered by the Legislature and there is certainly no reason why we should not give it that consideration. With the promise of the sponsor, that, immediately after reconsideration of the vote by which this bill was defeated on second reading, without arguing on the merits of the bill, a motion to recommit the bill will be made, when that promise is made by the sponsor of the bill, gentlemen, there should be no reason and it does not befit any member of this House to oppose this vote upon reconsideration, when as I said the sponsor through myself makes the promise to the House that immediately there will be a motion made to send this bill back to the Municipal Corporation Committee where its merits can be threshed out.

Mr. McNICHOL. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, Mr. Scott has not told you that the Committee to which this bill was referred reported it out of committee with an affirmative recommendation, and that the House rejected it upon the floor of the House on second reading. In answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia who has preceded me, it has been customary to follow his lead. If you remember only a few short days ago we were told that we followed a lead that lead into false paths, and you are now asked to follow his lead into the light by putting this bill back on the Calendar. Gentlemen of the House, this bill, if you read it, shows that it would give extraordinary administrative powers to the director of public safety, who is now regulating traffic in Philadelphia, whose book of rules I hold now in my hand. My friend from Philadelphia has said that if the teamsters of Philadelphia had a reasonable protest against this bill that their protest would be given due consideration and regulations made that would be suitable to them. I want to say that the teamsters of Philadelphia went to Mr. Potter and asked for reasonable regulations in order that they might reasonably carry on their business, and it was refused. They have been working under these regulations issued by the Department of Public Safety on February 15, 1913, the same regulations which were in force during the time of his predecessor. But he is not contented with the power that is delegated to him by Council, but he comes to this Legislative Hall and wants administrative and legislative powers that would compel him and compel you to walk down which ever side of the streets of Philadelphia that he wanted. Why, you gentlemen know that in delegating that power to him, such as is asked for in this bill, you override Councils. If he wants regulations in Philadelphia governing traffic, and is unable to go to Council and get them, why should he want this body to put him above Councils and make him Czar and ruler of all he surveys. I ask you, are we going to take up our time by rejecting measures and reconsidering them at the whim of any man who probably wants to stand on the right side of the Director of Public Safety of Philadelphia.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOLS. Not at this time. Now, gentlemen of the House, I ask you men whether we are to be called upon at any and all times to reconsider decisions rendered, and whether our time is to be taken up by rejecting measures and then putting them back on the Calendar, notwithstanding the promise that has been made that this bill will immediately be sent back to the committee. We have passed judgment on it after the committee had reported it out with an affirmative recommendation. And I want to say, gentlemen, that if you will look at the circular issued by the Federation of Labor, you will find that they are against it. If you gentlemen were familiar with the streets of Philadelphia, I could tell you how it is carried on under these present rules. Now, take a wagon that would be loaded at Fifth and Minor streets. The cars run South on Fifth street. If the man wanted to get to Chestnut street, and mind you he has a loaded wagon at Fifth and Minor, hardly half a square from Chestnut street, he would have to go north on Fifth street, west on Market, south on Sixth, and east on Chestnut, because of the regulations now existing in the Department of Public Safety. What more does he want? Whereas if teamsters would be given reasonable permission, they could go south on Fifth street, and would only have half a square to drive, while now, you see, he has four squares. What more drastic legislation does he want? Here is his book of regulations, issued by the Department of Public Safety of Philadelphia on February 15, 1913. These regulations are now in effect. There regulations are practically the same that were put in effect by his predecessor, Harry Clay, and I ask the gentlemen of the House to stand by their original decision in this matter and vote down this motion.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNICHOL. I will.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I desire to ask the gentleman whether there is any law now giving the Director of the Department of Public Safety power to enforce any regulations of his department under the book of rules he now holds in his hand?

Mr. McNICHOL. There are ordinances of Council, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, and my friend from Philadelphia knows that full well.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the gentleman merely answer my question?

The SPEAKER. The manner of answering the question is entirely with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw my request, and desire to ask the gentleman whether there is any authority given by law, to enable the municipal officers to enforce any such ordinances passed by Councils?

Mr. McNICHOL. I think I answer my friend best by saying that he repeatedly has seen teamsters fined ten dollars and costs, or thirty days imprisonment for failure to obey these regulations.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I desire to ask the gentleman whether there is any law which authorizes such proceedings?

Mr. McNICHOL. If there is not a law of that character, I cannot understand why such a distinguished attorney as my friend from Philadelphia would submit to his clients being fined for a breach of the ordinances.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. If that is an answer to my question, Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that never was a single client of mine submitted to such an indignity, nor would I have allowed it. I desire to further interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichols, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McNichol. I will.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman whether he himself is not a member of the Committee on Municipal Corporations?

Mr. McNICHOL. I am.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I would like to ask the gentleman whether or not when this bill was before that committee, he was present?

Mr. McNICHOL. I was not.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not any of the sponsors, or advocates, of this bill appeared before the committee to argue on its merits or demerits?

Mr. McNICHOL. It was not necessary. When this bill——

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I ask the gentleman whether or not they appeared?

Mr. McNICHOL. I ask the right to answer the question. It wasn't necessary for the sponsor to be present, as the committee reported this bill out with an affirmative recommendation.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I desire to ask the gentlefrom from Philadelphia whether the advocates for the bill and the opponents to the bill were present before the committee at any time to argue its merits or demerits?

Mr. McNICHOL. I have answered by saying that I was not present. I believe I am right in supposing that it was not necessary by reason of the fact that this bill was reported out with an affirmative recommendation.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I desire to ask the gentleman whether or not the merits or demerits of this bill were argued by himself, or any one else, on the floor of this House when the bill was defeated?

Mr. McNICHOL. That is information that is a matter of record in this House. The House did not require any argument, but simply blew the bill out.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the facetious remarks made by the gentlemen from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol, in opposing this motion, and regarding my position on the floor of this House at this Legislature, and other Legislatures, is in no way surprising to me. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Philadelphia will learn in the future that he pays a severe penalty for his facetiousness, for his apparent blindness, which is indeed but his blindness, when he takes the attitude on legislation that he takes here to-day, when he attempts to stifle honest argument, when he attempts to supress the request of any class of the community which comes forward to ask for legislation, and he is but bringing to himself the protest of even those who join with him. When, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the gentleman from Philadelphia opposes the proper and honest consideration of legislation before the House, he but voices the weakness of his position. When he opposes this bill going back to the Committee on Municipal Corporations, where its merits and demerits can be argued, he has no proper premises upon which to stand. He attempts here to reject the propositions by merely pointing to me and saying that I now lead them into by-ways that are dark, that I have, in the past, led them into by-ways that were bright, bright to him, while in his youthful experience as a legislator, but which, if he should continue to follow, will lead on into real darkness. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, he cannot escape the proper and fair consideration of this question by holding in his hand a pamphlet of rules and saying that there has been a protest in Philadelphia against this legislation. He cannot escape the fairness of the motion that has been offered to this House by merely saying that the consideration was not necessary because the bill was "blown out."

Mr. SPEAKER, the merits of this motiton have more to them than the mere consideration of this bill. You men who pride yourselves upon being strong party men, you men who pride yourselves upon being strong organization men, are here now facing a proposition that you must look square in the eyes, whether coming her representing various sections of the Commonwealth you can ignore any portion of the citizenship when it requests consideration of their legislation. When Director Porter sends this legislation here, he merely asks for a fair consideration of it. How can you men listen to the illogical words of the gentleman from Philadelphia when he gives no reasons in opposing this motion where the sponsor of this bill says, "I am satisfied to have this bill sent back to the Committee," which Committee is dominated by the gentleman from Philadelphia and his friends. We have, Mr. Speaker, and gentleman of the House, the fair proposition of the sponsor of this bill who says "I will send this bill back to your Committee; and I will bring my people before it to show the merits of it; you can bring the opponents of the bill to show its demerits, and then let that Committee decide whether the bill comes back on this floor again for second reading, or goes down to defeat in that Committee." Where is there any fairness on the part of the gentleman from Philadelphia who opposes this motion? What can you thing of it except this, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that possibly the words from the mouth of the gentleman from Philadelphia that I have led them into by-ways that are dark, means a thrust over this bill at myself. Possibly it is a thrust from some of those whom I call my close political friends, and who do not believe in the stand I have taken. Well, Mr. Speaker, if that is their purpose, then I do not consider it requires an answer. If they do not agree with the position I have taken on the floor of the House, during the present Session, they will soon agee. I predict that the advice that I have given on this floor as the policy of the party, will be listened to by them. They will look back over the past Sessions of the House when my friend from Philadelphia and myself have stood on the floor and fought with temporary success carrying this House with us, and see left behind us the wrecks of defeat at the next election. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this bill should not be defeated merely because the gentleman from Philadelphia does not now agree with my views. He will agree with me before this Session is over, and those who come from Philadelphia, and who now stand in their blindness, will see. It will be demanded that they be fair not only in a small piece of legislation, such as this is, but fair in all legislation, else the thinking public will abandon them and seek other parties.

This is too small a piece of legislation for us to take up so much of the time of the House. I apoligize to the House for the taking up of its time. I felt taunted by the thoughtless words of the gentleman from Philadelphia, and I hope you men will not place yourselves on record as stifling a hearing of any one either protesting against or advancing legislation that is before this House.

Mr. McNICHOL: Mr. Speaker and getlemen of the House, I am in a quandary whether Mr. Scott is threatening me with punishment for the position I have taken. He has already passed sentence that I am to be driven into darkness, because I have had the audacity to beard the lion in its den. He says that I am a young man. He means in experience, although in years I am older than he, and he cannot understand why I should do it. Now, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I want to say that there is not a man on the floor of this House that has more personal respect nor more personal feeling for the gentleman from Philadelphia than I. But I want to say that I have the courage of my convictions, and am willing to place myself on record, and I do not want the opportunity of going into the committee room, as has been suggested by the gentleman from Philadelphit, to stifle legislation in that committee room. He has told you that my friends are in the majority so far as that committee is concerned. He has intimated that I could do in that committee what I am trying to do here. Now I submit that the fair way to do is to meet the issues fairly and squarely on the floor of the House. I am doing that, and if I am to be punished for so doing at any time, believe me, I am man enough to meet that punishment.

Gentlemen of the House, my friends have said that there is no protest against the passage of this measure, except the protest brought by me. I want to call attention to the fact that the United Federation of Labor has seen fit to protest against it and it shows the voice of legislation that they are bound together and that voice should be heard by this House through the channels of the Federation of Labor in justice to this protest and that there should not be greater power than already exists. There should be no power that your Director of Public Safety wants in our city but he can get from Councils and there is where he should get it. I submit that your Director of Public Safety who is only an appointive officer should not be above the body that is elected by the city. I protest honestly; in my protest there is no politics. It is simply voicing the sentiment that exists against pernicious legislation and I ask the gentlemen of the House to vote it down.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Yes, sir.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia if he has stated that the purpose of this motion for resurrecting this bill was that the same may be referred to the Committee for a hearing.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, this is my thought; that this bill should be resurrected for the purpose of sending it to the Committee on Municipal Corporations for a full consideration of the bill by that Committee and then that it be referred to the House with its finding and with what amendments may be added.

Mr. ALLEN. I desire to further interrogate the gentleman. I desire to ask whether, if any hearing should be given and the report of the Committee thereon should be an affirmative recommendation of the bill, would it be a bill with a negative recommendation.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. I consider that under parliamentary practice that it would be necessary for the Committee to report out this bill with amendments. Unless it was the desire to have the bill come out practically negatived all the objectionable features would have to be removed.

Mr. ALLEN. I desire to say just a word in relation to this matter. This bill was reported out from the Committee with an affirmative recommendation. It came before this House for the consideration of the House on second reading. On second reading the House, in its wisdom, declined to pass the bill. The bill then became dead and has gone to its burying ground where it lies peaceably and is at rest. As there is now an appeal to resurrect this bill to again have it come before the Committee to be again reported by the Committee to this House and then this House would stand just where it stood a few days ago, face to face with this same proposition. Having passed upon this proposition and, it seemed at least, understandingly—and I would not otherwise stand upon the floor of this House and suggest that the members had unknowingly done that which they did not intend to do—having done all this understandingly, as it has been done by the members of the House, I submit that the gentlemen themselves should at least be satisfied with that action, and should leave this bill sleep in peace in its resting place and vote down this motion for reconsideration.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, we have heard a great deal from our legal friends this morning on the one question before us and on which I guess they are very slightly informed—that is the question of transporting goods about the city of Philadelphia by team. Now, when they tell you on one side about the Teamsters Association of Philadelphia, it sounds very big, but there are thousands and thousands of private teams in Philadelphia which must travel over the congested section of our city. That is, they will probably want to go down Sixth street or up Third or out Fifth which are very narrow and with the car tracks between it is possible for only one wagon to get along the street and when there is congestion teams are usually lined up on both sides of these narrow streets. I have four teams traveling about the streets of Philadelphia and very frequently when I send a team into this congested district when it gets down to Second street, in the central portion of the city, on a trip in which I expect it back in an honr, it sometimes will take that teamster four to five hours before he returns. This condition is caused by the same men who compose this Teamsters Association. Their drivers are generally provided with heavy teams which can stand all kinds of knocking around and they drive any where on these streets regardless of traffic regulations, and as you possibly know, the average driver is sometimes a little stubborn and will not move quickly or get out of somebody's way as readily as he might and the police are powerless to do anything. In a block of four or five minutes there may be from fifty to one hundred teams held up and a man is not permitted to drive against the direction of the traffic and he is unable to help himself. There is more danger with wheels being knocked off or something of that sort than when people are going contrary to traffic regulations. There is no trouble when a man drives with the traffic but when he turns around without room enough and a fellow takes a wheel off, then there is a blockade that holds up everybody for some time. As far as the labor people are concerned, they are fearful that if this bill passes the Director of Public Safety can order everybody out of any block if there is a strike; people may be picketing a factory. Speaking to you as a man who has four teams and who is contending with this traffic proposition all the time, although not a member of the Teamsters Association, I ask you to put this bill back on the Calendar so that the Committee may re-hear it.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, from the information I can gleam I wish to state that two years ago this House passed a bill allowing cities of the second class this identical legislation. Everybody knows that an ordinance of Council, as far as team traffic is concerned is a hilarious farce in Philadelphia. You can fine them but you cannot collect the fines. There must be something back of that to empower the Director of Public Safety to compel them to pay the fine. This bill puts the law into the hands of the Director to collect the fine and that is about all there is to it. Identically the same measure has been passed by the last Legislature effecting cities of the second class and why do you desire to make a distinction between cities of the first class and cities of the second class? I think it nothing more than fairness to all concerned that both parties should be heard in Committee. If we had had any notification that the bill was coming up for consideration before there would have been people there at that time.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, when this bill first came before the Committee it seemed to be one on which the gentlemen agreed to report with an affirmative recommendation with the object of the bill reaching second reading with practically no endorsement in the House. When a bill is defeated before it reaches second reading it does not give the sponsor an opportunity to defend it and he frequently is not prepared to discuss it until it comes in on final debate. As Chairman of the Committee, I feel that this Committee would like to have another opportunity in Committee on this bill and therefore I ask for its return.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the adoption of the motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill was defeated on second reading.

Will the House agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. STEIN. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question.

Mr. STEIN. I ask Dr. Steele, the gentleman from Allegheny to call up House Bill No. 232, file folio 843, entitled:

A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth so as to prohibit the manufacture or sale or barter or exchange of vinous spirituous malt or brewed liquors or beverages in accordance with his promise of last week.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, as sponsor of this bill, last Wednesday morning I gave my promise that I would call this bill up not later than last night or this morning. However, I did not know that our friend from Philadelphia was going to die the following day. I had intended to bring this bill up last night, but, on account of the fact that so many of the members are away to-day with the Appropriation Committee, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to postpone this bill until Monday night. I made my promise and I meant to keep it but I believe in all fairness, and I think the fairness of the members of this House will cause them to agree to let me place this bill on the calendar next Monday night.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, notwithstanding the statement of the gentleman from Allegheny, I call up this bill.

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the following is proposed as amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, I want to appeal to the fairness of the gentlemen of the House, although our friend from Allegheny is here in the interests of the liquor people. I believe the liquor people come from Pittsburgh in quantities of from one to ten every time this session meets. I want to say to you that there is no other class of men that follow this legislation as closely as the liquor people. There is no other class of men who get on the train in the city of Pittsburgh and follow this legislation every day for some interest that is detrimental to the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania as they do. Therefore, I ask you gentlemen to let me put this bill on the calendar next Monday night. In detriment to what my friend from Allegheny will say, that these men are paying expenses to come down here and fight this bill, there is no other class of men that come down and fight bills that are right. Why should they come down here and dictate to the members of this Legislature how they should vote on this question? We have voted on legislation here that is not nearly as important as this is and I say that I have got a perfect right to ask that we postpone this until next Monday night. I ask that the members will let me bring this bill up Monday night, and if I am well and living I will be here to argue this question pro and con. At the present time, about twelve or fifteen members of the Appropriation Committee have seen fit to go to the eastern part of the State. Eight or ten of those men are in favor of this bill and I think I have the right to ask for a postponement of this bill in order that they may be here to vote.

HOUSE BILL NO. 232 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny move that the bill be made a special order on next Monday evening?

Mr. STEELE. I move you, Mr. Speaker, that the consideration of this bill on second reading be made a special order on next Monday evening at nine o'clock.

Mr. MATT. I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I regret very much that I am compelled to take up the time of this House on any explanation of my personal conduct in this matter or any other matter coming properly to the attention of the House; but, gentlemen, I want to make this rather personal statement of facts, and if the facts that I state are not correct I ask my good friend, Dr. Steele, to contradict or deny what I say, and if he does not, you gentlemen can take it for granted that what I say is absolutely correct. The Doctor stated last week,—and I refer to what he stated on page 515 of the Journal,—he gave notice that he would not call up the bill on the night of its regular order, but said that "I intend to call up this bill next Wednesday evening or Thursday morning." Now, on Tuesday of this week, I called up the Doctor at his home and, after the usual courtesies and greetings, asked the Doctor that, as a personal favor he would not allow the bill to come up until next week, explaining to him that, in view of Mr. Riebel's untimely and unfortunate death, it was quite likely that there would be no business Wednesday night, and that for the sake of only one day, I and my colleagues did not care to come to Harrisburg, being detained at home in our necessary businesses and callings. I asked the Doctor as a favor to let it lie over until at least Thursday morning. The Doctor said, "I could not do that, because I gave notice to Mr. Ulerich and others and I intend to carry out my promise," and I said, "I will take it upon myself to notify Mr. Ulerich, whose office is not far away—in the Frick Building." The Doctor said, "I notified a dozen others and it is not fair to them." I said, "In view of that statement, I won't ask for a postponement, and however inconvenient it is to me and my colleagues, we will be there to meet you on the day of the calling as we have agreed." Last night the Doctor did not see fit to call up this amendment and this morning the Doctor sees fit to ask for further postponement. Now, since this has been made a matter of fairness and a matter of personal comparison of character, I ask you gentlemen to say that a gentleman's promise openly made and thoroughly understood shall not be abrogated and set aside because of some mistake or some hitch in the proceedings or arrangements. I ask you gentlemen, as a matter of precedent, that the sponsor of this bill shall keep good faith with the members of this House and the other citizens of the Commonwealth. I have nothing to say on the merits of the proposition—not a word to say either for or against the bill—but I do ask you gentlemen, as responsible, fair and reasonable members of this House, that this matter be put to a vote now, as has been agreed upon and has been thoroughly understood by the Doctor and others interested in this measure. I therefore ask you gentlemen to vote against the motion for further postporement and ask for a roll call now upon this bill.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of this House, it doesn't matter, it seems to me, about our attitude upon this question. It is not the proposition before us. Somehow or other, it seems that whenever a liquor measure comes up, or an anti-liquor measure, then we must settle that matter on the second reading. No other matter is treated in that way. Only this morning, my friend from Dauphin here, Mr. Martin, asked that a bill which he had said he would call up just the same as the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steele, either last night or today, be further postponed. Not a word was said, but just as soon as an anti-liquor measure comes up, we have several fellows who seem to think that that proposition must be dealt with right on the moment. Now, gentlemen of the House, I think it is fair to Dr. Steele, of Allegheny, to put this over till Monday night, and I am sure that the gentlemen on the opposition side will come back here just as well as they have done this time. There are quite a number of gentlemen who have gone away with the Appropriation Committee that want to be recorded on this proposition. It is not fair to them to bring this proposition up now and ask for a vote on it. My colleague is away and wants to be recorded and I know several others that want to be recorded and it is right that they should be recorded on this proposition. The folks at home do not know that they are away and they will probably think that they tried to dodge the proposition, and it is not right to put them in that phase of the matter. It is not right at all, and I ask the gentlemen of this House to vote in favor of putting this proposition off until the following Monday night and let us vote on it then.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that the motion to postpone is only fair. In glancing over this House, as nearly as I can estimate, there are forty or fifty vacant seats here, and I am in favor of putting this bill over until next Monday night, and then every member, as far as possible, will be here, and the matter can be fully discussed and acted upon.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Stein.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEIN. With pleasure, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WILLIAMS. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny if he expects to be here next Monday night.

Mr. STEIN. I expect to be here; if the Lord is willing, I shall be here.

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, then it is not going to inconvenience Mr. Stein to put this bill over until next Monday night. I cannot see any argument for it. It does seem to me that the motion of Mr. Steele should prevail and that this bill go over until next Monday night, as long as it does not inconvenience Mr. Stein.

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the gentlemen, I would say that the Lord seems to be taking toll in this House. However, if living I will be here.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I had hoped that I might keep from saying anything in relation to this bill in its position before us at this time. As the members of the House know some consideration has been shown to all the members in relation to their preference in conducting the course of their bills through this House. It is also known by members of the House who have been here heretofore that matters relating to liquor legislation have always been of some importance to the House, both in holding back legislation which was pending and in creating great excitement around these legislative halls. Anticipating all that, it was suggested and on the gentleman's own motion of Thursday, the 27th, that this bill would be called up either at the session last night or the session of this morning. Out of consideration for the sentiments, patriotic and otherwise, of our Democratic friends, we saw fit at the conclusion of last week's session to adjourn until Wednesday of this week. Many of the members at that time being desirous of going over until Monday of next week. Many of them made their arrangements to stay at home this week, thinking that no business would be done, or little business of importance. Some of those members who had made such arrangements, and who feel just as responsible to their constituents as any other member upon the floor of this House, owing to the fact that there was more than a quorum here at last night's session, and owing to the fact that the statement had been made that this bill would be called up either last night or this morning, and anticipating and relying upon that statement, and anticipating that this bill would be called up they came here to record themeselves in that matter The suggestion has been made that the Appropriation Committee has been caled away. There are members upon the floor of this House now that have allowed that sub-committee of the Appropriation Committee to go away this day to make one of its most important investigations without their accompanying it, for the sole reason that they may go upon record at this time. It has certainly not come to the pass in this House that some Committee can call from the floor of the House members to go and view a committee's work and disorganize the work of this House. In the first place it is contrary to every precedent in this House; it is contrary to the rules. Committees are not entitled to sit when this House is in session. The duty of the members of this House is to be here, and be here to transact business, and that is why you and I and every one of us are here to-day, because we have sworn to that duty. Now, Mr. Speaker, there is no reason, why this should be so, and I most strenously object at this time that this bill be further delayed. If the statement of the gentleman on the floor of this House that a bill will be called up at a certain time is not to be taken as a true statement or promise, then such statement should not be made. If it had been necessary last week no doubt this bill like the local option bill which was acted upon last week would have been assigned to the special Calendar, but the statement of the member having been made that this bill would be called up at this time the members are here to record themselves in accordance with that statement, and I suggest, Mr. Speaker, that this action be continued and that the bill be called up and acted upon at this time and no further delay made in the matter.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman who just preceded me intimates that I am breaking faith with the members of this House by asking for this postponement. I am not breaking faith by asking to postpone this bill. If they say that I shall go on with my promise, I intend to do that. Last night there was no session here in this House, that is we met and adjourned in about five or ten minutes. I had no opportunity to bring this bill up. I do not want to postpone it for any reason whatever. I wish all the members to be here to vote on this bill as it is so important. There is nothing that I have against, or enmity that I feel against any of the liquor bills. It is purely and simply a matter of fairness, and I wish the members to be fair with me. If this bill is postponed there will be no injury done to anybody by its being on the Calendar. It does no injury by being there and keeping certain people traveling back and forth. I tell you, gentlemen, it is the interests back of the bill and who are opposed to this bill who are going back and forth every week spending their money opposing the bill.

Mr. SHERN. Mr. Speaker, I think every member in this House knows where I stand on liquor legislation. I announced it a few weeks ago when my colleague from Allegheny wanted to call up Mr. Rockwell's bill on local option. It does seem to me that we are absolutely departing from every rule of courtesy and fairness in this House. I am under no allegiance to any liquor interests, but as I feel the love of liberty is why I voted consistently against all legislation looking toward the abolition of the liquor interests, but in all due fairness, in all sincerity to the gentleman from Allegheny, he is entitled to have this bill put upon the postponed Calendar, not only in the interests of fairness and courtesy, but because they are away by leave of absence or otherwise and who are not here to record their vote. Because of the fact that they are absent it will go back to their constituents that they are either afraid or trying to dodge this vote on this State wide prohibition, and I sincerely ask the members of this House to put this bill upon the postponed Calendar, so that on next Monday evening or any other time, when the full House is present, that every man can be recorded as voting, or at least that he make a special day for the consideration of the bill.

Mr. O'NEIL. Mr. Speaker, I am not connected, or do not expect to be connected with anything in the liquor business. I may use it, that is my business, but I am sick and disgusted with these liquor bills and I think they ought to be brought out and acted upon and finished.

Mr. LANIUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Steele.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEELE. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LANIUS. What assurance has this House that the bill will be postponed until next Monday evening at nine o'clock.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, I will make a motion that the bill be brought up next Monday night at nine o'clock.

On the question recurring?

To make this bill a special order next Monday evening at nine o'clock.

The SPEAKER declared the "Ayes" seem to have it.

Whereupon a division was called for, 105 members, more than a majority of the whole House, having voted in the affirmative, the motion was adopted.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments:

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section one, line 71 by inserting before the word "thereupon" the word "and."

Amend section one, line 142, by striking out the word "to" and inserting the word "so."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

The section as amended was then agreed to.

The second section of the bill was then read as follows:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. Rockwell.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, I don't know but that I ought to say a few words in explanation of this bill before it goes to a vote. I have had so many inquiries just as to what the purpose of the bill is that I think it well to explain it at this time. There has been a great deal of complaint among the users of paint about the quality thereof and about not getting what they thought they were getting and of many paint products being adulterated. In order to correct all this this bill was introduced two years ago and after a public hearing was reported out of Committee and passed the House almost unanimously and in the latter end of the session failed in the Senate. It was again introduced in this section and after a fair public hearing by all partfes who were notified the bill was unanimously reported out of Committee again and it is now before you for your consideration. The main object is to compel the manufacturers of paint to put upon their packages just what their packages contain. Some of the manufacturers claim that it would be a hardship to them from various points of view, but it simply asks them to put upon the packages of paint just what you and I might learn by taking a sample of their paint to a chemist to have it analyzed. It does not ask them as they explained it and as the Committee looked upon it, to disclose any trade secret. It seems that it is only a fair proposition that when the public goes into the market to buy quanitities of paint they should know what they were getting and to have that labeled on the package. Take for instance, the following examination made and in a statement before one of the Committees in the Second Session of the Sixty-first Congress which I will read:

CALENDAR NO. 510.

SIXTY-FIRST CONGRESS, SECOND SESSION.

UNITED STATES SENATE.

Thus those samples were taken on the open market and the public were defrauded in that way. We could do nothing else but put this bill out and put it up to you members to vote for it. It seems to me that there should be no question but that it should be enacted into a law.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Friday, March 7th, 1913.

The House met at 10:00 o'clock A. M.
The SPEAKER (George E. Alter) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O God, Thou art the hope of the ends of the earth. We pray not merely for ourselves, therefore, but for all classes and conditions of men in all lands and nations. And as the reins of government are in Thy hands, and the welfare of the people is so largely dependent upon wise and efficient government, we pray that Thou wouldst direct by Thy counsel and prosper with Thy blessing all those to whom is entrusted authority and power. And we pray especially at this time for Thy servant, the President of the United States, so lately inducted into this high office, to whom as yet its responsibilities and duties, its perplexties and problems are unfamiliar and strange. Wilt Thou be to him all Thou hast promised to be, guardian, guide, helper and friend. May the people remember him in their prayers, and be patient and forbearing, and stand by him with their confidence and trust. We pray for the people of this great Commonwealth whom we represent, for the rich, that they might use their riches for the glory of God and the welfare of man; for the poor that their distress may be alleviated, and that they may be kept from dispair; for the toilers, that they may have an adequate share in the fruit of their labors and the supreme satisfaction of work well wrought; for the suffering and distressed, that they may have the pity of God and the administration and the comforting of their neighbors and friends. And we commend ourselves to Thee, asking that Thou wouldst keep us and bless us according to our need, for the Savior's sake. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of yesterday.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of yesterday's proceedings, when on motion of Mr. Snyder the further reading of the Journal was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

NAYS—1.

Hemminger,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same without amendment.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, the hour is now eleven o'clock, and I call for the orders of the day.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I move that Rule Fifty-four be suspended for the day.

Mr. WALNUT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia insist upon his call for the orders of the day?

Mr. RONEY. I do, Mr. Speaker.

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. ALLEN. My point of order is this, Mr. Speaker, that the vote upon this bill had been taken, but no announcement of the vote had been made.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, the orders of the day take precedent over all other proceedings.

The SPEAKER. The Chair rules that the vote had been announced.

If the gentleman from Philadelphia insists upon his call for the orders of the day, the Chair is powerless to do otherwise than adjourn the House.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, as I remember the condition we were in, the Chair was just announcing that this bill would be sent to the Senate for concurrence, and the words were not out of the Speaker's mouth.

Mr. ALLEN. The Speaker had announced the result of the vote, but had not declared the bill passed.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I believe the point of order raised by the gentleman from Allegheny is well taken for the reason that no other business can be taken up during the progress of discussion or action of any bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, it is well known that the orders of the day take precedent over all other business.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I waited practically as I thought until the bill upon which the vote was being taken at a minute to eleven, had been disposed of, and then I called for the orders of the day at eleven o'clock. It was my idea to call for the orders because the sponsors of the bills did not appear anxious for action on them on account of the slim attendance here to-day, and were having them postponed. It was for the reason that we are unable to proceed rapidly with our legislative business that I called for the orders of the day. It was precisely to the minute, and I have never seen a roll call and an announcement timed so nicely as to-day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair was about to suggest to the House that in view of the small attendance, it might be well to consent to the taking up of the second reading Calendar, disposing of it, and then to adjourn.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, that is entirely your pleasure, and I will withdraw my call for the orders of the day.

The Chair asked and received the unanimous consent of the House to suspend the further consideration of the Third Reading Calendar, and to take up the bills on the Second Reading Calendar.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

The SPEAKER. House Bill No. 118, File Folio 1409, is not upon the files and will be passed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 292, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to carry further into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and seven entitled "An act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions" and to reimburse counties for moneys paid under the provisions of such act

Whereas By the provisions of an act of Assembly approved the tenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and seven entitled "An act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions" counties paying bounties on certain noxious animals were to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth through moneys specifically appropriated for that purpose and

Whereas There were so many noxious animals killed and bounties claimed and paid under the provisions of said act that the appropriation aforesaid was insufficient to reimburse the counties paying said bounties and

Whereas It is proper that the work of exterminating such noxious animals be carried on persistently throughout this Commonwealth therefore

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated for the following purposes

To carry further into effect the provisions of an act approved the tenth day of April one thousand nine hundred seven entitled "An act creating a reward or bounty for the destruction of certain noxious animals killed within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania providing a method for the payment of the same by the several counties of the Commonwealth which in turn are to be reimbursed by the Commonwealth making an appropriation for such reimbursement and providing penalties for violation of its several provisions" the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars ($125,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary said moneys to be paid under the same terms and conditions as are prescribed in said act

To reimburse counties that have made payment of bounties under the provisions of said act the sum of seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary such moneys to be paid under the same terms and conditions as are prescribed in said act

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS RE-COMMITTED.

Mr. PRICE. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 292, entitled:

CORRECTION OF ADDRESS BY MR. J. B. MARTIN ON THE READING OF THE BIBLE IN OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS RECORDED IN HOUSE JOURNAL OF WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26th, 1913, PAGE 491.

Mr. MARTIN. Mr. Speaker and Members of this House: I don't understand why the book that has withstood the criticisms of the ages should be prevented from being read in our public schools. I see back of this movement an attempt to entirely eliminate from our schools the book that has stood the test so long. I don't believe that sectarianism should be injected into this question. If the Bible is read in our schools without comment as provided in this bill, there can be absolutely no sectarianism. I don't believe that the members of this House will agree that the Bible shall not be read in the public schools of this Commonwealth or that we shall in any way legislate against it.

Not one of these men who discussed this question has told us that it has done any harm, and I want to say to you, there are plenty of homes in this broad land of ours, and I dare say in the State of Pennsylvania, where the Bible is never read. Why then, Mr. Speaker, should not the boys and girls who come to our schools be allowed to hear certain portions of the Bible read daily? I have taught in the public schools of this State for practically twenty-six consecutive terms, and I have yet to find the first case where any trouble has arisen from the reading of the Bible in the school. If there is any trouble along this particular line it is where trouble is invited. I have taught where there were Jews, Catholics, and Protestants and different foreign element and not one parent or pupil has ever complained or objected to the reading of the Bible in the schools, in the twenty-six years which I have spent in the teaching profession. P personally believe that the Bible should be read uniformly in our schools, because it is right; because of its teachings along the lines of morality, which are of the utmost importance. "Train up a child in the way it shall go and when he is old, he will not depart from it; then shall our sons be as grown up plants in their youth, and our daughters as corner-stones polished after the similitude of a palace." This quotation is from the Bible, and who would object to such beautiful gems of literature to be read in our schools? Is there one man on the floor of this House who could object to such language or sentiment as therein expressed.

No fair minded person can object to such teachings in our public schools. I intend to support this bill, because it is the right thing to do. I want further to say that not one of the opponents who forced a hearing on this bill appeared before the Committee, that passed upon it. There were many others there in support of this bill, who stood nobly for the right, and I appeal to you gentlemen of this House to stand by the bill, pass it and thereby vote for the continuation of the Bible in the schools of our great Commonwealth.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. J. E. Wright, offered the following prayer:

O. God, Thou hast kept us in safety amid the uncertainties and perils which are incident to travel; Thou hast continued to us that vigor of body and that energy of mind which conditions us for our work; Thou hast guided and directed us in our thinking and our planning, as we try each day to fulfill the trust committed to us; Thou hast influenced in ways unrealized by us our mental attitudes and our moral decisions. We recognize all this, and we reverently acknowledge and thank Thee for these great favors. And now we have come to the urgent period in this assembly when the work is pressing, when the questions submitted are serious and important and far-reaching in their influences. Wilt Thou keep us alert, energetic and active. May we be strong in body, vigorous in mind. May we be true and sensitive in judgment and in conscience. May we try to be right on every question submitted to us, and may we utter no judgment and record no decision which shall not be in harmony with our truest convictions. We commend especially to Thee Thy servant upon whose well-being and well-doing so largely depend the conduct of this Assembly, the Speaker of the House, and all men associated with him, the members of the Assembly and all who have to do in any way with the work which is here transacted. May we all remember and reverently recognize that God who is over us and to whom we are responsible and His name shall have the praises, now and forever, Amen.

The SPEAKER: The Clerk will read the Journal of the proceedings of Friday, March 7th 1913.

BILL PLACED ON CALENDAR.

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following motion.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read as follows:

Moved by Mr. Bleloch, seconded by Mr. Heidinger, that House Bill No. 867 (Senate Bill No. 125), entitled:

An Act regulating the payment of any deposit made with any bank trust company or savings institution in the name of two persons reported from the Committee on Judiciary Special with a negative recommendation, be placed upon the calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this motion is made at the request of the State Bankers' Association, in order that the measure may be submitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special, to give them an opportunity to be heard on the subject, and I ask the House to vote for the motion.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Phmiladelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, as this bill has been negatived and has no file folio number, would the gentleman kindly explain what the bill is?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, this is a bill regulating joint accounts. When the account is opened, it is specified that the money shall be paid to either party or the survivor at the death of either party. The committee felt that it was unnecessary and useless legislation and reported it with a negative recommendation. The State Bankers' Association has asked for an opportunity to be heard on the subject and this motion is made for that purpose.

Mr. KITTS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman further.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. BLELOCH. Mr. Speaker, yes, sir.

Mr. KITTS. What is the purpose and what is the necessity of legislation of this kind?

Mr. BLELOCH. The necessity for the legislation does not exist, nor does it exist in the minds of many members of the Committee on Judiciary Special, but, in order to give the State Bankers' Association an opportunity to be heard on this measure, it was thought advisable to take this course to get it back to the committee for that purpose. I don't think that the opinion of the commitee will be changed on the subject, but it will satisfy those who desire to be heard on it.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BLELOCH and Mr. HEIDINGER.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of H. R. Bill No. 658, as follows:

An Act to repeal an act entitled "An Act for the preventing of clandestine marriages" passed at the session of the General Assembly ending October twenty-eighth one thousand seven hundred and one (one Smith's Laws twenty-one)

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the act entitled "An Act for the preventing of clandestine marriages" passed at the session of the General Assembly ending October twenty-eighth one thousand seven hundred and one (one Smith's Laws twenty-one) is hereby repealed.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, It seems to me that the House has not sufficient information about this bill to pass it, and I suggest that the sponsor of the bill tell us something about it.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would say that this is one of the old laws that was passed prior to 1701 and has been upon the statute books since that time. It has been a dead letter for more than one hundred years, perhaps, and if the House desires to listen to the reading of the statute as it now stands, I will be pleased to read it:

All marriages not forbidden by the law of God shall be encouraged; but the parents or guardians shall, if conveniently they can, be first consulted with, and the parties' clearness of all engagements signified by a certificate from some credible person where they have lived, or do live, produced to such religious society to which they relate, or some justice of the peace of the county in which they live, and by their affixing their intentions of marriage on the court house or meeting house doors in each respective county where the parties do reside or dwell one month before solemnization thereof; the which said publication, before it be so affixed as aforesaid, shall be brought before one or more justices of the peace, in the respective counties to which they respectively belong; which justice shall subscribe the said publication, witnessing the time of such declaration, and date of the said publication, so to be affixed as aforesaid. (u) And that all marriages shall be solemnized by taking each other for husband and wife before twelve sufficient witnesses. And the certificate of their marriage, under the hands of the parties and witnesses at least twelve, and one of them a justice of the peace, shall be brought to the register of the county where they are married, and registered in his office. And if any servant or servants shall procure themselves to be married, without consent of his or her master or mistress, such servant or servant shall, for such their offense, each of them serve their respective masters or mistresses one whole year, after the time of their servitude by indenture or engagement is expired. And if one person, being free, shall marry with a servant as aforesaid, he or she, so marrying, shall pay to the master or mistress of the servant, if a man, twelve pounds, and if a woman, six pounds, or his or her master or mistress according to indenture or agreement, and one year after, as aforesaid. And if any person shall presume to marry, or be witnesses to any marriage, contrary to this act, such person, so married, shall forfeit twenty pounds to the proprietary and governor; and the witnesses being present at such marriage shall forfeit and pay each of them five pounds, to the use of the proprietary and governor as aforesaid, and pay damages to the party grieved to be recovered in any court of record within this government.

This law shall not extend to any who shall marry or be married in the religious society to which they belong, so as notice shall be given by either of the parties to the parents, masters, mistresses or guardians, one full month, at least, before any such marriage be solemnized.

No license or dispensation shall hinder or obstruct the force or operation of this act, in respect of notice to be given to parents, masters, mistresses or guardians as aforesaid.

I think, Mr. Sueaker, that after having heard this bill read, the members will feel justified in voting for its repeal, and I therefore leave it to their good judgment.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Amend section 2, page 2, line 3, insert after the word "repealed" the following: "This Article shall not become operative until the first day of January, one thousand nine hundred and seventeen."

On the question.

Will the House agree to the amendment.

It was not agreed to.

The title of the bill was read and agreed to as follows:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Comonwealth so as to prohibit the manufacture or sale or barter or exchanges of vinous spiritous malt or brewed liquors or beverages

On the question.

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, as sponsor of this bill, I take great satisfaction in saying a few words this evening against, the greatest curse in the United States today, bar none. Not because it is easy to do, not because the poor innocent thing has no defense, but because it is so difficult to accomplish results. Anything that I may say I want understood is not personal because I bear no enmity or ill will against any member in this House who may oppose this bill. I bear no ill will against any man who buys or sells liquor because in my home town I know some who are patriotic honest men, but I am against this damnable stuff for three reasons: First moral, second health; third economic. This bill as presented is a constitutional amendment. It must pass two sessions of the House and Senate, and if it should, it goes to the people for a vote in November 1915, and if voted dry will go into effect January 1st, 1917.

Only a few weeks ago a good friend from Philadelphia, (John R. K. Scott) told you that the fall of the Republican party was due to the men at the helm not listening to the will of the people. At that time we voted almost unanimously for the election of United States Senators by direct vote. Only a few weeks later we voted on another amendment for Women's Suffrage. Today we are voting on a more important question than either of these. I voted for both the previous amendments and am proud of it. The progressive republicans and progressive democrats are on trial tonight. The republican party fell not alone because the men at the helm failed to listen to the will of the people, but because the Republican party has for years been electing men to office unfit to be called American citizens, has been electing men who wore around their necks collars snugly fit. Any man who votes against this bill must smother his conscience. Any man who votes against this bill breaks his promise to his constituents to give the people an opportunity of saying whether or not this State will be dry or wet. Any man who votes against this bill does not yet see the star of independence setting, but she will set. It matters not to me whether I am here when she sets. I would rather vote my conscientious convictions, if I did not get any vote than my own.

Listen to me for a moment! The amount of license money received by the United States Government last year from the licensed saloon keepers and brewers and distillers was three hundred and fifty million dollars. The amount of money spent for booze last year in the United States of America was two billions of dollars. The amount of money it cost to run our judiciary was one billion two hundred million dollars. The amount of money it cost to keep our insane, our paupers, our criminals, amounts to over five billion dollars, leaving a balance of seven billion eight hundred and fifty million dollars in favor of the saloon on a strictly money basis. For every dollar received from licensed saloons the tax payers and property owners of this United States pay sixteen dollars in return to maintain their jails and penitentiaries made necessary by this saloon business.

The Allegheny County workhouse in forty-one years had one hundred and forty-eight thousand criminals, one hundred and thirty-six thousand of whom were directly traceable to booze. The Allegheny County jail for ten years had an average of ten thousand six hundred and eighty criminals, and ninety per cent. of those criminals were caused through the booze business.

Listen to what Leib Jons said: He saw the finished product of the saloon lying in the gutter. His hat was gone. The hat trade was suffering. His clothes were torn the clothes trade was suffering. His socks were torn, the hosiery trade was suffering. There was scarcely a business that did not suffer from the man's insobriety. Taking an inventory of his home, of his wife and children, the millinery trade, the furniture trade and the children's dress goods trade all suffered.

The Philadelphia North American in a recent editorial said:

"We see the growing knowledge of the dangerous character of the liquor business. Its record of devastation, is a scar across the face of civilization, The manhood it has wrecked, the homes it has ruined, the women it has run in hopeless fire and the other women it has buried in nameless shame, the children it has starved and murdered,—these are the witnesses against it."

Seventy-five per cent. of the idiots come from liquor. Eighty per cent. of the paupers and eighty-two per cent. of the criminals come from the use of liquor. If the saloons and breweries were closed and the money spent for necessities, the help sign would hang from every factory door. During this discussion of the local option question we heard a great deal about personal liberty. "Personal Liberty" is for the man who, if he has the inclination and the price, can stand up to the bar and fill his hide so full of booze that he is transformed into an irresponsible, dangerous evil-smelling brute, but "personal liberty" is not for his patient, long-suffering wife who has to endure his blows and curses, nor for his children who though they escape his insane rage, are yet robbed of every known joy of childhood. "Personal liberty" is not for the sober, industrious citizen, who, from the proceeds of honest toil and orderly living has to pay, willing or not, the tax bills that pile up as the direct result of drunkenness, disorder and poverty, the items of which are written in the record of every police court and poor house in the land.

Every man is accountable to his God for his action here to-day. Step up to the young man in jail. What put you here? Booze. Step up to the young man on the scaffold, and ask him what put you here? Whiskey.

Gentlemen, in conclusion, I would say to you that for a man to rise socially or politically to-day he must get down and lift others up. Out of the depths is coming, as ever, the real glory. I am an optimist, I believe the world is getting better. Sixty years ago you could gamble on the street, whiskey was sold at ten cents a gallon at picnics, on the street, horse race gambling allowed and lotteries were left go unmolested. To-day they are barred. The saloon has got to go. But for the money invested in it, it would have gone long ago. We are a practical and conservative people. Sometimes it is true we dream with our heads in the air, but always to a realization that we must walk with our feet upon the earth. Sometimes the haunting spell of darkness is upon us, but in the end the night goes, the dawn comes, the cock crows, the ghost vanishes, we open our eyes and all the uneasy and terrifying vision disappears in the light that fills the east with the glowing promise of another morning. You men now have a chance to show your manhood. In the name of your pure mother, in the name of your manhood, in the name of the innocent children who crawl upon your knees, in the name of all that is good and noble, smite the curse and stop the women from waiting longingly at home until the saloons cast out their stinking, blear-eyed husbands. I can excuse a man voting against this bill because I believe there are men here conscientious, who do not believe in it; but I can never excuse a man for getting up on the floor and advocating the good qualities for the damnable stuff on the grounds of personal liberty and as a whiskey mouth-piece.

I want to say to every man that stands upon this floor and argues for the liquor business that from the lips of every man, woman and child you will go down with condemnation and damnation. Vote your honest convictions. Vote in spite of the men in the whiskey business and what they tell you to do. Vote for what you think right, for the conscientious side of this business. I tell you that if you should want to be elected and come back to the House of Representatives, you will have to prove to the honorable, upright people of the State of Pennsylvania that you did not vote for the liquor business.

Mr. SPEISER. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, in rising to reply to my friend from Allegheny, I do not want to be misunderstood by any person, that in rising to argue this question, that I hold a brief for any whiskey or other liquor interests. I want to assure my friend from the western part of the State that I, personally, am not an indulger. There was a time when I did indulge, but I saw the error of my way and corrected it. I trust those who have also seen the error of their ways have been able to correct that for themselves. I merely desire, Mr. Spaker, to argue this question from a practical legislative standpoint. We men are here representing a constituency. I do not know that we have the right to limit that constituency to our immediate districts. I dare say that as we sit here we are legislators for the entire citizenship of the entire State and, therefore, our constituency embraces the entire State. My friend from Allegheny in his zeal for what he considers a good cause, and for which I will not take issue with him at this time, has somewhat overstepped the bounds of legislative propriety. I think he called a great many of us out, because I intend to vote against this bill, and I will do it and assign such reasons that I think will bear merit at least for their seriousness and candor even in the mind of my friend from Allegheny. I have not a single fact or statistic as to the money invested in this business and the revenue derived from it. It does not make a particle of difference to me so far as agitating the question pro and con. It is a matter of principle, and does not involve a matter of dollars and cents as was so well set forth by our friend, Mr. McAllister, in a very able address to this House on a similar matter. I do not know that I desire to argue the ethics of the question, but I do desire to say that a man voting against this bill can vote without any direct or indirect influence on behalf of the liquor interests, and can overcome the dire prophecy as offered here to-night by the gentleman from Allegheny. I want to say to him frankly that in spite of the fact that I am going to vote against this bill, that I expect to be a candidate for re-election and I have reason to believe that I am coming back to my seat. I hope I am not wrong, and I believe that it is a true statement of the sentiments of my district and the citizens that live there.

I want to say further that this question does not involve either the Republican or the Democratic Party, and a man can be a good party man in his practice and belief without in any way voting in favor of this bill, and still recognize the duties that he owes to himself, his pure mother and wife and children and neighbors. The Republican Party and the Democratic Party have certain basic principles. They are of a political character. It would be useless for me to take up your tiem explaining them to you. We know that they do not embrace any such liquor as liquor. They never have and I hope they never will. just I do not want to see either of these great parties taken into their platforms anything that would have to do religion except the worship of the one supreme God. I occupy a rather serious and peculiar position with reference to this religious problem, and I hope that neither of the great political parties of this country will take up at any time as the basis for common strife, and so I hope that they won't do it with the liquor question. The Republican Party in its recent defeat cannot say that it was because they had misjudged what the people wanted so far as the liquor question was concerned. I take issue with my friend from Allegheny on that question as I would take issue with my colleague from Philadelphia if he should say the same thing. I trust Mr. Speaker, that I am not out of order in digressing for a moment in saying that the Republican Party might have been defeated not because its principles are wrong, not because we have not had our ear to the ground and listened to the wishes of the people, but because of the treason of certain so-called leaders, and the party was overthrown by that treason. As was said in this House, I believe that the great Republican Party and organization feels that it has purged itself of that leadership, and that it will be new born in spite of any action of this House, or any action that men as individuals may take so far as voting yea and nay on any bill. But to come back to the question,—the true proposition for this House is whether we will allow the people of the State of Pennsylvania to decide for themselves whether they shall be wet or dry in Pennsylvania. I am a firm believer in letting the people decide anything and everything that they want to decide, and which they show an inclination to decide. I am a firm believer that the people at large can be safely trusted to know what they want, and I believe I am safe in saying that possibly the millions of voters can act with just as good judgment and as accurately as we two hundred and seven men in this House. But in spite of my beliefs and your beliefs, I question, Sir, if there is any great demand at this time or whether there is such a clamor for a constitutional amendment on this question. The public does not appear to demand it, and my constituents do not say that they want, at least they have not told it to me, the public press does not demand it, and the members of this House with whom I come into daily contact have not told it to me. I do not feel aroused on this question as I did upon the question of the elections of United States Senators, or on the question as to whether or not woman, who is made in the image of God should not have the same prerogatives as man, and they are both political questions and should have been decided in the manner in which we did decide them. This is not such a question, and there is no such public clamor for it, an the best proof of that fact is the fact that there is a party within the domains of our State which has taken as its basic principle not the basic principles of the other parties, but its very bulwark is the question that we should eliminate liquor from the State of Pennsylvania. I refer to the Prohibition Party, of which party, I understand, my friend is not a member. I take no issue with him, and have no quarrel with him. But. if the people of Pennsylvania had any idea or any earnest desire or had made any earnest appeal to us to submit this quesion to them, they had a splendid opportunity to say so in the various campaigns since the origin of that party. The returns of the last election, I say to you, Mr. Speaker, do not show any such evidence as would justify us in passing this legislation that is now before the House, or may come before the House. As a matter of fact, it has not increased with the same ratio as the other political parties. Let us be consistent, don't let us be sentimental. I dare say that a great deal that my friend from Allegheny has said it true, and I dare say that there are a great number who imbibe freely to the curse of themselves and possibly by their relatives and the taxpayers at large, but, Mr. Speaker, it is equally true that every man who indulges in vice beyond his physical powers is practically the same, the man who gambles and the man who eats too much, because he suffers later with dispepsia which is, of course, to his own detriment, and a man that is not physically sound causes a detriment to the State and to himself. I want every man to decide that for himself. I do not plead yea or nay so far as the question is concerned. I have decided it for myself and I will teach that doctrine to my children, and I believe that I will get better results than if there was an act passed on our statute books that we should not allow either the manufacture or sale of liquor within the domains of Pennsylvania. I have not been shown by any man on this floor, andI dare say that I cannot be shown that in the various states where there is Prohibition that they have in any wise decreased the number of drunkards and jails, or the burden of the taxpayers. The man to whom we trust our bodies when we are in need of his assitances has never appeared either in public or in print or otherwist to tell us that if we do not crush out this traffic it will be the downfall of our Republic. I have never yet seen agitated before this legislative body or any other body by a great number of physicians and surgeons who have taken upon themselves to say that we must crush out this liquor traffic. I say to you, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, that if you will think for a moment of the facts that I have uttered here to-night from a legislative standpoint, eliminating all sentimentand personal ideas, we can only come to the conclusion that there is not at this time such demand from the constituencies of Pennsylvania to give them a right in their de'iberate judgment to pass upon this question. I willadmit,Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, and I must admit that if this bill is passed in the Legislature of 1913 and also if the Legislature of 1915 should pass it and if in turn the voters at large would pass it, it would interfere with the exercies of my religious prerogatives. I do not want any bill to be passed by this body which will interfere in any way with the religious rites of my race in any way. but I do not want the members of this House to misunderstand me, or to believe that I am here pleading for my race on account of this bill. We do not have any prohibitory clause against the use of liquor in our ceremonies, and twice a year it is necessary to properly carry out these ceremonies. I believe that is equally true of another great religious belief largely represented in this House. Therefore, you see, that if I would agree to the passage of this bill, I would not be acting in accordance with my conscience, in eliminating either the manufacture or sale of this commodity as that would prohibit us from getting it for a proper purpose for the worship of Almighty God according to the dictates of our conscience and belief. Let me reiterate, this is equally true of another faith. I think I have taken up much more time than is necessary, but I felt somewhat taken back by the earnest and zealous remark of my friend from Al'egheny. He is a fine fighter, but I think that he has been over-zealuos in representing his casue, because he has taken out of name a great many members of this House. I do not believe they are going to hold it against him, and I believe that he can go back to Allegheny safe in feeling that the constituents of the men who are voting against this measure have consciences just as broad, and liberal and safe so far as they are concerned as the gentleman who comes here to introduce this bill. I ask you gentlemen to vote nay in reference to this measure.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House: Again we have a question before us which we are asked to refer to a vote of the people. I propose briefly to give three reasons why we should so refer it.

Two years ago, standing here and speaking on the local option bill, I recalled the time when the Republican party, smarting under defeat, assembled in Convention in this city to nominate candidates for Governor and other State offices and to adopt a platform that would win back the support of the people. A Democrat sat in the Gubernatorial Chair, in the person of Robert E. Pattison and the prospect for Republican success was very dark. Matthew Stanley Quay was State Treasurer and the leader of his party in the State. The people then, as now, were asking for relief from the evils of the liquor traffic. Mr. Quay used his influence, against determined opposition from George T. Oliver, Thomas V. Cooper, Christopher Magee and other party leaders, to put a prohibition plank in the party platform. I was present in that convention and saw the fight. It was a battle royal and long continued, and in the midst of tumult and uproar the convention recessed to give time for the Platform Committee to bury the political dead and report.

When again called to order the platform was reported and adopted. Quay won out. His plan was there just as he had offered it. Let me read it to you:

"Whereas, There is an evident desire on the part of a large number of intelligent and respectable citizens of Pennsylvania to amend the Constitution by inserting a clause prohibiting the manufacturing and sale of intoxicating drinks as a beverage within the limits of this Commonwealth, therefore,

Resolved That it is the opinion and judgment of this convention that the Legislature of the State should at once adopt measures providing for the submission of this question to a vote of the people, in accordance with the true spirit of our free institutions."

The pledge was faithfully kept. The entire State ticket, from James A. Beaver down, was triumphantly elected. Necessary legislation was promptly enacted, the people registered their will at the polls, and, while prohibition lost, the Republican party entered on a new era of success.

Matthew Stanley Quay at that time had his ear to the ground and proved himself a peerless leader and the original progressive.

Republican leaders—Progressive leaders—Democratic leaders—can I quote higher political authority to guide you? Are you wiser than your political forbear? He, even he, refused to put the welfare of the liquor interests above the welfare of his party and his State. Will you do less? So much for a political reason why the people should be allowed to vote on this question. Now let us look for another.

It is one of the strange things in our political economy that the sale of strong drink is tolerated at all. It is passing strange that the State aids and abets the baleful traffic. The drink habit is a relic of barbarism and one of the evil heritages that man has clung to, despite his better nature. It was not considered a menace to the rugged, hardy pioneer, used to toil and exposure. But things are different now. We are living the strenuous life. Research and practical experience have demonstrated conclusively that alcohol is a "Great Destroyer" and the Nation's greatest enemy. It enervates the race, destroying the efficiency of those using it and their innocent offspring. Thus, when the State, as never before, requires 100 per cent. efficiency of its men and women, it stands appalled at results shown by proven statistics. Alcohol is also responsible for heavy taxation to provide the millions necessary to build and maintain the enlarged and ever enlarging hospitals and almshouses, courts of justice and jails, reformatories and penitentiaries to care for its victims. We cannot build water works, school houses, parks or playgrounds without a referendum vote and these improvement are for the uplift and betterment of social conditions. They why should we refuse the mighty request for a referendum on a proposition that costs us so much, affects our welfare and our very life?

This House has passed resolutions allowing the people to vote directly for United States Senators and Woman Suffrage and soon will vote for a referendum on a $50.000.000 bond issue for public roads, and we do well. This question is even more important than those and should receive the same consideration.

Now let us pass to the third reason:

"Protect wild life" is a cry that has came to us from all over the State and we are busy amending the game laws. "Outlaw the pot-hunter, encourage true sportmansship" and again we respond and when we have done these things not a turtle dove will fall to the ground without our care. But listen—shall possibly 104 Representatives throw the protection of the law around the wild life of the State and then refuse hundreds of thousands of men, just as intelligent as we, the privilege of voting to decide whether "the great destroyer" shall be outlawed, human life protected and immortal souls saved? All the wild life that ever roamed our forests and plains and all the song birds that ever gladdened the earth will weigh as naught in the balance against one single human life. Again I ask, why should we refuse the people the right to vote on this question? Your vote for this resolution does not commit you to vote for prohibition at the polls, it only commits us to the policy so very popular in Pennsylvania just now and all over the Union, of allowing the people to rule.

Finally, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, how are we to be arrayed on this question? On one side we have the monied interests of men manufacturing and selling strong drink—necessarily selfish interests. On the other side we have the home, the church and temperance organizations laboring without fee or reward for the welfare of our fellowmen. Our votes here to-night do not decide the momentous issue but our votes here relieve us of or fasten upon us a terrible responsibility. Are any of you in doubt? Then, in God's name, I appeal to you—give the home, the church, the weak man struggling against a terrible appetite, the young man just taking his first glass, the boy receiving his first impressions, unconscious of the great evil—give these the benefit of that doubt. Let us pass this resolution and let the people decide.

Mr. RUNK. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, it is not my purpose to discuss this bill but I want to call attention to this House that there have been now introduced here, seventeen liquor bills and I don't know how many have been introduced in the Senate. I know, also, that there have been seventeen Game bills introduced in this House and sixteen more are to follow. It seems to me that the members of this House have concluded to get full on game and whiskey and it strikes me that the time has come when we should cut down these whiskey and game bills and get down to business and pass some of the reform measures that we are supposed to be here to pass. We have already passed on seventeen bills and there are more to follow and this is just one of a form that we had a few weeks ago when we voted on local option. The House organized on the sixth of February. We have voted on one hundred and twenty-three items or bills, devoted about ninety hours or probably a little more,—a hundred and thirty hours, and we have now a total of twelve hundred and twenty-two bills on the Calendar and twelve hundred and fifty-seven have been introduced. We will perhaps be able to pass these bills while over in the Senate they have passed a great many more. If we keep up at the same ratio of passing bills, we will be here ninety weeks longer. It has been said that the Senate has been in session only twenty-four hours in these nine weeks. Gentlemen, the Senate has passed one hundred and twenty-two bills in that length of time or five and a half bills every hour. Of course, they can pass bills faster because they haven't as many members as we have, while we have two hundred and seven. It strikes me in that way and I am wondering whether we are going to better things or whether we are doing better, but I wish to refer directly to the subject. According to the statistics of the United States, from July to February, the nation has consumed 94,000,000 gallons of whiskey, an increase of 5,000,000 gallons over the corresponding period the previous year; 8,500,000,000 cigaretts, an increase of 250,000,000 and 250,000,000 pounds of smoking and chewing tobacco, an increase of 12,000,000 pounds. These are record-breaking figures.

In addition, drinkers of beer are resuming their stride. During the fiscal year 1912 the consumption of beer fell off materially but for the first seven months of the current fiscal year the people of the United States have drunk 38,864,000 barrels, an increase of 1,850,000 barrels over last year.

I neither drink, smoke or chew but it strikes me that we are growing worse and I am not going to say how I am going to vote on this question to-night but I am trying to think that we are starting a little too early. There is millions and millions of dollars invested in the business and you cannot turn them out of their business at once. When I gave permission to have my name printed on the ballot a minister came to me and said "I will vote for you if you will vote for prohibition." I said, "You are not a temperance man" as he came to me and told me this with a cigar in his mouth and he was smoking a cigar. This is personal liberty. It is all right. The man may drink a glass of beer and he has the privilege of doing that. In my judgment the time has not come when we can whip the liquor interests of Pennsylvania and it is not the time to start out. When we give the women a chance to vote, you will get it.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Beaver, Mr. Swift.

Mr. SWIFT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to place myself right on this question and also to place the Anti-Saloon League right on it. I wish to read an extract from the report of the State Superintendent which was made sometime ago before the annual meeting held in this city, and I also wish to read an extract from a resolution unanimously adopted by the State Board of Trustees of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League at their annual meeting, Tuesday, February 25th, 1913.

EXTRACTS FROM ANNUAL REPORT OF THE STATE SUPERINTENDENT of the PENNSYLVANIA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE AND THE HEADQUARTERS COMMITTEE, PRESENTED TO THE STATE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, FEBRUARY 25, 1913.

"There is no conflict between any of our bills and the state-wide prohibitory amendment. There is absolutely no conflict between our local option bill and this amendment. Our bill, if it is passed, will become a law and go into effect at once. The state-wide prohibitory amendment cannot possibly go into effect until the last part of 1915, or early in 1916. We are certain that the Prohibitory Amendment would fail if it were to be voted on this year. But the prohibition sentiment is growing rapidly, and no man can tell what it may be in 1915. Therefore, while we would not take the initiative in submitting the amendment now, we will ask all our friends in the Legislature to support it when it comes before that body for action."

RESOLUTION UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED BY THE STATE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE, AT THEIR ANNUAL MEETING, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25th, 1913.

Resolved, That it is the aim and the permanent policy of the Anti-Saloon League to resist the liquor traffic in any unit of government, from the smallest to the largest, according to the conditions obtaining in our State; and that the bill introduced, and now pending in the Legislature prohibiting the liquor traffic by constitutional amendment, for the entire State by submitting the question to the people has our hearty endorsement and undivided support.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I would not be true to myself and my conscience and my God, if I did not at this time declare before this House that I stand in favor of submitting this measure to the people. I stand for it first, and I don't see how it is possible for those who have professed progressivism in this House to say nay to it. One of the great parties of this Commonwealth is pledged to the referendum, not on questions that it may choose, for that was not specified in the platform, but upon all questions which were of interest and touched the interests of the people. Another party which made itself felt and heard in this Commonwealth long since has pledged itself to the referendum. It has said in its platform and it has said in its vote and at the ballot that it believes in referring to the people questions that are of vital interest and asking the people to express themselves upon it whatever it may be. It seems to me to be a strange thing that some of us will submit all questions except this question which is vital to the life, to the prepetuity and to the development of each individual of every State and of every nation.

Mr. Speaker, we are interested to-night with a question that has touched vitally the life of every nation; that has gone before us and has touched the life of those nations to the effect that it laid them low, those engaged in it so mercilessly and so wondrously to their death, and it is a recorded fact by the hand of the historian that a nations who live to-day only in history have gone to their death because of alcoholism. I am here this evening, Sir to speak in behalf of my people; in behalf of the nation that I love. I am here to speak in the interest of the Anglo-Saxon Race, the like of which has never existed on the face of the earth. I am here to say that this race—Anglo-Saxon—as it has arisen has withstood the evils that it has inherited and has dropped them off one by one. I havn't time to go back into years gone by to bring before you the era of weaknesses that this race struck from itself. All of the greater evils that it inherited are things of the past. We are facing and dealing with another weakness that it inherited. The weakness of the desire for stimulant, the habit of imbibing alcoholic drinks. What is that doing with our race, let me ask? What will it do for our race, if it continues? Have you read the magnificent and matchless declaration of Mr. Hobson? I wish I had time, my friends, to quote many things from it. He has proven clearly and conclusively that this terrible curse has been the curse of the races. More men have fallen under this terrible curse than have fallen in all the wars and pestilence of human history. It has brought to an end individuals and nations. I nearly said that it is worse than death itself and the question before us to-night, my dear friends, is not the question simply of personal liberty, whether I shall enjoy my rights or not or whether I shall do this or that but the question is, how do I stand for the development and perpetuity and the maintenance of my own people and my nation?

I will say to you that as this brother said across the aisle here, if this curse is increasing, if the sale of intoxicants is increasing and if men are increasing who are imbibing it, Sir has not the time come when every man and every woman, every loyal American citizen and every Anglo-Saxon shall raise or be permitted to raise his voice against it. Shall we in this Legislative Hall, to-night, stifle the wish and the desire of the people? Or shall we be true to the pledges that we as parties have made to the people and permit them to make a declaration in reference to it? There is some facts that I wish I had time to present. I would like to say something in reference to the amount of money invested and the amount paid into the treasury by these interests. It was in the neighborhood of one million eight hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars. That seems to be a large sum but what did it cost this State to take care of the result of that tax? Ask all of those of you who are interested in that question and I have in my hands to-night this statement which can be verified, that it has cost this State three million five hundred and ninety-three thousand and eight dollars for which there is paid into the treasury by this interest, one million eight hundred and twenty-five thousand, eight hundred and eighty-seven dollars. The people pay by direct tax in order to maintain this business for which our people who are here to-night had to go down into their pockets to have paid was a matter of one million seven hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars to take care of this interest that has such a large investment. In other words, in order to make it possible for the liquor business to pay a dividend to those who are interested in it, the State had to give all this money in order to make the dividend possible to the men who are in this business. Not a man on this floor to-night would think for a minute of applying for the continuance of a business that presented such figures to him. We might come a little nearer home. Here are some statistics that can be verified and that have been verified in Faytte County.

In Fayette County, the liquor interests cost the county last year $148,102.40, and these figures were not gathered by partisians. They were gathered, my friends, from the right source—the Court House, I presume, in Fayette County. You can all get them—$148,102.40. They paid into the Treasury of Fayette County $1680; the tax payers of Fayette County had to pay $146,522.40 to make possible the perpetuation of this business.

In my own county last year, Beaver, it cost us $32,000 to take care of the trials and the insane and the needy. The business paid into our treasury $1600. We are short $30,400. I say to you that in every county in this State where this business is conducted as it now is, the figures will hold true in every instance. The gentleman from Philadelphia said that there are no authentic statistics which we could bring here which would establish the fact that where the State was dry the use of liquors is not the same as where it was wet. Listen to me a moment. Crime in Fayette County,—twenty-seven murders last year. Upon investigation it was found that from fifteen to eighteen of these were caused by liquor. Some of them occurred at christenings and weddings. There are twelve murder cases for March court, 1913. There are sixteen murder cases in all now waiting to be disposed of, 1431 prisoners. Ninety-five per cent. of the men in jail this year were there because of drink, say the proper authorities, and I might read you all the arrests in Uniontown. I would like to compare these figures with a statement here made in reference to a border county that is dry. "Eighty-three prisoners confined in the Greene County jail in the year 1912, none of whom was accused of murder. At the present time our jail is empty, a dry county with an empty jail, and across the way a wet county with 1431 in prison and in jail. We have had thirteen prisoners for murder and twelve for minor offenses. The board bill at fifty cents per day amounts to $93." My friends, there you have the contrast in a dry county and in a wet. I ask you, from an economic standpoint, from a standpoint of money only, can this State stand the pressure much longer?

Gentlemen of this House, will we as intelligent men, will we as men to whom is committed the financial and moral interests of this State, will we in the presence of these facts refuse to allow the people to express themselves upon this vital question. I know, sir, that this question will take some time in this House and some time probably in the weeks that are to be, but I tell you there is no question that means more to your homes, to your towns, to our Commonwealth than this question. I repeat again, if we wish to continue to develop, to gratify, to satisfy appetite, we shall decide for our future race if it shall be a race of weaklings, so long as it exists, and its existence cannot be long, for as other nations in the past have gone down because of it, so must we, unless we begin to register our voices and our thoughts against the continuation of this business. I am here then, sir, to raise my voice in favor of submitting this question, because of its relation to the economical condition of the State, because of its relation to the moral and the political conditions of the State, because of our obligations to ourselves, because of our obligations to our families, because of our obligations to the name that we have inherited, and that we shall be compelled to hand down to posterity. In the name of God, let us see to it that the name we bear continues to be as unsullied and unmarred as our fathers and mothers have given it to us, and they hold us responsible; we are responsible in giving it to other nations. When the question comes between personal liberty and the protection of the coming race and the coming ages, I say, in the name of God, let us sacrifice something of personal liberty and personal privilege. For the good of those that are to follow us, I call upon every member of this House, I call upon every man that has the spirit of love and of truth and of loyalty to stand by this question, and when your name is called, I call you to the bar of your conscience and to the bar of God to answer as you will be called to answer in the great day when we stand before the Judge of all men.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I approve of all that my friend from Beaver County says. I know and every man in this House knows the evils of intemperance, but evils were never cured by declamation. It is a practical proposition to be approached with sense and judgment and guided by experience. Now, I hope you believe me when I say that I would be the last man to rise and speak in defense of intemperance, but I would. I have children of my own and I know what drunkenness stands for. I could paint a picture, too. I could tell you one like the story of "Ten Nights in a Bar-room", or that other story of the "Picture on the Bar-room Floor," that touches the tenderest chords of the human heart. I know the story and I have seen the evil, but I have always tried to approach that question with reason, looking back and taking present conditions and out of that try to arrive at a logical conclusion as to what is the best way to remedy this evil.

I would just like to interrogate the gentleman who introduced this bill and ask him one question.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STEELE. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to ask him whether he has investigated this proposition, what the effect of similar laws to these have been in the United States.

Mr. STEELE. I can answer that question by stating to the House, that Governor Stubbs, of Kansas, in an address in January of this year—

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I did not mean to ask the gentleman to make a speech.

Mr. STEELE. I will just answer your question, if I may. Governor Stubbs said that in Kansas, where they have 1,680,000 people, even with the Webb bill just passed over Taft's veto, that in 105 counties in Kansas, there were thirty-seven counties last year that did not have one criminal case on record; there were twenty-four counties in Kansas which did not have a pauper or a poorhouse, and there were thirty-four counties which did not have one prisoner behind the bars.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, my purpose in asking that question was to tell you that if we could only agree upon our authorities, we could probably know exactly how to vote upon this question. I fully realize that the statistics compounded by those who are unfavorable to local option and prohibitory laws are in contradiction mostly with those figures as presented and other statements of the time occasionally when the man who has been championing a cause for years has reason to come forward and show that it is a failure. That has occurred in this particular case. Now, I could go on arguing this proposition from a logical standpoint, reciting instances, and call your attention to conditions in the history of the last two or three hundred years, but the first question that comes up in my mind is, what are the conditions of a people where alcoholic stimulants are not used? The first question that comes to my mind, if there be such a people, where are they? And how do they stand compared with these peoples who use alcoholic beverages temperately? If they are on the map, where are they, and what are their conditions Are they new countries? And again the answer comes back that they did not have time in their life to prove a good illustration. Yes, the answer comes back. What is the answer? Every man here knows that those who are the followers of the Mohamamedan faith never touch alcoholic stimulants. Where do I find them? In Turkey, In Asia and in Europe. Take these people and compare them with the peoples of the world that use alcohilic beverages and where do they stand in the race of government or in progress or for all that goes to make civilized society worth having or living in? That is true; I say that. I don't have to come here and tell you it is a theory. Have there been any states in this Union that have tried this? Why, yes, all the New England States. Fifty years in Vermont they had the probibitory law and the people repealed it. Last year they voted in Maine. If the bootleggers and the illicit distillers that the national reports show were captured, if these reports are correct, there were something like twenty-five hundred illicit stills captured in the State of Maine. Where was the liquor sold?

Now I well understand and well know that many members of this House will differ with me and feel that I am mistaken on this proposition of the question of prohibition or local option or prohibitory laws being the best way to deal with these evils and yet every man knows that if you have on the statute books a law so drastic that it is very frequently violated that you will not correct the evil by making a more drastic law. You increase the evil, and the proposed proposition to-night is one of the most drastic propositions that a legislative body has to deal with. I contend, and it can be borne out by anybody who has traveled, that there is a larger per cent. of temperance people, that there is less drunkenness in the State of Pennsylvania, taking the number of people into consideration, than in any State in the Union. I can travel up and down the streets of Philadelphia and see one hundred thousand people on the streets and not one intoxicated man or woman or even under the influence of liquor. I have traveled from one end of the State to the other, and I have traveled from Ocean to Ocean and from Lakes to Gulf, and I found a vast amount of what is called dry territory. The truth is, it is the reverse, I stand for dry territory, because where they have these drastic laws it invariably results in wet territory. Now that is a statement that you may call upon me to make good and I will make it good out of the very mouths of the great leaders of these very movements; and I am not under oath, but they were testifying before the United States Congress, and their word ought to have been as sacred as under oath. I am not going to take much time but I want to read some of these authorities to you, the testimony of some of the greatest temperance leaders in this government of ours. Why should not there be a great doubt in the minds of the people as to whether it is wise legislation. Why should there be when you hear this testimony given in Washington? I will tell you each time who is the author of what I read.

The first is a statement made by Rev. Doctor Baker, General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, testifying in Washington, as follows:

"It matters not whether it is a prohibition state or a state in which there is local option territory, the laws are being broken down. We have now in this Country twenty-six—a little over twenty-six million people who are living in territory from which the saloon has been legally excluded by the action of the legislature of the State or by the vote of the people in the community and yet there is not one foot of that territory in which the laws can be absolutely enforced, for the very reason that no matter how stringent the state laws may be, or how insistant the officials may be for the enforcement of the law, it is practically impossible to do it."

Who said that? Rev. Doctor Baker, giving testimony before the United States Congress; and he is the General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America. Now that is what one man says and he might be mistaken. I know that.

Here is the statement of Mr. Jonathan K. Taylor, representing the Society of Friends, in Baltimore, Md.:

"Why, Mr. Chairman, we have built dikes around the State, we have done everything that state laws can do to keep the liquor from coming in as Holland has built her dikes to keep the water from coming in. We have built these dikes but the laws of the United States are filling them full of holes and with all we can do we are perfectly helpless."

Now that is only two men.

The next is the statement of Mr. H. B. Carre, President of the Tennessee Anti-Saloon League, Nashville, Tenn. Tennessee is a state-wide prohibition state. Here is the information he gave Congress:

"That brings on the condition which I desire, in a measure, to indicate to you. I feel sure it will be a rather startling proposition. We have for example in Knoxville, anywhere from 25 to 50 Federal Licensed open saloons. We have in Chattanooga anywhere from 50 to 100. We had in the City of Nashville until a few months ago over 400 federal licensed open saloons, the same saloons that operated before the law went into effect, and operating exactly in the same way, and in the City of Memphis we have anywhere from 500 to 800 Federal licenses."

Who has a right to say that he belongs to the drys? The man that stands for prohibition that produces these conditions, or the men that stand for the law of Pennsylvania, which is on the statute books? Who is voting wet and who is voting dry? Who is voting for temperance and who is voting for intemperance? Do you know that Nashville in 1880 had a population of only 132,000? Do you know that upon the same ratio that the city of Philadelphia would have 8,800 open saloons? Who is voting for wet and who is voting for dry when the roll is called?

Now that is only three men. Remember who the authority is. It is not me. It is not the liquor side of the question, as they put it. They put those who oppose this proposition as being in league with the liquor interests. I have not the slightest connection with any liquor men or with any liquor interest in the world. I do not think it is fair to stand on the floor of the House and say that because I differ on a proposation of legislation that calls for sound judgment and wisdom that I and the men who agree with me should be characterized as men who stand for something that we do not stand for. We can tell what we stand for. It is not up to the opponents who disagree with us to state our position.

Now I will give you the statement of the Rev. J. L. Harley, Superintendent of the South Carolina Anti-Saloon League, Spartansburg, S. C.:

"Our difficulty is in enforcing the laws. They passed very drastic laws. We have gone on and the last legislature has even passed a law giving Rural Policeman to the different counties where they ask for it. But our difficulty is simply this: The mail order houses flood our State. Minors receive their circulars, minister's sons receive their circulars and they are offering all sorts of inducements if you will buy "our liquors." Our express offices are simply places for the mail order houses to unload.

So the question has arisen. I have letters in my grip from men in South Carolina, saying something like this: "What shall we do?" Some of the best men in South Carolina have become disheartened and discouraged over the situation. The liquor is coming in; it is being sold, and I notice, only yesterday in one of our leading daily papers an article headed "Come Back, Oh, Dispensary."

Now these are facts stated to members of the United States Congress by the Rev. J. L. Harley, Superintendent of the South Carolina Anti-Saloon League, Spartansburg, S. C. He ought to know, but maybe he is mistaken. Maybe they are all mistaken. Let us go farther and see what some others say, and they all come from the other side of the House.

The next is the statement of Lawrence Maxwell, Jr., of Cincinnati, Ohio. They asked him a question as to how he could get certain information. He said:

"That could not be ascertained. You might ascertain what liquor was transported into the States that have regulating laws, but how much of that, if any, was used illegally or transported for the purpose of being used illegally, of course, could not be ascertained. I am told that i nthe Internal Revenue Department the greatest violation of the Internal Revenue Laws with respect to the manufacture of distilled spirits occurs in the States where prohibitory laws are in force, and those statistics the committee can easily get from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. I understand that the work of the Department of Justice, in punishing violations of the Internal Revenue Laws is largely in States where the traffic in intoxicating liquors is wholly prohibited."

Here is the statement of Rev. E. J. Moore, of St. Louis, Mo., Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri.

"Our people in the Northern part of the State are continually troubled in the enforcement of their law by the liquor that is shipped in from Illinois town. On the Western Boundary line the Kansas line into dry counties the St. Louis Liquor dealers have established and are establishing warehouses near the State line where orders are taken and liquors are shipped across the line into Kansas. Consequently, our people face the two propositions; one that they cannot enforce their own laws; and the other the fact that a man in Missouri is able to do in Kansas what a man living in Kansas cannot do."

Mr. Moon, a member of Congress, while this testimony was being taken, made this statement in answer to a proposition put up to him as to the condition in Maine:

" I have gone right to the Station there and I have seen beer drunk as openly as in Washington; I do not drink it myself and I do not visit these places, but I am told they are just as open bold and flagrant there as they are here."

The next is a statement of Rev. T. M. Hare, of Charleston, W. Va., Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of West Virginia:

"West Virginia is in the throes of a Prohibition struggle. The principal argument we have to meet is that you cannot enforce the laws; that is you vote the liquor out of Pennsylvania it will simply turn the thing over to Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Philadelphia; that we will have the whiskey and they will have the profit. That confronts us everywhere."

Further on Mr. W. P. Shaw, of Weldon, N. C., says:

"This constitutes an endless chain that is burdensome and expensive. Already the dry is being heard that we are making more criminals by this law than the open saloons did. As a Christian community, we do not care for the prosecution of criminals; we prefer to take away the temptation under which they fall.

Now I wish to call your attention to this extraordinary condition. In North Carolina we claim the active and conscientious support of all the Congressmen, all the Senators, all the judges including two federal judges one of whom is a conspicuous advocate of temperance all the government officials and the legislature, and yet I confess to you that under present conditions North Carolina is unable to control the sale of liquor."

Now I hear the members near me saying, "Stop, you have taken long enough." I want to impress you with this fact. There is a doubt whether we have not got a better law in my mind, but there is possibly in the minds of some a different thought; but don't allow them to influence you with these details of the piteous conditions as the result of intemperance in a way that would lead you to believe that voting against this proposition is aggravating and increasing such conditions. But I hope you can see this proposition as I see it, as all experience shows, that it is a step in the wrong direction, no matter how honestly or conscientiously a man may differ with me.

I want to make one other statement. My friends say we should obey the voice of the people.

Yes, I will go a step further and will obey their mandate and if you will read the constitution it says that before a proposition is submitted to the people of this State we must have from two legislatures their honest conscientious convictions on this proposition. You are here tonight to express your conscientious conviction on this proposition. That is the mandate of the constitutional law of this State. That duty has been thrust upon you and you should consider it personally, and then if you agree and it goes back to the people, no doubt the advocates will say the great legislature of Pennsylvania in its wisdom voted in its best judgment and says that this proposition is doubtful and leaves it to you to settle. They want to know whether that is what you think. You must express your own opinion, and the man that votes tonight is voting to express his own opinion and not their's. Yes, I will obey their voice and I will obey their mandate.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move you the previous question.

The motion was seconded by Messrs. Kitts, Humes, Charles A. Shaffer, Kern, William F. Blair, Eichenberger, O'Neill, Wiltbank, McArdle, Brownlee, Harry H. Irwin, Runk, Kaufman, Bleloch, Peachey, McAlister, Shuck, Spangler, Bass, Fahey, Walton and others.

The SPEAKER. More than twenty members having joined in moving the previous question.

Shall the main question be put?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Steele and Mr. Rockwell.

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker I vote aye, but this vot is not necessarily a vote for Prohibition; we are not voting on Prohibition tonight, and the people of this State will not vote on this question unless and until this present Session and that of 1915 permit the whole people to settle the question for themselves in November of 1915. I believe we have no more right to deny the people of this whole State a referendum vote on this question, than we have to deny them a vote on direct election of United States Senators, or the several other questions we have undertaken to refer to them. The moral or economic phases of the question are not the issue this evening; the only question before the House this evening is the one of simple justice and natural right.

Mr. RUNK. Mr. Speaker, I voted against House Mill No. 232, because I believe such law would be confiscatory, unless the people, who have been licensed to carry on a business are reimbursed for their property so confiscated. I do not believe that the temperance sentiment in Pennsylvania is now sufficiently crystalized to make a successful stand against an evil which I hope in due time will be eradicated from the entire United States. I neither drink intoxicants, nor smoke or chew tobacco, and my action in this matter is purely in accord with the belief that a test of strength at this time would be detrimental to the cause of temperance.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker. Realizing that in the past seven years I have been a candidate for Assembly from Westmoreland County with more or less success, I have had the consistent support of many persons who disagreed with my opposition vote to the local option form of regulation of the liquor traffic on the grounds that it was not a moral solution of the question, but only a make-shift as a regulation, I now cast my vote for the Steele Bill providing for a general expression of opinion and decision upon a State Constitutional Amendment covering the matter since the National Government has shown a substantial disposition to assist the States in this form of regulation.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT asked and obtained leave to file reasons for vote.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the Bill on Third Reading?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, this is possibly a new piece of legislation in this State, and because of the fact that it is new legislation, I let it remain on the Second Reading Calendar for several weeks in order that the members who are interested in the subject might have an opportunity to investigate the merits and demerits of this proposed bill. The bill practically gives not new power into the hands of the local Board, neither does it conflict in any way with the present School Code. The bill provides that in localities where the School Boards see fit, with the approval of the Superintendent of Public Instruction in this State, vocational schools may be established wherein the various industries may be taught including subjects in Agriculture and household instruction. A great many of the boys and girls of this State do not have an opportunity to avail themselves of a techincal education in the higher colleges and there is no way that the localities might give a course of training to their boys and girls, and for that reason I have introduced this bill to-night. This system has been tried out in eighteen different states. At the present time eighteen states are giving aid to the schools of the various localities in the states along vocational lines. There are six in the State of Pennsylvania, but, of couhse, they have received no State aid. The only new thing in this bill is that when a locality see fit to establish these schools, that they shall receive aid from the State equal to two-thirds of the cost of maintenance for the preceding year. I present this bill to you for your support in behalf of the boys and girls of this State, and also the men, too, who should have an opportunity to prepare themselves for a technical course, and therefore, I ask your support for this measure.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I want it understood that I am not opposed to the passage of this bill nor to the appropriations which this bill is undertaking to pledge, but we have seen in session after session of the Legislature bills of this kind passed which carried to the people of the local communities of this State a promise of State aid if they would undertake something which required the expenditure of money and we have seen the State fail to make an appropriation to make good their end of the promise. I understand that there is an appropriation bill in the hands of the Appropriations Committee to make good to the school districts of the State the very promise that this bill holds out to them, but it does not strike me as a fair proposition that we should pass this bill, or permit it to go another step forward until we know if the Appropriations Committee is going to act favorably upon that appropriation in order that the State may be able to make good its part of the contract in this legislation, and it strikes me that the proper procedure in this case is to put the bill on the postponed Calendar until we know what the Appropriation Committee is going to do with the money that is essential to the carrying out of the provisions of this act. I don't want anyone to believe that I am opposed to the purpose of this bill, but it strikes me that it is premature to pass it at this time until we know what the Appropriations Committee is going to do and whether or not the fund will be forthcoming to make good the promise. We have seen it done with the Road Laws and with the Bounty Laws, and then the State never produced the money that it promised to the people. I do not think that we should act upon this Legislation until the money is forthcoming and I think it is our duty to hold this just where it is and for this reason I move at this time that this bill be placed on the postponed Calendar.

Mr. CHARLES A. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SHOWALTER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I agree with the gentleman that we do not know how much will be appropriated, providing this system is established, but I do think that the first thing would be to pass this bill, and any district that may see fit to adopt it will know whether or not this Legislature has passed an appropriation to meet the needs as provided for in this bill. Therefore, I do not think that any district that is wide awake, and that keeps watch on the legislation passed here will get into it unaware, and encur expenses without knowing whether or not they will be reimbursed by the State. I, therefore, ask you gentlemen to vote down this motion.

Mr. C. M. C. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I introduced a bill providing for the appropriation of so much money for the vocational schools, and it passed second reading and on my own account I had it recommitted to the Appropriation Committee. I thought that proper because there would be no use in providing money if the vocational schools were not established by this body or by this Assembly. For that reason I had it recommitted, and I hope that this bill will come before this body tonight and be voted upon.

Mr. WATSON. I am in favor of this bill but I am also in favor of knowing whether or not there will be a proper provision made to support vocational schools. It is a question that we must meet sooner or later in this United States and in this State and I think it would be the proper thing at the present time to postpone this bill, although at the same time I will say very emphatically that I am in favor of this bill. We have reached the place in this nation where the foundation of education in the primary schools is to wide and in the course of time it is necessary that we train our children and our young boys and girls in the lines or walks of life that they propose to follow and the industries that they intend to engage in. It is my idea that such an important measure ought not to be rushed through the House tonight without some further investigation.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—2.

Blair, W. F., Gray, Joseph.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmeative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILLS SIGNED BY SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. Announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both Houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 1.

An Act relating to moneys heretofore received by the Highway Department from fees for registration of motor-vehicles and the licensing of operators and making an appropriation thereof

Whereupon,

The Speaker in the presence of the House signed the same.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 644, entitled:

An Act to provide for the better protection of the lives bodies and health of new born children and parturient women throughout the Commonwealth by regulating the practice of midwifery as performed by midwives in the State of Pennsylvania and to provide that the Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure of the State of Pennsylvania shall enforce the povisions of this act making an appropriation therefor and providing certain penalties for the violations of the provisions thereof and repealing all acts and parts of acts incompatable herewith which failed on final passage on Februrary 27th, be reconsidered.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

Whereupon a division was taken.

The SPEAKER. 107 gentlemen, or more than a majority of the whole House, having voted in the affirmative.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STEEDLE. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I said one week ago this measure is in no way aiming to prohibit or eradicate the practice of mid-wifery in this State, but it is endeavoring to register the mid-wives so as to ascertain if such a woman is proficient in the art of obstretics and to further see that she lives up to the practices that would be prescribed in the passage of this bill. What proof has any community of the professing of any woman who styles herself a mid-wife. How is the community to ascertain that she has proper training under the guidance and supervision of a proper teacher in this particular art of medicine.

Fully seventy per cent. of all the operations done on the female sexual organ, become necessary because of poor obstretrics from unrepaired injuries to the birth canal and infection, the mid-wife knows nothing of the recognition and treatment of such injuries and she knows even less of the surgical cleanliness so essential to good results in maternity cases.

Fully fifty per cent. of the confinements in this State are in the hands of mid-wives. So, that it can be appreciated that thousands of the very best women in the State, in the prime of life are invalided each year, because of the ignorance and neglect in their care before, during and after child birth.

You will agree with me, Gentlemen of the House, especially those who reside in or close to the city, that ninety per cent. of the mid-wives are foreigners. In Europe a mid-wife is compelled to attend at least twenty cases of labors under the supervision of a proper professor of obstretrics, and once a year she has to apply to the health authorities for a renewal of her certificate, and at least once in two years she must appear personally for a re-examination before a board whose members comprise only the best obstretricians in the medical profession in the suburban parts of Europe. They at least make an effort to keep a check on mid-wives.

In this country and in this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania no effort is made to place these women under some proper system of registration so as to investigate efficiency in this particular branch and also as to their moral standing.

You accepted it as a foregone conclusion that if this act is to pass, it is legislation for the benefit of the doctors, and you never once stop to consider the merit of the bill so as to ascertain whether this bill had any humanitarian merit to it; and, so as to satisfy your minds, some of you at least, when this bill was up for final passage, on last Thursday, voted against this meritorious measure.

In no other branch of medicine do we permit ignorant, non-medical individuals to give council and assistance in medical matters. Mid-wifery is the most poorly of all medical work. Not alone because about fifty per cent. of all labors are in the hands of mid-wives, but largely because of the low standard of mid-wifery existing among physicians and laity alike.

In this great country with its great wealth and unlimited resources, it should be and is unnecessary that a system should exist and be supported which seeks to give to those unable to pay for competent services a service which is incompetent and unsafe and administered by untutored medical individuals. We are passing through a political social and economic revolution which is certain to result in giving to the worthy poor their share in the necessities of life among which must be included competent medical service, administered by those who are trained in medicine. They will demand it and they are going to get it. This does not necessarily mean Socialism, but it does mean Social Justice.

Talcott Williams, in speaking on "Equality of the Opportunity" in this country, presents some astonishing facts and figures which shows that the trend of modern times are toward equality of opportunity in all that relates to economic progress. The practice of obstetrics carries with it much more than standing by while the natural forces of labor complete the act as best they may. Obstetrics is an important branch of medicine and to practice it safely and successfully, implies a knowledge of general medicine, as well as a knowledge and appreciation of physiology and pathology, the normal and abnormal of child bearing processes. The function of the mid-wife in mid-wifery case is to secure for the woman the best possible preparation in her labors; to accomplish her delivery safely, and to leave her, so far as possible in good surgical condition; to prepare the mother and to teach her the importance of nursing her child and to do everything that is possible to bring this about.

In the past sessions of the Legislature, bills were introduced for the enactment of such laws that would place the lives of the people of this Commonwealth who needed medical aid into the hands of such men and women as are competent, proficient and absolutely safe for the lay man to employ as his or her doctor. For that sign which you see him or her displaying on his or her office window, this Commonwealth demands that without a question of doubt before such physician be granted that privilege, he or she should show to the proper authorities of this Commonwealth that he or she is competent to practice medicine and surgery before placarding or placing such a sign, by compelling him or her to pass a most stringent examination.

Not only is this true of medicine but also applies to law, pharmacy, dentistry, et cetera.

Permit me, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen, to ask you, as Members of this House, surely you do not think these examinations are required to protect the various professions but I am of the firm belief, and I believe that you all are, that they are to safeguard the people against men and women who are not proficient and are fraudulent and counterfeit and not competent to follow either profession. Now, I ask you in all sincerity, and fairness, as men, whether you think this bill is to protect the doctor, or is it to protect the public? You may say: Mid-wifery has in no way any relation to the practice of medicine or surgery, I hold and so does the medical profession at large, that this is a part of the practice of medicine and of surgery, without a question of doubt, for it carries a separate examination before the Medical Licensure.

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen, in this particular line of medicine (obstetricts), as it is called, we meet with accidents and complications, namely, such as antipost partem hemorrhage, adherent placentas, lacerations, whether such lacerations be confined to the cerviz uteri or of the perinaeum, or injury to the vaginal wall. These are the most common accidents with which we meet. Of the commonest, complication sapraemia and septicemia—the former caused by retention of the part of placentie and the latter, by the invasion of germs through the parturient canal into the uterus, most frequently caused by the failure of performing this particular duty without proper anticeptic precautions, either at the time of parturitianm or due to the improper care thereafter.

It is equally plain that every woman has a right as a citizen, and as a mother, to such care during, and following, child birth, as shall preserve her and her children in life and health. It is not difficult to prove that this cannot be accomplished by mid-wives.

As to the mortality and morbidity—among mid-wife cases, there has never been any legal statistics prepared in this country. In DeLus Principles and Practice of Obstetrics, just issued, he states that sixty per cent. of the primiparaes, have lacerations of the first degree; that twenty-five per cent. multipare have lacerations extending well into the perineal body, and that in ten per cent. of all cases the lacerations extend down to the sphincter ani muscle. This gives an idea of the large percentage of cases in which there is injury to the perineaum to say nothing of the laceration elsewhere in the vagina and of the cervix.

In absolutely every case delivered by mid-wives, there is no attempt to repair, the lacerations, so that it may be readily appreciated what an enormous amount of morbidity there is among mid-wife cases. Then, too, the mid-wife knows nothing of surgical cleanliness, so that a large number of cases are certainly infected by her. The fact that a woman is infected and does not die is no prove that she has not been infected, as many of them are invalided as a result of mild infections which do not kill but do invalidate them. Then, too, from twenty-five per cent. to thirty per cent. of the women have misplaced uteri following delivery. Ninety per cent. or more of which can be cured by the use of a pessary for a number of months. Those cases are all un-recognized and untreated by the mid-wife. So, that it is safe to say that fully seventy-five per cent. of the mid-wife cases are left incapacitated to a greater or less extent, until some better supervision is made of the mid-wife, it never will be known how great is the harm they do. Many of them are abortionists. Large numbers of them pay tribute to cheap and disreputable physicians in order to secure protection from them when in trouble. As an example of a case in the city of Pittsburgh. A certain mid-wife received $8.00 for attending a confinement case. Of this amount she received, she pays over, it is said, $3.00 for every case she cares for, to a certain doctor, who helps her out and shields her, when she is in trouble. Mid-wives do not sign death certificates, and there is not the slightest doubt but that numbers of their deaths are reported under the name of some cause of death other than child-bed fever; and, this is the more easily true, since pneumonia and other forms of infection are the terminal processes in many cases.

Gentlemen, who of us here would turn a deaf ear to the cries of the people asking for such legislation that would need their demand, while this is in no way a cry from the people, it is a cry for their protection. Every one here assembled sanctifies the word Mother, and this being true, should not we then as men, do everything possible for her, as an American citizen and give her all the protection within our means, that in time of need she can safely call in any mid-wife to render her such assistance as is required at that particular time, and know that she will be properly attended to without endangering her life, either in the way of becoming infected and thereby endangering sterility or by the way of lacerations that may render her unfit to care for her family as it should be cared for; not because she has become less proud of that family, but because she is physically incapacitated owing to such an accident as I have enumerated, without being properly repaired after the parturition period, and thereby invalided her to perform the sacred duties of a mother.

The passage of this act shall not mean to construe mid-wifery, where a neighbor has been called to render such assistance where a physician or a mid-wife is unable to get there before the birth of such a child, any more than it is the first aid to the injured, constitutes to mean practicing medicine or surgery.

One of the sanest and best enterprises ever undertaken in this country in the Educational Campaign initiated by the medical profession for the conservation of human resources especially those of health and vision. Notwithstanding all his services to mankind of all the servants of mankind the physician is apt to be most abused, and the profession has been criticized for its attitude toward the public wealth, however, altruistic that attitude may have been. The medical profession, however, has never been selfish. It has always been self-sacrificing, and now that its attitude has changed in that it has assumed a responsibilitiy to the public formerly confined for the most part to the individual, the invaluable opportunity of the public is to co-operate, through its intelligent laymen, with a medical campaign that would assail the fortified breeding grounds of disease as well as to remove a disease or relieve a pain from the particular victim that it has seized.

This new and splendid demonstration by the medical practitioners is, as yet, scarcely understood by the laity but it is going on, and if the people have regard for their interest, commercial and industrial as well as physical, they will help the doctors and give them heed in their far-reaching activities to prevent and drive out the illness that flesh is heir too; it is a prevailing weakness of poor human nature which makes men and women—even intelligent men and women—fall so easily a prey to the charlatan whom the medical profession has ever diligently endeavored to eliminate.

It is high time that we awaken to the fact that we are not at present adequately conserving the lives, health and vision of the children who must soon be the men and women whose sustained vigor will be the final safe-guard of American civilization and institutions.

It was clearly established in the congressional debate last year that hundreds of thousands of people die prematurely and needlessly in America every year; millions are more than half incapacitated the year round by semi-invalidism, and the resultant annual loss to the State in dollars and cents is enormous.

It should not be necessary to reduce this loss to a money basis to obtain an attentive hearing. It should be enough simply to say that human life, health and vision, without any regard to a money consideration, are being wasted by lax laws or, rather, absence of laws regulating the practice of mid-wifery.

But this financial aspect may serve to arouse a lethargic public conscience to the overwhelming need of improving the conditions of our women and their children especially among the poor.

Statistics show in all countries that most of the blindness is found in exceedingly poor families. The infant becomes blind in a family in which the struggle for existence is so keen that often it is an almost hopeless one. This means a life-long dependence of the individual on the community and a family forced into inevitable pauperism. Helen Keller has said, "The greatest curse of blindness is not blindness, but idleness."

There are in the United States approximately 120,000 blind people, over 6,000 in this State, who are as a result in enforced idleness and dependence. Apart from a humanitarian standpoint, as a purely economic question, the saving to the State by the prevention of the preventable blindness would be considerable for these unfortunates, instead of being burdens to themselves their families and the State, would become wage earners.

How do these individuals become blind and how can the blindness be prevented?

During the passage of the child's head through the birth canal discharges from the mother may enter the eyes of the infant and produce an inflamation of its eyes. If the eyes of these unfortunate babies receive prompt treatment, the vast majority go on to complete recovery, but a great number are neglected from the start and are not seen by the eye-specialist until irreparable damage to the organs of vision has resulted.

Whilst in most cases infection occurs at birth, it may occur during the first two weeks of life from uncleanliness in handling sponges, towels and other toilet articles, or as the result of the placing in the eye, by an ignorant attendant, of nostrums or domestic remedies such as whiskey, gin and in some cases even such a seemingly impossible article as urine.

Fully one-third of all the blindness is due to some infection contracted at birth; 70 per cent. of all blinduess in children under twelve years of age is due to this; and, of all children born with seeing eyes, who become hoplessly blind within the first year of life, 80 per cent. needlessly lost their sight because of someone's ignorance or neglect.

The gravity of this condition is intensified when we consider that sight is lost before the individual has become at all adapted to his surroundings, thus making him a ward upon the community for a life time. The efforts that have been made by progressive and broad-minded humane physicians to control this horrible destruction of vision have been unwearied.

In the modern hospitals and in the practice of the best physicians preventive measures are invariable employed, and, when inflammation of the victim's eyes develop, prompt effective treatment is instituted with the result that blindness is practically unknown in infants thus cared for.

In spite of this fact, the per centage of blindness from the above causes in schools and asylums is on the increase. The explanation of the apparent conflict of these two statements lies in the leading part which the untrained mid-wife plays in the tragedy of infantile blindness, because an increasing number of women in the poorer classes especially among non-English speaking foreigners, is applying to such illiterate mid-wives for care during confinement.

Within the last twenty years the number of births reported by mid-wives has more than trebled, 50 per cent. of the total number of births reported having been attended by mid-wives—this in spite of the ample maternity hospital provisions which our cities afford. This mid-wife problem therefore deserves the serious consideration of all public-spirited citizens.

Various European governments, in the absence of physicians from rural sections, recognize the necessity for the mid-wife and not only do they safe-guard the public by legally restricting her activities but thoroughly educate and prepare her for her work among the poor. This wise condition unfortunately does not as yet obtain on this side of the Atlantic. In America, notwithstanding an excess of trained phyisicians, it is so frequently reiterated that the mid-wife is here to stay that we are forced to believe it; that 50 per cent. of births are supervised by her seems to establish the truth of the statement. The poorer classes seem to prefer her services to those of our hospitals, maternities or relief societies who furnish free medical attention by women physicians, notwithstanding the fact that the ignorance and incompetence of these mid-wives often bring blindness to the baby and death to the mother .

True, the mid-wife's patronage can never rise above a certain social line, but persons below this line do not know how to take care of themselves and their ignorance leads to results from which intelligent men must save them.

It has been demonstrated that not only is the American mid-wife, white and black, ignorant and untrustworthy, but that the foreign woman, thoroughly trained and legally restricted in her own country, soon degenerates to the level of demand when she comes to America where there are no legal restrictions or requirements.

Seventy-seven per cent. of all children, blind as a result of neglect or maltreatment during the first two weeks of life, were born under the mid-wife's care. In the face of these facts, the State cannot afford to do anything less than compel the mid-wife to prove her fitness for her work before she is permitted to assume this most responsible position in which the sight and lives of citizens in this State are at stake.

In Pennsylvania we have no mid-wife law at all, and of those women that attempt mid-wifery less than one per cent. are registered; so birth registration is difficult to enforce, and the mid-wife has absolutely no legal restrictions and no recognized legal statutes.

The medical profession in this campaign to save infants from blindness, is already organized; a committee of the American Medical Association has for some time been at work upon a plan of procedure by which it is hoped to secure uniform legislation upon this subject in all the States; but the physicians can never do this alone. This is a social disorder and it must be met by organized social effort; Every Womans' club, every charitable society, every newspaper, every lay, religious and medical magazine must interest itself in protecting the babies, for of all ignorance which needs to be dispelled by this regeneration among us none is more intolerable than that which wantonly permits children to be plunged into the abyss of blindness.

So long as half the births are attended by untrained or partially trained mid-wives, one thing is necessary, the widest dissemination of information as to the importance, the danger and the prevalence of infantile ophthalmia. The story must be told and retold in plain language until the subject is fully understood by the general public. It is not enough that it be discussed in medical societies. Propaganda among the people is imperative until the mother shall demand, when the attendant is neglectful, that the eyes of her infant be safeguarded.

No intelligent person will attempt to controvert the fact that it is the duty of the State to protect its infant citizens as a minor from the danger of blindness with which he is threatened; nor will any one dispute the fact that it is the duty of the State to protect itself from the burden of caring for the unnecessarily blind.

If the right of personal property of a minor child, and more especially of an infant, be put in jeopardy, the law, representing the State, takes upon itself to stand between that child and the danger with which it is threatened. Its parents or guardians may not maltreat, or starve or otherwise abuse it. They may not misappropriate its estate if it has one. It is not permitted even to labor while of school age lest it be deprived of the privileges of education while still a child and lose thereby a right to which the State considers it is entitled. Neither should negligence nor indifference nor ignorance rob it of one the most precious possessions by putting out its eyes while still too helpless to protect itself. The child is entitled to the right of protection in its weakness, by the State.

When it is borne in mind that a great deal of this blindness could be prevented, the continued blinding of babies in a civilized community becomes absolutely a crime.

Why, as a common sense proposition, does a nation, the State of Pennsylvania, sit idly and indifferently by, making no attempt to prevent this enormous and needless wast of human eyes?

The investigators of this broad subject have drafted the enclosed bill, impressed with the extraordinary neglect in this State of the eyes of the new-born. They believe that the foregoing statement leading to a knowledge of conditions here, would make such strong appeal that the remedy would be grasped at.

If the eyes of the new-born were properly cared for in every instance, one-third of all the schools for the blind in the United States could close their doors, and if every woman received proper care before, during and after confinement there would be an enormous reduction of chronic invalidism and the State appropriations now necessary for semi-State institutions would as a consequence be very materially reduced.

Therefore, gentlemen and Mr. Speaker of the House, I appeal to you as men, to vote for the reconsideration of this measure which failed owing to the lack of a Constitutional majority, on last Thursday, and trust that you will also vote affirmatively on this measure, when again called for final passage.

Mr. HEIDINGER. Mr. Speaker, I voted "no" before because I thought the appropriation was entirely too large and that the fee required was exorbitant. When the sponser had agreed to have it amended from ten dollars to five dollars as a fee and to reduce the appropriation to fifteen thousand dollars I agreed to vote for it and I am in favor of the bill under those circumstances. I feel that all the members on this side of the House will vote for the bill as amended.

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the sponser of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Richards permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. RICHARDS. Yes, sir.

Mr. NEWBAKER. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman whether or not this bill, if passed would prohibit old ladies, from assisting their neighbors during this period in an emergency when there is no one there?

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, this bill will not in any manner interfere with or prohibit a neighbor from assisting in an emergency case and I believe the doctor has explained that to your entire satisfaction (referring to Dr. Steedle). The provisions of this bill will be enforced by the Medical Board of Education and Licensure and I have the assurance from some of the members of that board that they will not in any manner interfere in cases such as the gentleman from Montour has referred to. I desire to say that this bill did, at the time it was introduced, carry with it an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars and that part of the bill seemed to stir up some very spirited opposition. During that debate, I attempted to very gracefully but whether or not very intelligently offer to submit an amendment which was agreed to by the members of this House. Since that time, Mr. Speaker, I have interviewed those who are most interested in the amount of money necessary for the proper organization of this work and for the proper examination and proper regulation of the women who are now engaged in the business of mid-wifery. I have learned from them that there are seven hundred and sixty-two mid-wives—women who absolutely make their livlihood in this business, and in addition to that there are estimated to be some twelve hundred other women who practice this business for a livelihood. The members of the Medical Board of Education discussed the amount of money that in their opinion would be necessary to properly enforce this bill and the amount ranged from thirty thousand to sixty-five thousand dollars and in their opinion the result of fifty thousand dollars was in a manner a compromise. They told me since the defeat of this bill that the greatest expense would be during the first year of the enforcement of this bill with organizing, examining and registering the women of this great State who desire to practice mid-wifery. I am willing to have you lay the bill before the House without any further amendment to vote upon it but I do think, Mr. Speaker, and I do believe that there is no task worthier than that of teaching the youth of our State the doctrine of physical fitness and I do say that the State's greatest asset or the greatest asset of the nation is the superior physical equipment of its men and women, and we should not permit the practice of mid-wifery by the ignorant and superstitious women, in some cases, and you gentlemen in the rural districts don't come into contact with the same mid-wifery as we do in the city or borough. I can readily see the objection from the members of the rural districts and I can, in a manner, agree with them in their objections, but it is not the intention of prohibiting a friendly neighbor to come to your assistance or that of your wife during that period. So, if that is the only objection, that the members of the rural districts have, then they will have my assurance that those women will not in any manner be molested and I hope that members of this House will consider this bill favorably.

Mr. NEWBAKER. I do not find in the second section of this bill where an exemption is made in favor of the old-fashioned nurse who is often the only person to be gotten in the country for probably five miles in case of an emergency.

Mr. RICHARDS. What page is it on?

Mr. NEWBAKER. Page one thousand one hundred and fifteen, in section two. The gentleman from Allegheny said, in section two an exemption is made. There is nothing of the kind. This bill would work a hardship. I believe there are twenty thousand or probably twenty-five thousand nurses of the character who would never take out a license—who would be unable to do it. They are called upon constantly to go out and assist in an emergency of this kind, and obstetric cases are always emergency cases.

Mr. RICHARDS. Section two says that "The Bureau of Medical Education and Licensure shall formulate and issue such rules and regulations from time to time as may be necessary for the proper conduct of the practice of mid-wifery."

Mr. NEWBAKER. That leaves it altogether to the Bureau and not to this Legislature. There is nothing in the section which would not make it a crime for a nurse to assist in a case of that kind without a license.

Mr. RICHARDS. I take it for granted that the members of the Board of Medical Education and Licensure are men of reason, are fair-minded and will not impose upon the people of this Commonwealth by insisting that the particular woman must be registered and must be examined by them. We have to take that for granted.

Mr. NEWBAKER. I think such an amendment should be made to the bill.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question, recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, namely,

O God, as we come before Thee this morning, we recognize the fact that new duties are awaiting us, that new engagements are demanding our attention and our thought, that new opportunities are presenting themselves, impelling us to decision and action. Our sufficiency is not in ourselves, and we reverently recognize this great truth when we come every morning at the beginning of the sessions of the day to Thee O God of Heaven. Our sufficiency is in Thee. We pray that Thou wouldst take us this morning just as we are, and so control our minds and direct our thoughts that everything which enters into this day before us, and which issues out of it may commend itself to Thee and meet with Thine approval and blessing. We pray again, as we are taught to pray, for that great nation of which we form a part, asking that it may be in reality and in truth what it is in name a Christian Nation, with reverence for God in the hearts of the people and love for righteousness; and we pray for our great Commonwealth, with its record for loyalty and patriotism in the years which are gone, with its great undertakings, and its splendid achievements. My we who are chosen to further its interests, and are honored with the trust of the people, do nothing to-day, nor at any time, which may hinder its progress, but everything to help with the blessing of God, and Thy name shall have the praise of it forever. Amen.

RESOLUTION REQUESTING INFORMATION FROM DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a resolution.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read.

The resolution was read as follows:

Whereas, There has been conferred upon the Department of Health and the Commissioner of said Department, larger discretionary power than any other department of the State Government has been entrusted with, and

Whereas, The General Appropriation Bill now in the hands of this House, shows an evident desire to further increase the number of employes and the expense of maintaining said Department of Health; therefore

Be it Resolved, That the Commissioner of Health be, and he is hereby requested to furnish to this House at the earliest possible date, a list of all employes of said Department, with the salary paid to each, and where the compensation of such employes is in the nature of fees, to furnish the schedule of fees and the amount paid such employes since June 1, 1911, and to include in said report, a statement showing the Act or Acts of Assembly under authority of which each of said employes, whether employed on a salary or on fees, was so employed by said Department; also, a statement of all salaries that have been increased since June 1, 1911, and the amount of such increase.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the consideration of the resolution at this time.

The SPEAKER. Is there any objection. The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

Mr. HUMES . Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, by way of explanation of this resolution, I want to say that it is not aimed at any particular official, and there is no desire to go into any investigation or to question the character or intergrity of any department, but in looking over the General Appropriation Bill, which is now in the hands of the House, I discovered that that Department is asking for an increase in the appropriation over two years ago of $891,000. I find in the bill that a great number of new positions are created. I think this department is the only department of the State Government that the Legislature has entrusted absolutely to the care of the head of the department, he to use his own discretion in that particular employee or employees that shall be employed by the department. He has carte blanche to employ whoever he pleases or for whatever purpose he pleases, as I understand it. Under the bill, the salaries of the new positions that are to be created by the appropriation aggregate something over $15,000, and the old employees have their salaries increased to the extent of $57,540; and in addition to that there is an increase in the other appropriations asked for to the extent of $567,000, all of which is available as the Commissioner of Health chooses to use it for the purpose of increasing salaries and creating new positions.

It is because of this condition that I believe it is the duty of this House to know just what positions there are in that Department and just what new positions are intended to be created, in order that we may have the information in the nature of a report that we have with refernece to other departments on the statute books; the other departments having their employees designated by law, I hope that this resolution will pass, in order that we may know just exactly what employees there are in that department and to know whether or not the power and discretion that is vested in that department is in any way being abused.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 5.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I call up Concurrent Resolution No. 5, File Folio No. 869.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will be read by the Clerk.

The resolution was read as follows:

Whereas, The Government of the United States in securing volunteers for soldiers for the Civil War of one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one to sixty-five offered "the officers non-commissioned officers and privates organized in the army navy and marine corps shall in all respects be placed on the same footing as to pay and allowances of similar corps of the regular army"

And Whereas, The Congress of the United States passed acts of Congress on the twenty-second day of July one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and of the third of

August one thousand eight hundred and sixty-one and at divers others times embodying and making pledges and promises aforesaid

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I deem it advisable to make a slight explanation to give you the meaning and purpose of this resolution. There have been introduced into Congress at various times bills to create what is known as the Civil War Volunteer Officers' Retired List and the plan and purpose is to place upon this list the volunteer officers who served in the Civil War, at a certain pay for the remaining days of their lives. To this time, no such bill has passed, and this resolution calls upon Congress to do what in justice the Government has promised to do in the years of the Civil War. As the resolution sets out itself, on July 22, 1861, when the call for volunteers was made, there were certain promises and assurances made that those who enlisted, either as privates, non-commissioned officers or officers, would be placed upon the same basis, when it came to pay and allowances as to old age. To date these pledges and promises have not been redeemed, so far as the volunteer officers are concerned. The pledges have been substantially redeemed so far as the privates are concerned, and the equality has been preserved between the private of the regular army and the private volunteer, but the several Acts of Congress, of 1875, 1904, 1906 and 1907, make a distinction—that is, the regular officer receives, solely because of his service in the Civil War, a certain bonus which, in the case of Colonel, amounts to $1,500 annually. Every man who was an officer in the regular army in the Civil War is retired with one grade rank in advance because of that service, even though he served but a single day and even though he served by the side of a volunteer officer in the same campaign and in the same battles. He receives, because he was a regular army officer, one degree in advance, or compensation equal to one degree in advance of his service in the Civil War.

Now, I need not speak about the importance of the volunteer officer in a military system such as we have in our country,—a military system depending upon the citizen soldiery. I say we have had 50,500 regular men who were in the field, as against 857,500 volunteers, a ratio of 1 to 28, and that ninety-six per cent. of the historical engagements were waged by the volunteers. I need not say anything further; that in itself shows the importance of treating with equality the volunteer officer with the regular officer. Now, in the past, pledges of this sort have been kept. In 1828, forty-two years after the War of the Revolution, a bill went through Congress which created a retired list, placing upon it all men who served in the Revolutionary Army in conformance to a pledge and promise made during the Revolutionary War. Forty-five years have gone by now and it is important that the prestige of this country and its pledges be preserved, by fulfilling promises made in 1861.

Resolutions similar to this have been adopted in other States. There have been ten other States which have clled upon Congress to redeem its pledge—Iowa, New York, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin and others, ten in number. When I ask that this resolution be adopted this morning, I simply ask that Pennsylvania be put in line with the other States and that there be no inequality between the private and the volunteer officer, no disparagement, but simply that there be equality between officers, whatever their grade of service may have been in the late Civil War.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. W. H. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, just a word of explanation with reference to this bill. This is an amendment to the Act of 1895, which deals with cemeteries and burial grounds. The Act of 1895 covers conditions where there is a desire to remove bodies from cemeteries and burial grounds where streets have been cut through and where becoming a public nuisance and menace to public health; but does not touch the condition where these burial grounds and cemeteries have been abandoned. The sole purpose of this Act is to amend the Act of 1895 so as to cover that condition.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—1.

Humes,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have put on record my reasons for my vote on House Bill No. 523, whichwas negatived by the Committee on Municipal Corporations. It is in relation to City Solicitors. There has been much discussion concerning this bill in Philadelphia and I would like to be straightened out on the matter and therefore ask to have my reason for voting as I did spread upon the Journal.

The SPEAKER. There being no objections the gentleman's reasons will be spread upon the Journal.

REASONS FOR VOTE.

Mr. LORENZO SMITH. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I desire to register my reasons for assuming the anomalous position of presenting a bill and then advocating its defeat: I refer to bill No. 523, affecting the selecting of City Solicitors; in lieu of the comment this has elicited I deem it essential to justice that I square my connection therewith.

Actuated by a courtesy I presumed to be in vogue, at the request of a prominent citizen of Philadelphia, who is chairman of a much vaunted Civic Organization, I presented several bills for consideration by the House, including bill No. 523; the conditions attending this presentation did not in the least obligate me to tender them my support. To have supported bill No. 523, would have necessitated an abridgement of my conception of Progressiveism as enunciated in the Republican State Convention Pledge, which is far from my intent; hence unless I did violence to the Republican Progressive Creed, which was ratified by thousands of voters in the District I represent, I could not consistently do else than insist upon having bill 523 consigned to the scrap heap of the defunct.

REASONS FOR VOTE FILED BY MR. WILTBANK, FEBRUARY 26, 1913.

Mr. WILTBANK. My reasons for moving to place on the calendar House Bill No. 2, entitled "An Act permitting certain baseball games on Sunday, between 3 and 6 o'clock p. m," and also my reasons for introducing the above bill are the following:

This bill was givento me by a delegation of my constituents for the purpose of introducing the same. I introduced it as a bill by request. At the time of its introduction I informed my constituents that the bill was not agreeable to the majority of my people; that the district I represent was opposed in large majority to any laws affecting the Sabbath. It was with this understanding that I introduced the bill. When the bill was recommended to the House with a negative recommendation by the Law and Order Committee, I moved to have the same put upon the Calendar, again by request.

My district is composed to a great extent of church going Christian living people. This bill did not at any time have my support.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. RICHARDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up House Bill No. 197, file folio 991, page 10 of to-day's calendar. Bills on Third Reading postponed for the present.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 197, entitled:

An Act regulating the issuance of licenses to marry prohibiting the issuance of such licenses to certain persons regulating the time during which licenses shall be valid and the time when returns shall be made of marriages solemnized to the clerk of the orphans' court and prescribing the duties of the clerk of orphans' court

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken as follows, viz:

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, there appears to be two misspelt words in this bill, and I ask the unanimous consent of the House at this time to offer an amendment to the bill.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk then read the amendment as follows:

Amend section one, page five, line 108, by striking out the word "including" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "include." Also in section two, page six, line 6, strike out the word "chose" and insert in lieu thereof the word "choose."

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to insert the amendments as read? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instructions of the House.

The bill as amended was then agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 883, entitled:

A supplement to an act entitled "An Act for the government of cities of the second class" approved March seventh one thousand nine hundred and one providing for the creation of a pension fund for municipal employees

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. GEARY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I wish to say just a few words about this bill. This bill applies to cities of the second class only, and to Pittsburgh especially. In Pittsburgh there are at present over 2500 city employees, who are members of a municipal pension association. This bill simply grants the right to the City Council, and the authority to work out a plan, if they wish to do so, that would help to assist men working for the city in establishing a fund for the aged, sick and disabled city employees. There is nothing compulsory about this bill as you members will notice in line five, which reads, "that those in authority may assist or help in this matter."

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken as follows, viz:

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I just wish to call the attention of the House to the fact that there is a very important matter here on third reading. I do not wish to go into the details of how it has come to this point. This is a question of calling a constitutional convention. This proposition is a conglomeration of four or five ideas, which have been consolidated. This bill was introduced and reported to a committee, sent back to the floor of the House, sent back to the Committee and again came back on the floor of the House. I am not going into all the details of the advancement of the bill to this point. I will let the twenty-five members of the Constitutional Reform Committee, or the Chairman of the Judiciary Special Committee explain those details to you, but I want to bring to your notice the importance of the work that goes with a Constitutional Convention and also the double-barreled proposition. This bill and the one which proceeds it are corresponding bills and you not only vote for a constitutional convention but you vote at the same election upon whether or not you send delegates to that convention, and you vote upon the delegates. The moment you start this co-partnership of bills out, you start out candidates for delegates to this convention, and you also have the question of whether or not you are going to have this convention. Suppose this Legislature were elected under those conditions. We should vote on one ballot whether or not we have a Legislature, and whether or not they send us here to this Legislature. Now in this proposition, you would have to go out to your constituents and explain to them that they must make a choice in this matter as to whether or not we should have a constitutional convention, and say to them that if you vote for a constitutional convention, vote for me as a delegate. If the Legislature were elected under this system, it is probable that we would not have a Legislature. I tell you, gentlemen, this is not a trivial matter that we are voting on. I do not intend to go into the details of the arrival of this bill upon the floor of the House. The men in back of this bill do not know anything more about it than a child does about its own birth. I believe the Constitution is sacred. This question was voted on in 1891, and the people voted down a Constitutional Convention, and still elected delegates. But the times have changed since then. There is something wrong. Nobody knows what it is. You cannot know, nor I do not know myself, what is wrong. I am perfectly willing to submit any proposition to the people, and have so cast my vote on similar propositions before the House, but I do not think that the question should be submitted to the people as to whether or not we should have a constitutional convention and at the same time elect delegates to that convention. Without any apparent reason this matter is brought before us, because some one intimated that some one else wanted a constitutional convention, and you pass upon this question, and pass it up to a stagnant Senate, or a wise Governor, to do the rest. We ought to think about this matter very seriously under these circumstances, when we have no requests from our home counties to change the Constitution. I do not think that we are in a position to submit the question to the people under the present conditions as to whether or not we are to have a Constitutional Convention in the shape of this double barreled proposition that we now have here. That is the trouble with this proposition. In thirty-nine years our present Constitution has been amended three times, so it cannot be such a piece of patch work. In two years, you can make any amendment to the Constitution that you may want, so it is not so difficult to make an amendment as it is to make a Constitution. The demand for this convention comes not from the people but from about three general sources, and one of these sources is from those who want to try something new, and from ambitious politicians who wish to purge themselves from past experience and shine in the light of the public. As I said there are but three general sources from which has come a demand for a change in the Constitution, and I do not think that this is the time to do it. Conditions have been extremely unsettled in the past ten years. We have had revolutions in Central America and in Continential Europe, and revolutions and rebellion on the border line, but these have been physical and military developments, while at home we have had commercial developments. I say that this State and country is going through somewhat of the same mental rebellion that we have had in Mexico and Central and South America. These conditions have been present for the last ten years and I think we should take them into consideration before presenting a doubled barreled proposition of this kind to the people at this time. The proposition has come up to this point and it is unnecessary for me to go into the details of how it got there. This bill is on third reading, and you are to vote on it as to whether or not you think the people of Pennsylvania should have a constitutional convention, without taking into consideration their own attitude on the matter. The result cannot be good. Then again the cost provided for is half a million of dollars and I cannot understand why such a bill as this was not referred to theAppropriation Committee. A half a million of dollars is the first appropriation, and a half a million dollars more will be needed to carry out the provisions of this act. Ohio is the best and closest example of which I can point to with reference to the errors of constitutional amendments. I have among my acquainfances several delegates to that convention who were college professors, and whose duties included the teaching of constitutional history and constitutional conventions, and they will tell you that they have a grave doubt in their minds as to whether or not they are proud of their experience in that convention, and they will tell you that you have no opportunity to place yourselves against the ravages of political nostrums on a new and untried proposition such as this. There is a little point that you probably have not seen because things have been going by you in kaleidescopic fashion. You voted for a bill to provide for a codification and a classification of the laws of this State and thirty thousand dollars was appropriated to carry out its provisions. I think it is more urgent to carry on and follow out the work of the Legislative Reference Bureau and then after the people have settled down, and if they want it, we may have a constitutional convention. In a session back in the sixties, our Pamphlet Laws would be a foot or a foot and a half thick. We passed laws for every cross-roads in the State. We have had but one codification of the laws since the new Constitution was passed in seventy-four. We have been going back every day, and have been showing a disposition to pass general laws for special cases and our getting to the place where we are again passing laws for every cross-roads in the State. But if you have any patriotism in your heart, any red blood in your system, you are going to look into this question very seriously before you vote. As to the details of the arrival of this bill at this particular stage, I will not go into that because I wish to call your attention to the seriousness of what you are about to vote upon and tell you that I am doing it sincerely and if this bill does pass I will feel that I have done my duty to myself and to my constituents, because I have some pride in the Constitution, some pride in the State, I have some pride in doing something more than merely standing here to oppose the provisions of this bill. Now let us all decide this question for ourselves as I hope to do.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, I think the unfortunate feature perhaps of this bill at this time is the confusion that occurred in the matter of the reference of the bill. I feel confident that had this bill been referred to another committee than the committee to which it was referred, much of the opposition that it is meeting at this time would probably not have materialized. That may or may not have been unfortunate yet in no sense affects the merits or demerits of the proposed legislation and it is our duty to look upon it as it stands upon our calendar and forget what committee or committees may have considered it when it was in committee. The gentleman from Westmoreland (Mr. Schuck) has undertaken to compare the situation in the State and country with the situation in Mexico and South American countries and he refers to the development in Mexico. But he must remember that the development in Mexico and in South American countries are physical developments, while in this country, we can depend upon the mental development of the people which will safeguard our interests. It has been the experience of this State that about every thirty years we have had a new constitution, and that thirty years has now elapsed and there is a very general feeling throughout the State that the time has arrived for the consideration of a constitutional revision and I believe that at the election next fall, the question of voting for a Constitutional Convention should be determined by the people. I believe that the people that we trusted to elect us to this Assembly can be trusted to determine the question of a Constitutional Convention. There was much difference of opinion on this question during the early stages of the discussion, but after much consideration it was generally agreed that this question should be submitted to the people for determination and then the only question left to determine was how to get the Constitutional Convention and the right of the people to be properly safeguarded when the convention shall take place and act. The consideration of this led to much discussion and to much study and I believe that all of the people who have given consideration to this matter will agree that the bill, as now presented, for the consideration of this House will be an absolute safeguard of all the interests and then all the people of the State will be protected. The whole constitution can be submitted together as one constitution, or by vote of one-third of the Constitutional Convention any separate section can be submitted by itself. Some of the advocates of this measure showed that there should be a companion bill created and a commission appointed to consider this question and report to the convention but after the discussion that grew out of that, it was agreed by the sponser of the bill and its advocates that that issue should be pushed no further but that it should lie in the committee in which it now reposes. Now, that any danger that might have grown out of that has been eliminated, all of the other differences that seem to divide the people who claim that the people should consider this question,—all this having been settled, it strikes me that this House should pass this bill and give the people of this State an opportunity to determine whether or not the convention should be held or whether session after session of the Legislature we are going to have amendment after amendment of the Constitution for our consideration and be tied up in legislative halls for at least four years when that can be avoided by the people. I hope all the members of this House will appreciate the importance of this and that they will have sufficient confidence in the people of this Commonwealth to enact this law and let them determine the question of a Constitutional Convention for themselves.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I only speak for myself in this matter and I wish to say that I have heard of no personal demand for the enactment of this legislation. On the other hand I think perhaps that this comes from designing politicians. I don't believe that this is the proper time to revise the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The present Constitution has answered very well so far as I know and with the amendments which have been adopted it has been improved recently and it would be, in my judgment, the proper thing to vote this bill down.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL.

Mr. WALTON. Mr. Speaker, as this bill carries an appropriation with it, I move you that it be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. On the question,

Shall this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations?

MR. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I hope that this motion will not prevail. This is a bill that has come before this House after having been considered by various legislative committees of varous parties. It is a bill that has been given State-wide publicity; a bill that is now here upon third reading. The necessity of recommitting it to the Committee on Appropriations is not necessary. It has not been usual with a bill of this character that has been drafted so that the question of appropriation will be taken care of through the General Appropriation Bills. This measure now is here upon its merits or its demerits and I hope, Gentlemen of the House, that you will not deviate from the issue, which is a compromise—whether or not it shall be passed at this session.

MR. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, I don't see how I can support this bill as it is written. It contains two propositions. One is whether we shall have a constitutional convention? It would favor that if that was the sole purpose of it. Another proposition is to couple it with the proposition of having candidates for election to this Constitutional Convention, in the same election. You bring in the part here that it seems to me could work very harmfully. In referring to the Constitutional Convention of 1873, as it appears in Smull's Handbook, page 261, we find that there were two separate propositions before that Convention and the question was submitted to the people in 1872 and approved by the people on April 11 by a good vote. Then the Constitutional Convention was held later and delegates were elected. If the measures were separated so that we could have a vote on the main proposition without any reference to the candidates for delegates to this Convention I would favor the bill. It seems to me that it would be a bad proposition the way it is put before us at this time.

Mr. HUMES. Mr. Speaker, It is very gratifying to hear the remarks upon that particular phase of this bill to some of us on this side of the House. I may say that that is the only feature of this bill that we at this time have no objection to and from the first we undertook to convince the legislative committee of the party of the gentleman who has just spoken of to recede from his position—from the position of the election of delegates at the same time. The legislative committee of the party I have the honor of belonging undertook to convince the Republican legislative committee that that was the correct position but we failed in that. On the other proposition, we agreed and the Republican legislative committee agreed and it is very gratifying now to know that the members of the other side of the House at least at the eleventh hour agree with us in our contention as to the method of calling this Convention and as to the election of delegates. I would say to the gentlemen from Tioga that it would be a very great pleasure for us if he would incorporate that amendment to-day and to secure its addition to this bill, so as to provide that the question of holding a Constitutional Convention could be submitted to the people at the time of the holding of the primary election and let the delegates be elected at the general election. If the gentleman will make such an amendment as that I will be delighted to have it incorporated in the bill.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, this bill comes before the House in rather a peculiar way. It was referred to one Committee in the House and then referred back to another Committee and it was in this form when it left the first Committee. We have it here now as it is and I agree with my colleagues that the bill is not in proper form. In addition to that I have not heard of a single one of my constituents that I have in my county, requesting a new Constitution. I have been appealed to by some of the older citizens, and some of our best lawyers regardless of party that this bill should not pass. It has been brought out as one feature about this bill and a number of its friends here in the House and possibly some of their constituents at home, one point that seems apparent in the turbulent political condition of our State to-day, the many prospective and reprospective office holders: there is not enough offices to go around. We like to see ambitious American citizens, especially in the old Keystone State of Pennsylvania, but I think it is a very dangerous proposition to gratify the ambition of these coming prospective members of the Constitutional Convention and take risks on the unsettled condition of affairs at the present time. I don't know whether my friends here in the House have been appealed to by their constituents but outside of some notices in the press and the impulse that it received here in the House, I have heard no demand whatever for a Constitutional Convention. I don't know what kind of a Constitution we would make if we had just about the same sort of situation as we have at present, as we have in this House. I don't know just what everybody would want—but would they want it? I think it would look like a crazy quilt. I hope the members of this House will vote against this bill. Let it come up again when we have a more clear political atmosphere and a condition of affairs that we know now exists all over this nation at this time. I am in favor of voting to refer this bill to the Committee on Appropriations.

The SPEAKER. The motion is on the question of re-referring this bill to the Committee on Appropriations.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the motion?

The motion was not agreed to.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I move to recommit the bill to the Committee on Constitutional Reform.

Mr. RAMSEY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I am frank to say that I do not fully understand all that is in this bill. I should not, perhaps make such an excuse to the House. I realize that it is a bill of great importance, a bill that should be thoroughly understood, thoroughly threshed out before it is submitted, not in the sense that the proposition is one that needs so much thought, but in the sense that a bill that implies so much should be thoroughly and carefully prepared and thoroughly understood. In the first place, I differ most widely with a proposition carrying what I consider so much unnecessary expense. That is one of the first propositions that ought to be considered. That of course means whether the body composing the constitutional convention shall be 165 or a smaller number. That should be thoroughly considered and thoroughly discussed before the measure is passed. Now, then, to my mind, this bill should have some consideration. My friend from Philadelphia says it is simply upon a proposition of whether we need a reformed constitution, or a change of our constitution, or, in other words, a new constitution. In that sense of course we all have heard it, but in the sense that we do not thoroughly understand what we are voting on here today, I don't think we understand it, and I think this bill should be recommitted to the Committee on Constitutional Reform. I am frank to say that I have watched the bulletin board, being anxious to get before the Committee, but being a member of so many other committees, I was unable to be present, although I would have made a point to be there if I had noticed it on the bulletin board. No doubt it was there—I am not casting any reflection against the Chairman of the Committee whatever—but I was as anxious to appear in committee on this proposition as any matter that has been in the Legislature, and I do feel that this bill should be recommitted to the Committee on Constitutional Reform. We have seen meetings held here when people from all over the State were here on propositions that did not involve one-hundredth part of the importance of this; yet, here is a bill that has not been discussed in detail at all. I think the House should re-refer this bill back to the Committee on Constitution Reform. In the meantime, study the bill, get acquainted with it and come before the Committee on Constitutional Reform and let us have your views. I quite agree with the gentleman from Tioga; this proposition strikes me as a sensible and proper one, and one that will make this a clear bill, and one which when carried out will make this a much more carefully and much more wisely prepared bill. I hope you will refer this bill to the Committee on Constitutional Reform.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I see no reason why this bill should be re-referred again. If my recollection serves me rightly in relation to the bill, it was introduced at an early date, some weeks ago. It was referred for consideration. In due time it was reported out, came up on the third reading calendar, was postponed or re-referred to the committee, came up again and then went on the postponed calendar and has been there since. Now, so far as the bill itself is concerned, it seems to me that every member of this House had had an opportunity to investigate carefully the merits or the demerits of this bill. I confess that I have not put the amount of study on the bill that perhaps many members of the House have put on it, because of the fact that I had confidence in the ability of the sponsor of the bill who prepared it, and of the committee to whose hands it was referred, to see that the bill was in proper form and met with its approval. It has been stated here that there are objections to this bill. I do not question for one minute, Mr. Speaker, but that any bill that might call for a constitutional convention would meet with objection on the floor of this House. The hue and cry has been raised by members who have raised their voices against this bill that there is no need of the double-barreled action, or the double action purpose of the bill. Time and time again, as we have listened to matters proposing changes in laws and the Constitution upon the floor of this House, have we heard the complaint made that it took four years within which to put in operation some constitutional provision. Seven years ago, on account of contemplated improvements to be made for the western end of the State, or rather for the entire State at the western end of the State, and at the eastern end of the State for the entire State, the legal minds who were consulted found that in order to put in operation these contemplated changes, it was necessary to change the Constitution and, as a matter of fact, those questions have lain in abeyance from then until now and will until such constitutional provisions shall have been made, thus allowing the laws to be placed upon the statute books which will carry into operation those changes.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I admit that since this wonderful landslide that was made in Pennsylvania at the November election, I was for a time somewhat disturbed in mind as to whether or not a statement that I had made to my constituents prior to the primary of last year should stand. At that time one of the suggestions with which I went before my people was for a new and up-to-date Constitution. While that did not embody or did not say in words a constitutional convention, in brief it meant such. I was fearful after the election and for some time after that the political temper of the people at this time would not justify us, as members of this legislative body, to place in their hands so great a change now. The more I have seen of the operation of this Legislature, the more I am convinced that everyone who is here is here for the interests and the best interests of this Commonwealth as he sees it; the more I am convinced that now and now alone is the time. And, as I read this bill, it seems to me, Mr. Speaker, that the very objection which has been raised to our present Constitution by the members of this and previous bodies is fully answered and fully covered in this bill. Instead of taking four long years within which to put in operation a constitutional amendment, under the provisions of this bill a double question is submitted, and unless the first question stands naturally the second question falls. The first question is whether or not there shall be a constitutional convention, and the second question is, if there be a constitutional convention, who shall be the delegates to that convention; both questions, however, being decided at one and the same time. If, at the election, at which this question shall be submitted to the people, the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania say "nay", then and in that event there is no election of delegates, however many votes any one man may receive, because there is no call for those gentlemen to assemble. The people have said that they shall not assemble for that purpose.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. ALLEN. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman whether this bill provides that, in case the people vote "no" for a constitutional convention, the delegates who have been elected shall not be paid.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I take it that the proposition is so simple that it needs no answer. In the first place, the question is, what is the purpose of the delegates who shall be elected by the people? One proposition and one proposition alone; namely, to assemble and hold a constitutional convention. But, if the people by the same vote say that they do not want a constitutional convention, it makes no difference whether the gentleman from Allegheny who resides in my senatorial district receives ten votes to his opponent's one, he is not a delegate to any constitutional convention, because of the fact that no constitutional convention will be held. But, if at that election the people of Pennsylvania say, we want a constitutional convention, then and in that case by their action they breathe into his body as a delegate a living spirit and he becomes a delegate to that constitutional convention. The point I desire to make is simply this: If the people of Pennsylvania want a constitutional convention, if this General Assembly desires to carry out its expressed purposes and the expressed purposes of the people who sent us here to submit to them that great question, then and in that event, by the provisions of this bill, which have been so wisely and so broadly drawn, that constitutional convention and the effect of that constitution is creating, making and putting it into operation, is just advanced two years by the provisions of this bill. In any event, Mr. Speaker, as I see this matter, and I have given it more thought and more careful consideration in the last two or three weeks than in all the time before, it does seem to me that this House, Democrats, Stalwart Republicans, if there be any left, and we ask Progressive Republicans and everybody ought to be in favor of this bill.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I again call the attention of the House to the fact that this bill provides for the election of three persons at a salary of $1500 per, and delegates at large. We will hold an election. We will elect them into office and, if there is no convention held, can they claim their salaries? I say that that very portion of the bill, when considered, shows that it has not been well considered, and it shows the necessity of placing an amendment in the bill so that there can be no doubt as to that proposition. There is nothing plainer to my mind in this bill than that very fact. It is there, so that if the gentlemen's desire to hold this constitutional convention is approved by the people, this proposition then stands alone and by itself, and the bill should so provide that in case no convention is held the State Treasurer will be protected. But the proposition of electing a man to office at $1500 per is another proposition that stands by itself and no legal proposition should arise afterwards as to whether they can collect this money. I say there is a cloud on this bill and that cloud should be removed. The gentlemen who are in favor of this bill certainly ought to allow it. There is no harm in it, at least there is no harm in making the statute plain. There should be no doubt about the proposition. Therefore, I think the House should recommit this bill to the Committee on Constitutional Reform.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentlemen from Delaware if an office were created for a keeper of the Zoological Gardens at Harrisburg, wherein his duties were specified and his salary was fixed, his duties being fully set out in the bill, and then no Zoological Gardens were made at Harrisburg, would the office be filled and would the Zoological Garden keeper collect his fees or not.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, so far as monstrosities that generally appear in Zoological displays are concerned, I have no knowledge an consequently cannot make the application; but can say this, and every member of the House will agree with me, that it is not unusual in a great many of the large States like Pennsylvania, to have men drawing salaries for office in which there is nothing whatever to perform.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. NORTH. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, during the discussion of this measure a statement was made that it is not unusual to pass measures carrying appropriations without referring them to the Appropriations Committee. For information I would like to have the benefit of knowing if very many appropriations of $450,000.00 are passed over without the benefit of the Appropriations Committee having a knowledge thereof. It seems to me it is going to place the Appropriations Committee in a very embarrassing position when it comes to disbursing the funds of the State.

Mr. WATSON. Mr. Speaker, I am willing and will support the bill permitting the people to vote for or against the proposition of the Convention but I am opposed to a bill that decides who the delegates shall be and whether or not we shall have a constitutional convention. Now we can figure the scene without any trouble whatever. We all know that there will be a number of bright and ambitious citizens who would be very exceedingly anixous to be members of that Constitutional Convention. They would all take to the woods and would all be in favor of new Constitution and would canvass the district from one end to the other. First let us vote on the question of having the Constitutional Convention and then we can attend to the delegates. Let us decide on the Constitutional Convention and then authorize the election of delegates, and I will support it. but to mill it through in this way. when there is practically no demand on the part of the people whatever, it is a mistake, and I hope the members of this House will not support it.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House. I hope that this motion to refer this bill back to the Committee on Constitutional Reform will not prevail. The issue is clearly before the House and the bill is here, as I said before, on its merits and demerits. Let us find out the feeling of this House on this legislation. It is legislation pledged by all three of the parties, by the Wshington party, by the Democratic party and the Republican party. This bill has been the compromise bill of the three bills coming from those three parties, the Humes bill of the Democratic party, this bill of the Republican party and the bill of Mr. Grey, of Philadelphia, representing his political leading. Those three bills were moulded into one bill. To send this bill back to Committee is dodging the question. I hope this motion will not prevail and that we will meet the issue on the bill.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker, I understood the gentleman to say that the Democrats were pledged to a bill of this kind.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker. I said the Democratic Legislative Committee prepared the Humes bill and it was incorporated along with the others. in this compromise bill.

Mr. JOSEPH GRAY. Mr. Speaker I want to say, so that the gentleman will not misunderstand me, that not all the Democrats on this side of the House subscribed to a so-called leadership—I am referring to no particular persons—and that they are not all in favor of this bill.

Mr. ULERICH. Mr. Speaker, and Gentlemen of the House, my vote is governed on this bill in two ways. If I know the way in which my constituency is thinking and the way in which they want me to vote, that is the way in which I vote. If I do not know, then I vote the way in which my best judgment tells me to vote. In the county from which I come I have not had one letter of one statement in favor of this Constitutional Convention,—not one; and I come from a County that is progressive; and when I am by myself and studying my own mind, I think I am progressive myself; but I am not in favor of this amendment or this Constitutional Convention, simply because my constituency is not in favor of it and I feel that they are in favor of voting this proposition down. Therefore, so far as my own individual vote is concerned, representing one of the best Counties in this State and representing the County that gave to Theodore Roosevelt a thousand or two thousand more votes than it gave to William Howard Taft, and I shall vote against this proposition.

Mr. ROCKWELL. Mr. Speaker, there is another thought that comes to me since we have been discussing this, and that is this: This bill provides that in every Senatorial district there shall be three delegates elected to this Constitutional Convention. Suppose the question comes up and you have three candidates in a Senatorial district who favor the Constitutional Convention, and you have three candidates who are opposed to it. The result might happen that the State might vote for the Constitutional Convention and three delegates may be elected who are bitterly and absolutely opposed to it. and they might come to the Constitutional Convention and use every effort and means and influences in their power to thwart the will of the people. It seems to me the proposition should be separated.

Mr. McCLINTOCK. Mr. Speaker, I am in favor of submitting to the people whether they shall or shall not desire a Constitutional Convention. but I am not in favor of a method of doing it which is constituted in this bill whereby the delegates are to be elected at the same election as the issue is to be presented to the people. I am a Washington party man and believe in submitting all these questions to the people when they so desire it. I have had no claim from any of my constituency asking for me to support this Constitutional Convention, and personally I am opposed to it myself, but as I belong to a party which has put it in their platform that they want to submit this issue to the people, I am willing to support it in this House and give the people the opportunity; but when I go back home I will oppose it. I believe the constitution that we have at the present time can be amended to come to the requirements of this State, and if we open it up at this time we will then have to wait for twenty-five or thirty years, before we understand it. Again, I think we are making a mistake. It has taken twenty-five years to have the present constitution defined by the Supreme Court and I suppose that the new constitution would not be any better gotten up than the last one and we would have the same trouble over again. Personally I am opposed to it. I am in favor of submitting the question to the people, but not in favor of electing the delegates to the Convention at the same election, because it would be unfair to the issue before the people. You would have a scramble for office for delegates the same as in any election and I say it would be unfair to the issue of for or against having a Constitutional Convention. I cannot vote for this bill as at present constituted.

Mr. SCHUCK. Mr. Speaker, I feel from the sentiments expressed here, coming from the members on the other side and members of the Republican and Washington parties, that this bill should be referred to the Committee on Constitutional Reform and the question divided and that would be my hope and I will support the submission of this question to the Committee. I want to call the attention of the rural members to the fact that this provides for representation of three delegates from each Senatorial district and fifteen delegates at large. You take the Senatorial districts in the first class cities and with the delegates at large they would have practically a majority of this Constitutional Convention. I am not attacking first class cities; but you know that the balance of power has got to be held and it may be by the few who wish by the vehicle of the Constitutional Convention to wheel themselves into the limelight. Are our rural counties going to take a chance like that with the 15 delegates at large elected. If these 15 delegates at large are elected from the cities where they have three delegates from each Senatorial district they will have nearly the majority of the Convention. I think this question should be divided and the only way it can be divided is to refer it back to the committee but there may be some doubt as to the propriety of whether to refer it back to the Committee on Constitutional Reform and possibly some of the very people that prevented other bills in that Committee from being considered may vote to prevent it form being referred to that committee, because they may want self make it and make it according to orders.

Mr. McALEER. Mr. Speaker, in listening to the arguments on this bill it strikes me that it would be well to follow the old adage and "strike while the iron is hot." Most of the arguments against the passage of this bill, appear to be arguments in favor of its passage. The question of the various parties being committed to this kind of a measure brings to mind the fact that all the parties are on their good behavior and while in that condition of mind, it seems to me to be the very best time to put this question to a vote of the people and perhaps delegates would be elected who would give the people a good constitution. It does not follow that because a Constitutional Convention is to be called that the whole of the old constitution is to be entirely thrown out. It is simply that it will be amended to meet modern conditions. We in Philadelphia need to do things for the present wants of the people which we do not feel like waiting four or five years for and I think that every member from Philadelphia should use his influence and vote for the holding of the Constitutional Convention and not divide the question up so as to take four or five years to accomplish something which may be accomplished in much sooner time by the methods proposed in this bill.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, the question before us to-day has given me long study. I have long deliberated on whether or not the question of having a Constitutional Convention would be to the best interests of those whom I represent; not that I don't feel that the people should have a right to say as to whether or not there should be a Constitutional Convention, but far rather at times from a selfish point of view taking into consideration the great benefit that the laboring element of the State of Pennsylvania might derive from the Constitutional Convention. After deliberating on this question and considering the question very seriously, I have come to the conclusion that the best thing to do would be for me to get in touch with those men who represent labor in various parts of the State, with the consequence that their answer to me on the 18th day of December last, was that they as a representative body in the State, representing the workers of the State of Pennsylvania, have placed themselves on record in favor of calling a Constitutional Convention. For that reason, Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I believe I am justified in standing here to-day and advocating the Constitutional Convention, because I know that laborers are desirous of having changes made in the constitution that may be of benefit to them. I now speak for a body of men who have a bureau here in Harrisburg, representing the laboring class throughout the State. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I hope this bill will not be referred to any other Committee but that we act on it here to-day and pass it in the present State.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that the reference of this bill to the Committee gives the opportunity of separating the two propositions. They now stand coupled together. Many members of this House will no doubt vote against this bill because of the form in which it is now. I believe it should be separated because it is important and of vital importance whether the proposition of whether or not there should be a Constitutional Convention should be submitted to the people. I think that that proposition should be approved by this legislature; in other words, I believe that we should, as far as we are able, give our voice in favor of again having this proposition taken up and considered. We will now pass it over to the people. By separating the questions that proposition stands alone.

I want to call the attention of my friend, (Mr. Piper) that he has now spoken in favor of the Constitutional Convention but he has not answered the proposition coupled up with that proposition. Now I hope the House will refer the bill back to the Committee so that every member of the House can stand squarely on the record as to whether or not he wants this question submitted to the people and then the question of the manner and the number and the expense of that proposition shall stand alone by itself and be met by this House. Now it certainly is wise and the proper thing to have this question divided. I do not care whether it be divided by postponement for the present, or whether it be divided by referring it back to the Committee. My judgment is that referring it back to the Committee is the wiser course. The question is whether you want to anticipate it as now proposed or divide the question. I think we ought to vote aye on the proposition to refer it back to the Committee and let the question be divided.

Mr. GIBSON. Mr. Speaker, there is one proposition that I would like to call to the attention of the House which would seem to favor the proposition of referring this bill back to the committee. If this bill passes in its present form, the people will vote for or against the matter of having a Constitutional Convention and at the same time will be voting for delegates. At previous times when this matter was before the voters, the matter of determining whether or not we want a Constitutional Convention was decided not upon the merits of the question, but upon the candidate who presented himself to the voters. It seems to me that the matter could best stand by itself, and should not be involved by the candidacy of any man who comes up as a delegate. It might appear that there were certain ulterior motives at work, certain people trying to control the delegates, and it seems to me that the matter of whether or not we want a Constitutional Convention would stand a lot better show if it stood on its owns legs. For that reason I would like to see this bill referred back to the Committee.

Mr. RONEY. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, it seems to me that the question of whether or not a convention shall be held and the election of delegates to that convention are separable propositions and plainly If you will look at Bill No. 253, relating to the manner of conducting the elections on the question of whether or not a convention shall be held, the matter is very simply set out. Opposite the shall, shall the convention be called, is the word "yes" against which the voter shall make his mark, if he desires that a Constitutional Convention be called. If he does not desire a convention he places his mark opposite the word "no." Of course, if this bill to-day goes through, then the bill regulating the method of holding the elections will come up for the consideration of the House. It is a preposterous idea that you would have delegates elected to the convention, who were opposed to the convention. You would only be voting for those delegates who, of course, are in favor of a Constitutional Convention, otherwise they would not be candidates for the position of delegates to that convention, and it seems to me that this thing is just as separable and just as divided as we can ever make it. The important matter in this bill is if we are going to have a convention, and if the people decide it, then we shall forthwith have it. We have heard a great deal about "Shall the People rule?" and we are putting that proposition up to the people just as plainly as we can, and for the reason that if the people to decide to have the Constitutional Convention, then we have the manner of holding it, and

I think, gentlemen, that answers absolutely the objection of my friend from Delaware and my friend from Tioga, because if Bill 253 is taken up after this bill, then all their objections disappear. I think, therefore, that Bill No. 252, standing to-day as it does, merits the support of every man in the House. The Constitution of Pennsylvania is forty years old. In twenty years tremendous strides have been made, and it appears to me that the organic law of forty years ago might very well be considered by a convention in sober deliberation, and say whether or not after forty years, the old Constitution of 'Seventy-three might not very well be changed. I was in the Legislature last session, and I think there were three amendments proposed to the constitution. I think in this session there are already three proposed amendments. It takes five years to have a change in the Constitution made, and at each session of which I have been a member there have been suggested changes, and I think we might very well now consider the question of whether or not a change shall be made, and to provide the machinery whereby, if a change is desired, we may have it without any undue delay.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I think the gentleman from Philadelphia who has just spoken, has stated the pith of this question. If we would do as the gentleman from Delaware asks we would have to put this question up to the people as to whether or not they wanted a constitutional convention, or else have a special election, which would cost several hundred thousands of dollars. This question was the subject of various bills and the bill in its present form is a compromise bill. At first it was suggested that the vote for the cconstitutional convention be had at the primary election, and then at the general election to vote for the delegates. This was objected to by some people because a great many citizens do not go to the primaries, and the vote would not be the real expression of the people. Then the question arose as to whether or not we would have the constitutional convention matter disposed of at the next election, and then hold a special election for the election of delegates, and the objection to that was the expense of the holding of a special election. Then the question arose whether the constitutional convention matter could be brought up at one November election and the election of delegates to come up at the next November election, and the delay that we were trying to escape would be in the same position as it is now. It was after great thought and great consideration by gentlemen who had given their time and attention and study to this bill that the bill was presented to the Legislature in its present form When the present bill was sent into the Committee, the Republican Party and the Democratic Party and the Washington Party and all of them conceded certain things. The Republican Party asked for a Commission and the Democratic Party opposed it, and it was conceded to them. The Republican representatives in their non-partizan ballot asked for the election of three delegates. This was opposed by the minority party, and was conceded to them by the Republicans. This bill has not been the result of a haphazard proposition. It has been the result of months of study. It is not a bill of any one member of this House. There is no one who seeks to have it as a bill of any one member, but it is a bill of the citizenship of the Commonwealth. I hope, Mr. Speaker, that the question as to whether or not this matter should go to the Committee be put to the House and be voted down, and let us act on the merits of this bill, to which nearly every member in this House is pledged, either by his platform, or written pledge to his party.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the House, I must insist that the gentleman from Philadelphia ————

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I do not like to stop any gentleman from speaking on any legislation, but it seems to me that the gentlemen from Delaware has gone way beyond the rules. He has spoken on this subject about five times and considerable latitude has been shown him, otherwise I would utter no objection.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the attention of the House to what I said at first, which has not yet been answered by either of the gentlemen from Philadelphia who have spoken here. The two questions here are as plain as the noon-day sun. The propositions in this bill that are given to the members on this floor are as to the question of a constitutional convention and the other question is as to the election of delegates. It has been stated on this floor that the members are willing that the question should be submitted to the people. And the question of the delegates will come immediately afterwards. If the two propositions are divided, they will come out of the Committee together and we can consider each one separately, and each question will stand fairly by itself. As it is now, they are coupled together. If those who are in favor of the constitutional convention are in earnest about it, let them separate the two questions, because there is a contention and a difference. Their position at the present time in my judgment indicates a doubt as to whether they are sincerely in favor of it. Those asking for a division are in favor of it

Mr. STEELE. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me to be very inconsistent on the part of some of the members of this House in standing up here this morning and speaking on Progressive politics, especially after what has transpired in the last two or three weeks. As stated by the gentleman from Philadelphia, the Republican Party and the Progressive Republicans are pledged to support this amendment, but it seems to me that we are not pledged a constitutional convention such as is called for by this bill. The gentleman from Philadelphia has tried to make us believe here this morning that we should vote on this bill to give the people an opportunity of stating whether or not they want this convention, and the number of electors and the names. Now gentlemen this is progressive legislation in regard to voting whether or not this convention is to be held, but I think this designating scheme that is placed here before us this morning is not right. I am in favor of the convention but not in favor of electing this electors at this time, and this bill should be put back to the Committee in which the Speaker of this House placed it some months ago, and should not have been sent to the Judiciary Special Committee. There should be no compromise bills placed before this House. A bill should come up here on its merits or demerits and be voted for or against and no compromise should be allowed by any members be allowed by any members of this House, be they progressive or not progressive.

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

A division was called for, and fifty-eight members voted in the affirmative and one hundred and twenty-four in the negative, and the motion to recommit was not agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken.

The SPEAKER. The roll will be verified.

This was done as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE.

J. B. MARTIN. I vote "no" on this bill for a Constitutional Convention because of the indefinite manner in which this bill has been drawn. As a Washington Party member, I favor referring the proposition, as to whether a Constitutional Convention shall be held or not, to the people, but I do not favor the election of delegates at the same election. I object to electing me to any such position and drawing salaries before such positions have been created.

Mr. ULMAN. I vote "no" on Bill No. 252 because I believe it should first be submitted to the voice of the people if they desire to have a Constitutional Convention before such a bill as this should be enacted into a law, and inasmuch that it carries too large and appropriation it carry it into effect.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT: Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time, House Bill No. 253, which is a companion bill of the bill that has just been passed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on Final passage of House Bill No. 253, as follows:

An Act regulating the manner of conducting any election at which the question of holding a constitutional convention is to be submitted to the electors at the same time that delegates to such a convention are to be elected

Section 1. Ballots.
Section 2. Election Officers Manner of Conducting Elections.
Section 3. Proclamation of the Result of Elections.
Section 4. Provision of Supplies.
Section 5. Additional Clerks.
Section 6. Notice of Elections.
Section 7. Payment of Expenses.
